BULLETIN.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

BERLIN, Aug. 3.—The Polish army is mounting artillery on the Russian border in the neighborhood of Baranowitchi to prevent hordes of starving Russians from the famine regions from invading Poland, according to a semi-official statement here this morning. It is estimated that 100,000 famine victims are massed on the Polish border.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Conditions in Russia, which the United States is preparing to alleviate unofficially through the American relief organization in Europe, have been brought about through the complete collapse of industry and production under the soviet régime.

Reports from reliable sources to Mr. Hoover show in striking figures Russia's economic plight.

Industrial production during the year 1920 in percentages, compared to pre-war output, was as follows:

	Per cent.		Per cent.
Pig iron	2	Paper industry	20
Copper ore	0.6	Sugar industry	5
Iron ore	2	Printing	15
Manganese ore	2.6	Production coal	20
Oil	15	Cotton spindle operating	3
Rubber industry	5	Woolen cloth	4
Textile industry	15

Volga District Worst.

Before undertaking to reply to Maxim Gorky's appeal for relief to the starving Russians, Mr. Hoover took occasion to inquire closely into actual conditions and reports received indicate that the most acute famine area covers the Volga valley from the Caspian sea northward.

The drought in this area would not be of such fatal character but for the general decadence of agriculture, the reduction of surplus in other regions, and in the decay of transportation, rendering most difficult the movement of such local surpluses as do still exist.

Money Is Worthless.

The urban population has produced little goods to offer in exchange, and the currency depreciation through the increase of currency issues to over 1,900,000,000 rubles has rendered their accumulation no attraction. From these causes Russia, before even last year's harvest, had declined from a state producing from six to ten million tons of food for export to a condition where there was such an insufficient supply of food for the cities that the urban population has been reduced by about one-half.

An indication of diminished grain crops in 1921 is offered by the quantities estimated to be requisitioned as taxes by the soviet government. The total amount for all soviet Russia, except the Ukraine and Turkestan, is 4,220,000 tons of grain, as against 7,614,000 tons in 1920.

Can't Transport Surpluses.

There has been such deterioration of transportation that there is doubt as to ability to move the local surpluses that do exist in the richer grain producing provinces in Siberia to those areas which normally depend upon them. The Volga region is even less accessible to transport of relief from abroad through the seaports than from Siberia.

The decadence in fat production is even more general and more acute than breadstuffs owing to the requisition of animals and the diversion of animal feeds to breadstuffs. Consequently children are suffering more acutely in many sections than adults.

The state department had confirmation today of the soviet action in agreeing to release all Americans retained or imprisoned in Russia as a condition for receiving unofficial relief from America, but has not learned of the actual release of the Americans.

LOOT TOWN FOR FOOD

[Chicago Tribune-New York Times Cable.]
[Copyright: 1921.]

RIGA, Aug. 2.—Local papers reproduce from the Moscow Isvestia the following story of panic scenes at the town of Tambov:

"Tambov was invaded a few days ago by a maddened crowd of tens of thousands of fugitives from the surrounding country. They brushed aside the Red troops and pillaged the shops in search of food. That exhausted, they fell like wild beasts upon horses of cabs, fire engines and street cars, and glutted their hunger with the raw meat."

SWEET BILL TO AID VETERANS UP TO HARDING

House Accepts Relief Measure, 264 to 4.

The second article by Arthur M. Evans dealing with the unemployed veterans in Chicago appears on Page 5.

(By a Staff Correspondent.)

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The long fight for legislation to end the nation's shameful neglect of its disabled veterans won a victory today when congress put the final stamp of its approval on the Sweet bill.

By a vote of 264 to 4 the house agreed to the conference report on the measure, following the example set by the senate yesterday. The bill will become a law just as soon as the President signs it. An effort will be made to have it sent to him at Mount Prospect, N. H., so that he can sign it without waiting for the return to the White House.

The four votes against the conference report were cast by Representatives Hamilton Fish, New York; Rosenbloom, West Virginia; Lineberger, California, and Blanton, Texas. They opposed the conference report because the senate amendment to increase the allowance for attendance hire for totally blind ex-service men from $20 to $50 had been stricken out of the bill.

To Spend $480,000,000.

In the brief debate preceding adoption of the conference report, Representative Sweet, author of the bill, informed the house that the government would spend approximately $480,000,000 for the relief of disabled veterans during the present fiscal year. He stated that the outlay for this purpose during the fiscal year just passed was about $460,000,0000, so that the increased expenditure would be about $20,000,000. The cost of administering the act would be about $13,000,000, he estimated. This amount is included in the $480,000,000.

Representative Mondell, Republican leader, said these figures should be emphasized to the country to answer the charges that the government has neglected its world war veterans.

"Generous" Unhappy Term.

"Congress has been more generous, the nation has been more generous, than ever before in all the tides of time," said Mr. Mondell.

Representative Garrett, Tennessee, Democratic leader, called his Republican adversary sharply to account for boasting of the government's treatment of the ex-service men. Use of the word "generous" was very unhappy, Mr Garrett asserted.

Details of the Bill.

A provision of the Sweet bill establishes a veterans' bureau, headed by a director responsible directly to the President. It calls for transfer of hospitalization work now in the hands of the public health service to the veterans' bureau, along with the vocational training of ex-service men.

The bill provides the machinery for a more prompt and efficient adjustment of compensation claims, and aims to liberalize the governmental policy toward the ex-service men.

WILSON AGAIN SAID TO BE FRIEND OF COL. HOUSE

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—A report that ex-President Wilson and Col. E. M. House had "made up" their mysterious break and were now exchanging friendly letters has been in circulation around Washington for several days.

There does not appear, however, to be any definite information. Mr. Wilson has declined to make any public comment since he left the White House. Joseph P. Tumulty, his former secretary, still close to the ex-president, says he knows nothing about it.

Others who may be presumed to be in Mr. Wilson's confidence deny emphatically that there was ever a real breach between him and Col. House.

BANDIT IS SHOT FLEEING WITH GIRLS IN AUTO

After a thrilling chase down Sheridan road and the firing of half a hundred revolver shots, one of two auto bandits was shot through both lungs last night by a policeman at Greenleaf avenue and Sheridan road.

He is at Alexian Brothers' hospital and physicians believe he will not live. He is said to be Edward Clark, 711 Cass street.

Ardner Babcock and Peggy Evers, both of 749 Cass street, the latter a show girl, are being held by the Rogers Park police.

The men had stolen an auto and held up a man in Evanston and were escaping sixty miles an hour when Motorcycle Policeman Frank Schaefer gave pursuit. They fired on Schaefer. He fired back. At Greenleaf avenue the auto ran into a tree. Policeman George Schwennson, Martin O'Malley, and George Trauster of the Rogers Park station hurried up just as Clark was about to shoot Schaefer. It was Schwennson who fired.

SENATOR FRANCE LAYS REVOLT TO RED CROSS CHIEF

RIGA, Aug. 2.—[By the Associated Press.]—Prior to his departure for Berlin last night, Senator Joseph I. France of Maryland personally accused Dr. Edward W. Ryan, American Red Cross commissioner in the Baltic states, of having instigated the revolt at Kronstadt last winter. Thereupon Dr. Ryan expressed his opinion of the senator's credence in what Dr. Ryan termed bolshevik reports and of the senator's dealings with the bolsheviki in general.

When questioned today concerning the incident, Dr. Ryan said:

"The charge is ridiculous. The senator must have been raving."

American official representatives here also said today that the accusation was absolutely without basis in fact.

It is understood that Senator France invited Dr. Ryan to his room and abruptly made his accusation and added that the bolshevik foreign office had promised to furnish him proof of the charge. Senator France is said to have declared he would renew this charge in the United States senate.

Ribbon Saves Girl from Drowning, Makes Boy Hero

Kenosha, Wis., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—A bright colored hair ribbon saved the life of 5 year old Margaret Patterson of Benld, Ill., here today and made 9 year old Jimmy Easton a hero. The girl, wading in Pine Creek, went in over her head. The boy saw a little piece of ribbon in the circling waters. He grabbed it and then later the girl's hair and pulled her out of the water.

BANDIT CAPTOR WINS HERO PRIZE

Tribune July Award Goes to Policeman O'Connor.

Patrolman Joseph O'Connor of the Warren avenue station, led the police department in point of personal bravery during the month of July. He was notified yesterday that he will receive the $100 prize awarded monthly by THE TRIBUNE.

"Patrolman O'Connor showed great courage and headwork," said Capt. Charles M. Atkinson in making his official report to Chief Fitzmorris. "He did not wait for reinforcements although he knew there were two of the holdup men, both armed with revolvers."

Goes on Their Trail.

The hero for July was at Van Buren street and Kedzie avenue about 1 a. m., on July 13, when he was notified by Edward Johnson, 2316 Jackson boulevard, that his automobile had been held up and he and a girl friend robbed at Madison and Central Park avenue.

O'Connor entered the auto with Johnson and another friend, took off his uniform coat and cap and told Johnson to drive around in search of the robbers. They saw them at Central Park and Fifth avenues. They were about twenty-five feet apart and as O'Connor leaped from the car and ordered them to throw up their hands, the nearer one compiled, but the second reached for his revolver.

Firing first at the man further from him, O'Connor turned to see the first one trying to draw a weapon and fired at him, and, reversing his "gun," hit this fellow on the head with the butt of it. Four shots were fired by the second man and he escaped.

But O'Connor's prisoner proved to be Albert Johnson, a man with a long record, who confessed that he committed the holdup with which he was charged.

Honorable Mention for Seven.

Honorable mention also has been given to other members of the city department, as follows:

Probationary Patrolman George R. Higgins—Stopped and arrested three suspects, one of whom, James Adams, carried a loaded revolver and forty-one extra shells.

Sergt. John C. Sloop—Arrested Edward Bresnahan, a holdup man out on $20,000 bonds, in a drug store at Halsted and 63th streets. Bresnahan had a revolver in his hand at the time.

Patrolman Joseph A. Riehling—Caught a runaway horse by boarding a street car, from the front step of which he was able to reach the bridle of the animal as it raced by him.

Patrolman Michael J. Curtin—Rescued two women from a burning building at 4626 South Wabash avenue.

Saves Girl from Drowning.

Patrolman Michael J. Dever—Rescued Miss Ilka Makoto from drowning at the foot of North Shore avenue.

Two members of the Lincoln park police force, Motorcycle Policemen George Johnstone and Otto Weber, who previously have been mentioned in THE TRIBUNE awards, again are given honorable mention for excellent work during July. On the morning of July 23 Johnstone leaped from his machine to the running board of a racing automobile and captured the two occupants, who, it was found, had stolen it.

ARKANSAS RIVER FLOODS AGAIN PERIL COLORADO

Pueblo, Colo., Aug. 2.—Reports from the west are to the effect that the Arkansas river at Canon City is the highest ever known at that place. It was reported that the water was fifteen feet high at Canon City and at Florence the cellars in the town were filled with water.

Western Union officials here declared that water is running three feet over the railroad track in the Royal Gorge. Telephone and telegraph communication with Canon City is down and definite information concerning the situation there is unobtainable. Canon City is thirty-five miles west of Pueblo.

CARUSO DIES WHEN HEALTH SEEMS REWON

Last Interview Is to The Tribune.

NAPLES, Italy, Aug. 2.—[By the sociated Press.]—Enrico Caruso died today. The great singer, whose ultimate recovery had been hoped for under the benign influences of his own Italy, died early this morning at the Hotel Vesuvius in this city.

Caruso had been brought here hurriedly from Sorrento, on the Bay of Naples, where less than a week ago he avowed his returning strength and expressed the conviction that he would sing again as in the old days. He had been able to visit the famous sanctuary of Our Lady of Pompeii, giving thanks offering for his recovery.

Was Confident of Health.

Caruso went also to the island of Capri, where he attended a luncheon in his honor, but soon afterward unfavorable symptoms, in the form of a high fever, manifested themselves, and his wife telegraphed to a Roman specialist to come to Sorrento; it was then discovered that a new internal abscess had developed.

Caruso's removal to Rome for an operation was advised, but he showed such weakness that it was impossible to transfer him further than Naples, where he arrived by sea Sunday evening. Four eminent physicians were called in consultation, and their examination showed the presence of a subphrenic abscess, accompanied by severe peritonitis.

Death Comes Suddenly.

An operation to be performed at noon today was decided upon, but the patient's condition became suddenly worse at 4:30 in the morning. He died soon afterward. Prior to that, heart stimulation was resorted to hourly.

In order that Caruso should not tire himself, the attending physicians ordered him not to speak, so during his last night he uttered no word. Of the members of his family present at the death bed the most pathetic was his old mother, who had always clung obstinately to her little home, despite her son's efforts to accustom her to the material comforts of life.

At his own request, Caruso's body will be embalmed, and the funeral services will be held tomorrow at the church of Santa Maria Gracia here. There will be national mourning.

HIS LAST INTERVIEW.

The Tribune received yesterday by mail what seems to have been the last interview given to a newspaper correspondent by Enrico Caruso. With the letter was a photograph, probably his latest photograph existing in America today. This photograph is printed on page 3. The interview shows the hope that still flamed in the singer's breast, his intentions of coming to America, and his deep love of his family.

SORRENTO, July 19.—[By letter.]—"I shall sing when I wish—where I wish, and what I wish," declared Enrico Caruso, the world's most famous tenor, to the representative of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE, who called on him at the Hotel Vittoria. "No one is forcing me to sing at any specified time and the moment when I shall sing again just depends upon when I think I have recovered sufficient strength after my illness. I am gaining strength and weight every day. Two weeks ago I was flabby. Now my muscles are firm. Those who say that I have sung my last on the operatic stage are wrong, for my voice is unimpaired."

Offers Striking Contrast.

The last time THE TRIBUNE representative had seen Caruso had been in the opera "Aida," and the warrior costumes of the Radames of Verdi's masterpiece contrasted strangely with the garb Caruso wore on the present occasion. On his head he wore a flappy duck bathing cap. A blue bathing suit, a pink and white bathrobe carelessly thrown over one shoulder, and a pair of white canvas beach shoes completed Caruso's attire. He was accompanied by Mrs. Caruso, who was formerly Miss Dorothy Benjamin of New York, and by his two intimate friends, Sig. Amedeo Canessa, antiquity collector of New York, Naples, and Paris, and Dr. Raffaele Niola of Naples.

It was the bathing hour, and the aristocratic population of Italy's most beautiful seaside resort was making its way to the water's edge. From the hotel to the beach at the bottom of the

Trace Spurgin into Mexico; Arrest Near

Warren C. Spurgin, absconding president of the wrecked Michigan Avenue Trust company, has been definitely traced to Mexico, it was learned last night.

This morning a score of picked detectives will cross the Mexican border; they expect to have him under surveillance by noon. His arrest will be delayed until negotiations for his return, already begun, are completed.

Officials of Lloyds' bonding department, who have conducted the search, last night refused to reveal his location; telegrams from the Texas border at midnight indicated the defaulter is in Chihuahua City.

Reported in Texas July 19.

Spurgin was supposed to have left Chicago on a midnight train July 17. Telegrams from El Paso yesterday stated a man answering his description arrived in Marfa, Tex., July 19.

The supposed Spurgin immediately hired an automobile and was driven to Presidio del Norte, a border mining town seventy-five miles from Marfa, by Ross Harp, a chauffeur. At Presidio del Norte this man, who carried a Mexican passport under the name of Scott, crossed the Rio Grande. Ojinaga, terminal of the Mexican line of the Kansas City, Mexico and Orient railway, was said to have been his destination. Ojinaga is forty-two kilometers from Presidio del Norte. Chihuahua City is the nearest large town to Ojinaga.

Telegram Gives Clew.

The first definite clew to this supposed journey of the missing banker came yesterday in a telegram from Marfa addressed to Bank Examiner H. S. Savage. The telegram was signed by Joe Humphreys and J. C. Claussen, constables at Marfa. It inquired the amount of the reward offered for Spurgin. In answer W. C. Bruns of Tuttle & Harding, agents for Lloyds, telegraphed an offer of $2,500.

Then came further telegrams. One said the man was under surveillance; another, from federal officials in El Paso, confirmed the story told by Harp, the chauffeur.

Picture Is Identified.

Harp, in addition to the description, identified Spurgin from a newspaper picture as the man he had driven across the border. Inquiry at Marfa brought further confirmation from persons who saw the man leave the train there.

Military and civilian authorities on both sides of the Rio Grande have been warned to be on the lookout for the fugitive. El Paso police are watching all trains and guarding both international bridges, but it is believed certain Spurgin has escaped into the Mexican interior.

Loss May Total $1,124,363.

Spurgin's operations may cost the Michigan Avenue Trust company $1,124,363.87, according to the report completed yesterday by Bank Examiner Savage. It is hoped, however, that this sum may be reduced by the determination of the value of loans, bonds, and stocks now listed as doubtful.

At the close of business on July 20 last, Spurgin had the bank's books in perfect balance. In his showing of assets, however, he had included items totaling $1,595,495.70, which the examiner now lists as doubtful or actually worthless.

List of Dubious Assets.

The books, as left by Spurgin, show resources and liabilities balanced at $4,127,160.13. Against this showing the bank examiner lists the following items as of dubious worth:

Loans doubtful or worthless	$ 508,201.97
Overdrafts, doubtful	7,293.73
Items in transit returned	17,000.00
Bonds, stocks, value doubtful	867,500.00
Bond depreciation [quotations]	30,000.00
Real estate mortgages, short	165,500.00
	$1,595,495.70

Following is a list of the probable deductions from the above total amount:

Capital stock	$200,000.00
Surplus and undivided profits	91,126.83
Lloyd Insurance	100,000.00
Stockholders' liability [estimated]	80,000.00
	$471,126.83

Spurgin kept the books in apparent balance by substituting forged or dubious securities for ones of undoubted value and by memoranda which indicated certain securities were in the bank vaults when in reality he had confiscated them for his own purposes.

Case of Pup and Portrait of King One for Solomon

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Edmund L. Mooney and former Judge William M. K. Olcott are unable to decide who should get the "peke" pup and the painting of George I. in the dispute over the disposition of 6th avenue household property of Daniel G. Reid. All other proceedings are suspended until the question is decided by a referee. Mr. and Mrs. Reid were divorced about a year ago. They are disputing the ownership of the portrait and pup.

ALL BLACK SOX ACQUITTED ON SINGLE BALLOT

"Never Talk Again," Says Cicotte.

The "Black Sox" were acquitted last night. It took the jury two hours and forty-seven minutes.

The defendants are Eddie Cicotte, Claude Williams, Joe Jackson, "Chick" Gandil, "Buck" Weaver, "Swede" Risberg, "Happy" Felsch, ball players, and Carl Zork, St. Louis, and David Zelser, Des Moines, alleged gamblers.

Immediately the question arose, Shall the acquitted players be permitted to play big league baseball again?

Efforts were made after the verdict was reached to communicate with Judge Landis, the high commissioner of baseball, but without success. Nor could Charles A. Comiskey, president of the White Sox club, be reached. It was the opinion of other baseball magnates, whose names, however, may not be used, that only Judge Landis may decided the future of the "Black Sox" in the big leagues.

Only One Ballot.

Amidst the wildest enthusiasm the ball players pounded each other on the back and fought to shake hands with the jurors who had absolved them of the charge of conspiring to throw the 1919 world's series games for $100,000.

There had been only one ballot taken when the crowd lounging in the courtroom was startled by three loud knocks from the jury room.

Judge Friend was hurriedly summoned from the Cooper Carlton hotel. The jury filed into the room. Chief Clerk Edward Myers was handed the verdicts.

The courtroom, which had been a babel of tongues as the spectators speculated on the finding, hushed, as the clerk read:

"We, the jury, find the defendant, Claude Williams, not guilty."

Cheers Greet Verdict.

Announcement of the verdict was greeted by cheers. Bailiffs pounded for order. For a moment the crowd quieted as the clerk read the verdicts acquitting the others, then they broke forth again.

Bailiffs, noticing Judge Friend's smiles, joined in the whistling and shouting as the judge started for his chamber.

Eddie Cicotte leaped to his feet and pounded Joe Jackson on the back. "Lefty" Williams, his palms hot and moist from worry, shook hands wildly with every person he met.

Cicotte was the first player to the jury box. He grasped the hand of William Barry, the foreman.

"Thanks," he shouted. "I knew you'd do it."

For the next few minutes the courtroom was like a love feast as the jurors, lawyers, and defendants clapped each other on the back and exchanged congratulations.

One of the Deciding Points.

Although the closing arguments were ended at 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon it was not until 8 o'clock that the case was given to the jury. Arguments over the instructions centered over those dealing with specific intent and considerable time was spent by Judge Friend in dealing with these.

Judge Friend finally overruled the state and gave the instructions directing the jury that in case where conspiracy to defraud the public and the baseball owners was charged, it was up to the state to prove that the acts were done by the ballplayers with specific intent to defraud.

This was said to be one of the points which led the jurors to decide that the ballplayers were not guilty.

At 10:40 o'clock the jury reached its verdict, but it was not until 11:22 o'clock that it was read in court. When the first rumor circulated through the building the belief was expressed by the ballplayers that the verdict would be not guilty.

The attorneys appearing in the case in behalf of the defendants were Benedict Short, Michael Ahern, Tom Nash, Henry E. Berger, A. M. Frumberg of St. Louis, Daniel P. Cassidy of Detroit, James C. O'Brien, and J. J. Cook.

Jurors Silent on Verdict.

The jurors refused to talk to reporters.

"We voted not to tell what happened in the jury room," Mr. Barry said.

They all seemed proud of their verdict and grinned like schoolboys as the players and attorneys crowded around them.

"Everybody knew I had nothing to do with the conspiracy," said "Buck" Weaver as he shook hands with the judge. "I believe that I should be given my old position back. I'm going to fight for it."

"I'll put him back in organized baseball," declared his attorney, Tom Nash.

Jackson Considers Stage.

"I'm through with organized baseball," announced Joe Jackson. "I've got a store here in Chicago. This will be my home. I'm going to play ball with Williams in Oklahoma for a while this summer. At present I'm contemplating taking a position as coach for a university team in Japan. I've also had an offer to go before the footlights."

"All I want to do is to get to Detroit," Cicotte said, gaily. "Talk, did you say? Not here. I talked once in this building; never again."

"Never was in doubt about the verdict," was "Chick" Gandil's reply to questions by his friends. "I knew where I stood and knew I had done no wrong. I'm going to try to get hold of a good ball club and manage it."

"How could the verdict have been anything else?" asked "Lefty" Williams, former star pitcher for the White Sox. "I'm going to stick in semi-professional baseball."

"Happy" Is Tickled.

"Tickled to death," was "Happy" Felsch's contribution. "I never had anything to do with any conspiracy."

David Zelser, charged in the indictments with being a gambler from Des Moines, and Carl Zork, St. Louis shirtwaist manufacturer, planned to leave for their homes today. They had little to say.

"It was the only kind of a verdict that the jury could have returned," Zelser declared. "I never knew Arnold Rothstein, the man they said I worked for."

Assistant State's Attorneys George E. Gorman, John F. Tyrrell, and Edward Prindeville had little to say.

"We did our best," said Mr. Gorman. "But I did my talking before the jury."

As an evidence of what the state thinks about the case, speeches made during their arguments are cited.

"Unless this jury, by convicting the ball players in this trial, does its part to stamp out the gambling that is corrupting baseball, I predict restrictive legislation for baseball such as has been enacted for boxing and horse racing." This statement was made by Edward Prindeville, assistant state's attorney.

State Asks Maximum.

Attorney Gorman asked for the maximum sentence for each defendant. He bitterly attacked the players and charged the jurors that the responsibility for the future of baseball was in their hands.

"The attorneys for the defense ask for mercy," he said. "They point out that 'Lefty' Williams only got $500 a month for his services. They charge that Comiskey, the grand old man of baseball, is persecuting the players because he has tried to clean out the rottenness in the national game.

"Gentlemen, Comiskey wants to keep the game clean for the American public and I tell you now that if the owners don't get busy when rottenness crops out baseball won't last long.

"Game" Dragged in Mire.

"Comiskey gave these men a job. And here we find these fellows, these defendants in this trial, deliberately conspiring to injure and destroy his business. They have dragged the game through the mire and in their blindness deliberately fouled their own nest.

"There has been much poison injected into the case by the attorneys for the defense. They have attacked Bill Burns, the man who bared the conspiracy of their clients. They have hit at Bill Maharg, the man who corroborated him. They tell you these men lied. They call Burns an accomplice.

"By their own words they convict their clients. If Burns is an accomplice, some crime must have been committed. If he has committed a crime with the defendants, then it is your duty to find them guilty. I tell you that at least three of their clients, Eddie Cicotte, 'Lefty' Williams, and Joe Jackson, have condemned themselves so badly that I don't see how you can acquit them.

Ball Game or "Con" Game.

"In his confession Cicotte tells how the games were fixed. Then we have the spectacle of the public going to the game believing it was on the square. Thousands of men throughout the chilly hours of the night crouched in line waiting for the opening of the first world's series game. All morning they waited, eating a sandwich, perhaps, never daring to leave their places for a moment. There they waited to see the great Cicotte pitch a ball game. Gentlemen, they went to see a ball game, but all they saw was a 'con' game.

HISTORY OF CASE

Even while the 1919 world's series was in progress there were persistent reports in sporting circles that the White Sox were "throwing" games to Cincinnati. After Cincinnati won, these reports were whispered all through that winter, and continued during the 1920 baseball season.

It was not until September, however, that the scandal was given publicity. President Comiskey of the White Sox and other baseball officials had hired detectives to investigate the alleged "fixing," but with no definite results. Then in September, 1920, a rumor was spread that a game between the Cubs and Philadelphia had been fixed for Philadelphia to win. This led to a thorough inquiry into the gambling end of baseball, and eventually uncovered the 1919 world's series scandal.

Maharg Makes Confession.

When the news first was published William Maharg of Philadelphia, a former pugilist, volunteered a confession. He said he and William [Bill] Burns, the former White Sox pitcher, had acted as go-between for the indicted players and the gamblers who sought to fix the series. His story named the Sox players who were later indicted.

Maharg's story was followed by confessions by Eddie Cicotte, Claude Williams, and Joe Jackson. They later repudiated the confessions, however, and demanded trials.

True bills against the players named by Maharg were voted by the grand jury last September, but these indictments finally were quashed by Judge Dever. The players and gamblers named were reindicted and were brought to trial last month. Several weeks were consumed in getting a jury.

Documents Are Stolen.

During the trial it developed that the confessions of Cicotte, Williams, and Jackson, and their immunity waivers had disappeared from the state's attorney's office. It was charged eastern gamblers had made up a $10,000 purse to obtain these papers. The theft left the state with the testimony of Burns, who turned state's evidence, as its principal weapon of attack. Burns charged Cicotte and Gandil originated the plot to sell the series for $100,000, but got only $10,000 from Attel.

There were twelve counts in the indictments against the men brought to trial. The state dismissed three of them. The others charged a conspiracy to obtain money by fraud, a conspiracy to injure the business and reputation of the American league, and similar conspiracies.

Fifteen Are Indicted.

Seven White Sox players and eight alleged gamblers or go-betweens were indicted. Abe Attel, former featherweight pugilistic champion, and Hal Chase, former White Sox player, who were named as "fixers," beat extradition proceedings in New York and California, respectively. Fred McMullin, White Sox utility man in the 1919 series, gave bond on the first indictment, but never was apprehended on the second.

During the trial the defense demanded the dismissal of the cases against Weaver and Felsch, former Sox players, and Carl Zork of St. Louis, an alleged gambler. The judge indicated he would not permit a verdict to stand against these three men, but the state insisted on going to the jury with their cases.

MODISTES SUE E. N. BREITUNG ON $4,270 GOWN BILL

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Hickson & Co., Fifth avenue modistes, started suit today to recover $4,270 from Edward N. Breitung, former Chicagoan and a banker and the operator, as the unpaid balance of $8,339 worth of dresses and hats alleged to have been bought by him and delivered to "Mrs. M. Welt," formerly known as "E. M. Haggerty."

Katz & Sommerich, attorneys for Breitung, refused to tell why he bought the wearing apparel. "She's a woman," was all they would acknowledge about Mrs. Welt's identity. Breitung was said to be at his home, near Marquette, Mich.

Enumerated among the articles is a pink satin wedding gown, $266; a hat, $45; suit, $125; blue topcoat, moleskin trimming, $195; black chiffon and velvet dress, $295; black chiffon dress, $200; brown velvet dress and coat, $600; black velvet dress, $350, and veil, $18.

Breitung was served with a summons some time ago to appear as a witness in the women's court on Sept. 6, at the trial of two girls on a vagrancy charge and of Mrs. Nellie Kift of 640 Madison avenue, for permitting the girls to hire a room in her apartment. According to court records of the trial so far, detectives say Breitung gave the two girls $25 each and obtained counsel for them the night of their arrest, July 9.

Mr. Breitung's wife was sued last week for $2,895, alleged to be due on a bill to T. M. & J. M. Fox, dressmakers.

INTERNATIONALE LAYS CHAOS TO FOREIGN PLOTS

LONDON, Aug. 2.—The appeal sent out by the executive committee of the Third Internationale to the world proletariat, asking that plots against Russia be frustrated and that foreign governments be not permitted to make conditions for granting aid, declares that 20,000,000 people in Russia are threatened with hunger and death this year and next, and that famine, inevitably accompanied by disease, has already weakened the population.

It deplores that this blow has fallen on soviet Russia when exhausted and nearly ruined by seven years of imperialistic and civil wars.

"Soviet Russia fought and suffered for the entire international proletariat," continues the appeal, "and received her bleeding wounds fighting the world's capitalism."

After charging that "the governments of England and America desire the Russian working classes to permit them to exchange a piece of bread for the opportunity of organizing counter revolutions on Russian soil," the appeal continues:

"The English and American governments now pretend to know nothing about the misery of the Russian people. Half furtively, however, they promise to help Russia while hinting their readiness to realize this promise if soviet Russia will allow her affairs to be managed by their nominees and those of the Russian counter revolutionary bourgeoisie.

"Proletarian men and women of the entire world, do not forget that the blood of the Russian workers has been shed for your sake! Prevent the designs of the world's capitalists!"

The appeal is signed by the representatives of twenty-one countries. Lenin and Trotsky signed for Russia.

COUNCIL REJECTS BATTIS PAY RAISE BATTIS CERTIFIED

Unanimously and without debate the council finance committee turned down a recommendation yesterday that the pay of Roy J. Battis, chief clerk of the controller's office, be increased from $4,000 to $5,000 a year. In the absence of City Controller Harding, Mr. Battis had certified the controller's office payroll carrying an increase for himself. On Mr. Harding's return he turned the matter over to the aldermen.

BOY, 4, RETURNED TO THE MOTHER HE NEVER KNEW

Four year old Kenneth Frankenstein, whose name until yesterday was Walter Gradle Jr., had been returned to the mother he never knew. Three years ago he was taken by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Gradle and given a home in Highland Park. His new daddy was president of the Swedish Produce company and very wealthy.

Then his real mother married Alfred Frankenstein of 1657 South Karlov avenue. She was in comfortable circumstances and wanted her babies back. One of them—born five years ago, nameless—had been adopted by Mr. and Mrs. James Caul, 6438 South Union avenue. Mrs. Frankenstein battled for him in court and Judge Hugo Pam dismissed her petition.

The mother turned her attention to the Gradles. Habeas corpus proceedings were started by Attorney Hugh Caperton. They were halted yesterday when Kenneth's nurse brought him to the lawyer's office and left him.

MRS. DEMMER DENIES PART IN POISON DEATHS

Admits Love for Kolze; Held for Inquiry.

Though admitting her love for the late Fred Kolze, Mrs. Mary Demmer, his housekeeper, denied last night that she had poisoned him because he was attentive to another woman or that she was responsible for the death of her husband, John Demmer, and Mrs. Marietta Kolze. When the bodies of Mr. and Mrs. Kolze were exhumed a few days ago arsenic was found.

Assistant State's Attorney James C. McShane and Chief Investigator Benjamin Newmark questioned Mrs. Demmer until early this morning and then ordered her taken to a detention home.

Mrs. Demmer's Story.

"My husband and myself occupied the lower floor of a two story building and the Kolzes lived upstairs," Mrs. Demmer said in reply to questions. "We were friendly and at least two or three days a week I prepared the meals both families ate. I was the only one who attended my husband during his last illness. I gave him the medicine prescribed by Dr. Dodge of Bensonville, Ill. If he died of arsenic poisoning I do not know where it came from.

"I also attended Mrs. Kolze previous to her death eight months later. Mr. Kolze asked me to look after her. He moved her downstairs to my place, where she stayed three days with me as her nurse. The day before her death we took her back upstairs.

"After his wife's death Mr. Kolze moved across the railroad tracks and I became his housekeeper. It is true that I loved Fred, but I didn't kill him. I did have quarrels with him over another woman who lived in the village, but I loved him and his children too much to harm him. Why, his adopted son, Elmer, is married to my daughter, Edna. The children knew nothing of our love."

Disputes Charge of Kin.

Coroner Hoffman previously had been told by Mrs. Elizabeth Marwood of Bensonville, Ill., mother of Mrs. Kolze, that the love affair of Kolze and Mrs. Demmer, began before Mrs. Kolze's death. Miss Louisa Kolze of 1746 North Central Park avenue, a sister of Kolze, had told her, she said. Mrs. Demmer denied this was true when informed of the statement by the coroner.

Woman vs. Woman?

"Mrs. Marwood wants the $2,000 insurance and to be guardian for little Fred," said Mrs. Demmer. "For that reason she threw suspicion on me."

She was reticent as to her reasons for hastening to the Probate court the day before Kolze's funeral and having herself appointed administratrix of the estate and guardian for Fred Jr. She denied she had a joint bank account with Kolze and said she knew nothing of any money left by him or of a will. She would not state whether she expected her son-in-law, Elmer Kolze, to share in the estate.

"My husband left $2,000 insurance," she said. "I have $1,500 left. I derived no benefit from Kolze's death. He had practically nothing, anyway."

Other members of the family are to be questioned today, as is the woman of whom Mrs. Demmer admitted she was jealous. Demmer's body is to be exhumed today.

GRANT PARK AUTO THIEF BELIEVED IN POLICE TOILS

Sergts. Vaughan, Neary, Cox, and McDonald of the auto section of the detective bureau believe they have found the man who has been stealing many autos in Grant park.

He gives the name of J. Walter Keller, manager of the Pratt Products company of Hammond, Ind. He says his wife is the daughter of a wealthy merchant in Mendota, Ill., and that he was a lieutenant colonel during the war. He has been living at the Hotel Del Prado.

The detectives questioned him yesterday when he got into an auto in Grant park. He said it was a friend's car. The auto contained stamps and dies such as thieves use in changing numbers on autos and license plates; chisels, paints, steering wheel, and a number of license plates, one of which had been changed from an Indiana number of last year to an Illinois number of the present year.

Keller had $275 and a number of cards in his possession. One of the cards bore the name of a south side garage owner. This man declares he has sold a number of cars for Keller recently. Keller denies he is a thief or has any connections with thieves.

DISARMAMENT MEET MAY END WARS—HARDING

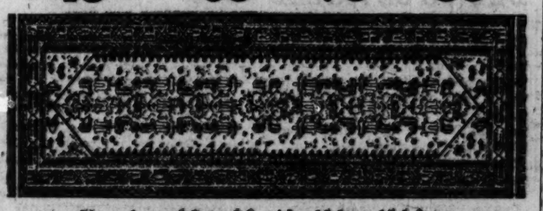

Lancaster, N. H., Aug. 2.—President Harding in a brief speech at Whitefield, N. H., near here, tonight, declared he could "almost promise" that the coming disarmament conference would bring an end of war. The president spoke extemporaneously in the village square when he found the crowd awaiting him as he came from a late afternoon golf game.

The President reached the White mountains today for the first real vacation since his inauguration. At a little lodge high above the reach of the heat wave and four miles removed from the nearest telephone, the President and Mrs. Harding, with a party of close friends, will be guests for the remainder of this week at least, and longer if public affairs permit. Complete rest, with perhaps some golf, fishing and mountain climbing mixed, will occupy their first attention.

FATHER'S WHIP FAILED TO STOP CARUSO'S SONGS

Defies Hunger, Failure; World Applauds!

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Enrico Caruso became the world's greatest tenor in spite of a humble birth and his father's whippings to make "a good, sober mechanic" of him. It was his mother's death, when Enrico was 13 years old, that sent him to the stage. His own intimate life story was told in an interview recently here and is published for the first time today.

Caruso, beginning his story, told of his father's efforts to "whip him" into a "sober, industrious mechanic."

"I wanted to be a sailor, and I haunted the docks for days," he explained. "I broke most of the rules and regulations at school and lived in constant disgrace.

When 11, Loved to Sing.

"By the time I was 11 years old I had developed a great love for singing and had, I believe, a fine contralto voice.

"One day the old organist of the church of St. Anna, Naples, heard me singing some popular melody, and my youthful efforts delighted him so much that he engaged me to sing in his choir. And I received for my labors each Sunday the large sum of 10 pence weekly—the first money I ever earned.

"The turning point in my life came at the age of 15, when my dear mother died. Had she lived it is probable I would have continued my mechanical studies to please her.

Begins to Live by Voice.

"So I became a wanderer with no weapons to help me in the fight for success but a remarkable physique and tremendous optimism which—I thank heaven—has never failed me. Somehow I managed to pick up a poor livelihood by singing at church festivals and private houses.

"I was often hungry, but never unhappy; and thus I went on until, at the age of 18, I was faced by this fearful problem, 'Was I a tenor or a baritone?' My voice at that time was so thin it resembled the wind whistling through a gaping window and my fellow students laughed at my hopes of an operatic career. Undisturbed I worked on until my studies were curtailed by military duty.

"One morning I was polishing the buttons on my tunic and singing for sheer joy with an 'open throat.' I can picture the scene in my mind at this moment and see the glorious sunshine streaming in as I sat polishing vigorously.

Major Provides Teacher.

"Suddenly Maj. Negliati appeared, listened, and then inquired: 'What is your profession?' Stammering, I muttered: 'I aspire to sing in opera.'

"Without a word he left me, and I imagined he had not heard my mumbled reply. But that same evening he told me he had found me a singing master, and that during my remaining thirty-five days in Rieti I could continue my studies.

"A little later my kind major arranged that my brother should take my place, and thus it happened that in 1895, at the age of 22, I made my debut in a new opera at the Teatro Nuovo, Naples.

Debut Is Failure.

"I was not a success, nor was the opera.

"My master, Vergine, encouraged me to go on studying and singing at every opportunity in various theaters. In this way my voice improved in timbre, strength, and tone, and at last my great day dawned—though I nearly spoiled my own success through obstinacy.

"Sonsogno, manager of the Teatro Lirico, Milan, asked me if I would study the rôle of Marcello in 'La Boheme,' to sing at his theater. Accordingly, with Vergine's help, I began to study this rôle, but after a few days decided it did not suit me and returned it, with many regrets.

"A little later I visited Milan, and there Sonsogno came to me with a request that I would change my mind and consent to study the rôle, as he was certain it would suit me and that I should make a success in it.

Friend's Belief Brings Success.

"Strange, was it not, that he should be convinced of my success when I was not confident of failure?

"Spurred by his belief in me, I learned the rôle, and on Tuesday, Nov. 8, 1898, appeared as Marcello at the Teatro Lirico, Milan, and made, I may say so, in all humility, my first success.

"On Nov. 9 I awoke to find press and public in agreement that I had not mistaken my vocation."

The success of Caruso in neither North or South America was such for several years as to indicate that before his death his income would average $100,000 a year, the estimate given at the Metropolitan Opera house today.

At the height of his New York career Caruso was known to be receiving $2,000 for each time he sang an opera, while in his 1920 season at Havana he got $10,000 a night. At Nice he had sung four times for 100,000 francs, then about $25 a performance.

Sang Most Famous Operas.

Caruso sang later an unusually large repertoire, including the following: "Aida," "Rigoletto," "La Boheme," "L'Africaine," "La Favorita," "La Somnambula," "La Traviata," "Les Huguenots," "Fedora," "Adrienne Lecouvreur," "Cavalleria Rusticana," "Pagliacci," "L'Amore dei tre Re," "Un Ballo in Maschera," "Lodoletta," "Mignon," "L'Elisir d'Amore," "Manon Lescaut," "Madama Butterfly," "La Fanciulla del West," "Lucia di Lammermoor," "La Gioconda," "Il Trovatore," "Don Giovanni," "Germania," "Lucrezia Borgia," "Tosca," "La Forza del Destino," "French—Les Pecheurs de Perles," "Armide," "Faust," "Mefistofele," "Le Prophete," "Carmen," "Samson et Delila," and "Rigoletto."

It was learned today, for the first time, that while Caruso was ill at the home of Vanderbilt last winter there were six operations, instead of three, as previously reported. There also was a blood transfusion operation on Dec. 12. That never had been known outside the immediate family. There was not a discouraging bulletin from the New York physicians after that date.

It was taken on the veranda of the Hotel Vittoria, Sorrento, whefe he spent the last days before his hurried removal to Naples late last week. The picture reached The Tribune offic e yesterday. CARUSO IS DEAD WHEN HEALTH SEEMED REWON

Gave Last Interview to The Tribune.

cliff below one has to descend in an elevator. Caruso was puffing vigorously on an Egyptian cigaret and when his smoking was remarked he exclaimed:

"Of course I smoke. What! Do you think I am sick?"

Reaching the beach, Caruso was greeted on every side by cries of "Tanti auguri, Signor Commendatore!"—"Many good wishes, Signor Commander!" Caruso bears the title of commander of the crown of Italy, an honor conferred by the king.

Caruso Takes Sun Bath.

While Mrs. Caruso joined friends and went to bathe, Caruso, Sig. Canessa, Dr. Niola and THE TRIBUNE representative got into a little boat and were rowed out to a discreet distance from shore, when Caruso divested himself of the upper part of his bathing suit in order to let the fortifying rays of the Italian sun sink as much as possible into his left side, where four ugly gashes, remaining from his operation for pleurisy, were witness to the seriousness of his illness.

"Every morning I have my sun bath," said he, "and every afternoon my massage. In a week or so I shall begin setting-up exercises, but I am not quite up to it at present. In the afternoon I also do my correspondence and in the evening, if there is nothing on at the little village theater here in Sorrento, I go to bed early. Quite a normal life, you see. Doctor? I have no doctor. I take care of myself, or rather, Mrs. Caruso and my valet take perfect care of me."

Denies Voice Lost.

Caruso was emphatic in his denial that his voice was lost, and was particularly assertive with regard to an alleged interview which it was reported he had given to a certain Dr. Fulton, in which he was quoted as declaring that he would never sing again.

"Of course, these gashes you see on my left side are pretty deep and the severed muscles are just knitting. Naturally, my diaphragm is weak, and at present could hardly support the sustaining of a strong vocal note without intense pain. But I am gaining strength every day. Besides, one needs a year to recover completely from pleurisy. When my wounds are quite healed and my strength recovered I shall sing, for my voice and throat are the same as ever. I am my own master and shall not sing again until I feel completely able and recuperated."

Dreamed of Death.

Speaking of his illness Caruso said: "One night I dreamed I was dead. It was when my illness was at its height. I seemed to be buried and, strangely enough, could at the same time see my own bas-relief carved on the top of my tombstone. It seemed so calm and peaceful to be dead—no more suffering. A loud automobile horn in the street below brought me back to life and I woke up to find Mrs. Caruso looking anxiously into my face. I told her that one experience beyond the grave would be sufficient for me for some time, and from that moment I have been improving. It's very agreeable to be dead, but it's a great deal nicer to be alive."

By this time the rowboat had reached the pier again and we all went ashore. Caruso joined other friends down the beach and went into the water, the second time he had been in since his illness. He did not swim nor stay in more than ten minutes, and coming out, basked in the sun a while and smoked a cigaret before going back to his apartments in the hotel, on the cliff above.

Plays With Daughter.

Just as he was about to leave the beach he espied the nurse girl with his little daughter, Gloria, a year and a half old. Caruso stopped to cover the little girl with kisses and to make her laugh by making funny noises.

"We shall stay in Sorrento about another month," said he, "and then go and see our cows, pigs, ducks, and hens at our farm in the outskirts of Florence. When shall we go back to America? I don't know. That, too, shall be when I wish, for our plans are not made and we shall merely follow our own inclinations. We shall probably sail from France."

ITALIAN LOVE SONG ONE OF LAST SUNG BY GREATEST TENOR

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Salvatore Fucito, accompanist and friend of Caruso, tonight played for reporters one of the last phonograph records Caruso made. The record has not been "released" to the public. It is called "Sultante a te," which means "Only to Thee."

Mr. Fucito composed it for Caruso and Riccardo Cordiferre wrote the words. It is a love song in which Caruso's dramatic, forceful voice seems at its best.

As literally translated, it goes as follows:

If you were a queen of this heart
As you are a queen of beauty
So that I could write you verses of love
And how many songs I would like to send.
For these tresses of gold softer than silk
I should like to become a poet as of ancient times
And I would write beautiful old time songs,
I would write songs, only for thee.

It is not generally known that Caruso could mold in clay, but Mr. Fucito has a plaque made by the artist as "Eliezer." It is about a foot square and is gilded. Caruso even went so far as to mold the Hebrew letters of his name and that of Eliezer at the bottom of the plaque.

Tenor's Death Surprises His Son, Culver Student

Culver, Ind., Aug. 2.—Enrico Caruso Jr., son of the famous tenor, was en route to Chicago when informed of his father's death this morning. The son, a student at Culver Military academy, left here early with a committee from the academy in charge of an exhibit the school is presenting at the Pageant of Progress in Chicago.

The boy got the news at Plymouth, Ind., left the party and started back to Culver. When he arrived here he said he recently received a photograph which indicated his father was in good health. The boy will await word from his mother.

CARUSO WONDER VOICE DELIGHT OF CHICAGOANS

Crowds Always Greeted His Appearance.

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Although it is more than ten years since Enrico Caruso last donned the grease paint and costume of opera in Chicago, no tenor of the stage was better known in the city.

People went to New York, and if they did not happen to strike the Metropolitan on a Caruso night, the trip was more or less of a disappointment. When they could not see him, they bought his records. The strains of the "golden voice" pealed from every apartment house in the city. When he sang here in concert—he appeared at Medinah temple May 11, 1919, and Oct 3, 1920—an extra guard of police was called to keep the entering crowd in order.

A new rôle for him was an important matter of telegraphic news. Even his escapades were topics of discussion.

Forced to Conserve Voice.

For there was something more to Caruso than press agentry. His voice, even after he had been obliged to learn the art of taking care of it, of reserving the final ring for one climax, was something worth going many miles to hear.

His last appearance in opera here was in January, 1911, the first season of Chicago's own opera company. In the May before, the Metropolitan company had made its farewell visit to the Auditorium with Caruso, then at the height of his fame, taking parts in "Gioconda," "Bohème," "Aida," "Faust," the now forgotten "Germania," and the never forgotten "Pagliacci." During the following season Andreas Dippel, the first general manager of the Chicago Opera company, borrowed him from the Metropolitan company for two "guest" appearances.

Here he appeared once again as the clown, Canio, in "Pagliacci," and as Dick in "The Girl of the Golden West," Puccini's Italianized version of David Belasco's play about miners and road agents.

Never Was Lent Again.

But on his way back to New York that year he took a violent cold and missed several performances with his own company. From that time on, no inducement could be offered the Metropolitan management sufficient to lend him again.

The performance of "The Girl of the Golden West" settled one matter in Caruso's claim to fame—namely, that he could act, or at least could be trained to act. The opera was staged almost simultaneously in New York and Chicago, the New York company, however, having had the benefit of Belasco's advice in staging. Caruso benefited mightily by that.

When he appeared at the Auditorium he disclosed a considerable range of gesture and facial expression, and he wore his belt and pendant six shooter as if they were intended for use. In the light of the confusion that the average operatic singer fell into over these accouterments, Caruso's achievements were almost unbelievable.

Excelled as Canio.

However, it is as Canio that he is best remembered. This was a rôle that was fairly made for him. Grateful as it is for every tenor that can sing it at all, it was vocally and temperamentally doubly grateful for him. The sense of fun that every Italian singer has in his makeup, the no less manifest melodrama of the rôle, its rage, and grief, as he alone could portray them, made his appearance one of the thrilling experiences of the operatic stage.

When he returned the following autumn, it was noticed that he sang with more care, reserving himself where he had been lavish, saving himself for the supreme moment, not idling—he never did that—but building up the values of contrast and climax.

Because of this he was greatest as an artist during the last years of his life.

OPERA SINGERS, MUSIC LOVERS, MOURN CARUSO

Peerless, They Say, as Artist, Friend.

Caruso counted practically the entire musical profession among his friends. Tributes were heard on every side yesterday as soon as the news of his death was received.

In the absence of Mary Garden, general director of the Chicago Opera company, Howard E. Potter, her personal representative, issued the following statement:

"The musical world loses the dominant voice and personality in the opera world of his day. His friends and associates lose one of the most delightful characters any stage ever knew."

Ravinia Chief's Tribute.

Louis Eckstein, president of Ravinia, said:

"Caruso was one of the most likeable, warm-hearted personalities in the world of music."

Members of the Ravinia Opera company likewise spoke in the warmest terms. Riccardo Stracciari said: "It will be a long time before the world sees his like."

Giennaro Papi, one of the conductors, also a conductor at the Metropolitan Opera company, said "Caruso was an artist to the tips of his fingers. I had frequent opportunities to observe the instant, electric sympathy that passed between artist and conductor."

Anna Fitziu declared: "There is many a poor singer and many another person not a singer whom he helped. He made presents and never talked about them."

"Tenors come and most of them go, but Caruso remained supreme," Frances Peralta said. "He did not need the flourish of trumpets. He had only to appear and the world took notice."

Opera Colleagues' Tribute.

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—News of the death of Caruso called forth praise of him as "the greatest singer of the age," and tributes to him as a man of generous deeds.

Geraldine Farrar, who sang with Caruso at the Metropolitan for many seasons, said:

"As friend and comrade for fifteen years I grieve at the destiny that forced him to battle so long and valiantly for this finale. His wish to close his eyes in his native land was granted. His great gift will not be approached in our generation. His kindness and qualities are well known. He was an universal figure, beloved, and admired. May God rest his soul."

John McCormack, famous tenor, said at his home at Darien:

"I have lost one of my best friends and the public has lost its greatest artist, but the artists have lost a great pal. For the fourteen years I have known him I never knew him to say an unkind word of or to a colleague. His epitaph might well be 'He was the greatest singer God ever created.'"

Antonio Scotti, lifelong friend, said: "It takes half my life. What tribute could I pay to such a man—to such a great heart?"

Amelita Galli-Curci, who was to sing with Caruso at the Metropolitan this season, said:

"All the world will remember him, not alone for his glorious voice and untiring devotion to art, but his human qualities and big, generous heart."

OPERA KING IS DEAD! LONG LIVE ——? N. Y. CRITICS PUZZLED

New York, Aug. 2.—There was no one in New York who could say what singer would succeed the late Enrico Caruso next fall as leading tenor of the Metropolitan Opera company.

Caruso's death in Naples this morning was considered by critics to have left vacant a place in opera that no living tenor can fill. For Caruso was king of the opera house.

Giullo Gatti-Cazzasa, general manager of the Metropolitan Opera company, who selects the artists and the operas in which they are to be heard, is in Europe. So is Otto H. Kahn, chairman of the board of directors, and Henry R. Winthrop, vice president. Many other men who have a voice in the conduct of the Metropolitan also were out of the city.

COUNCIL GUARDS $200,000 FROM LAWYER EXPERTS

Board Seeks to Tie Up the Utilities Fund.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

The council finance committee voted unanimously yesterday to notify City Controller Harding and City Treasurer Smith not to pay any sums from the $200,000 appropriated for public utilities litigation. The appropriation has this proviso attached: "To be expended only under the direction of the city council"; and the committee decreed that none of it shall be expended until ordered by the city council in the future.

If this order is carried out, it will tie up the pay of Chester E. Cleveland, special assistant corporation counsel at $150 a day; of George G. Gillispie of Springfield, another special assistant, at $125 per day, who has also been employed by Gov. Small in connection with his indictments relating to interest on public funds; of Ringer and Wilhartz, attorneys at $150 per day, and a number of others.

"Experts" Board Brings Action.

The finance committee action came in a motion of Ald. Schwartz, who, with Ald. Guernsey and Woodhull, compose a subcommittee appointed to investigate the payment of $2,742,666.09 to five city experts. This subcommittee was unable to obtain warrants and vouchers from Deputy Controller Gosselin showing the payments to the experts, and began mandamus proceedings to obtain their right. Special Assistant Corporation Counsel Cleveland appeared on the other side, but later offered to permit the aldermen to see the official records of the city.

Corporation Counsel S. A. Ettelson and his assistant, Leon Hornstein, say in a written opinion that the corporation counsel has the right to expend the $200,000 without consulting the city council. They say that the proviso, "to be expended only under the direction of the city council," in their opinion, "may be safely ignored."

Council's Lawyers Say No.

Louis E. Hart and Lawrence E. Cohen, attorneys for the subcommittee investigating experts, say also in a written opinion—presented yesterday to the finance committee—that the proviso can not be ignored.

The finance committee chose—without opposition from even Louis B. Anderson, council floor leader of the Lundin-Thompson organization—to follow Messrs. Hart and Cohen, despite the opinion of Attorneys Ettelson and Hornstein.

The issue is clear and direct. On it Attorneys Hart and Cohen say:

"In our opinion any officer of the city of Chicago charged with the expenditure of this fund would be exceeding his authority if expenditures were made out of this appropriation without first obtaining from the city council an order for such expenditure."

This opinion continues: "In any event, if it should be held by the courts that the limitation upon the expenditure contained in the language quoted is not a valid limitation, we are of the opinion that the courts would hold that this item of the appropriation is invalid and cannot be expended for any purpose."

Law Department's Views.

On the same subject matter the city law department says:

"A question has been raised whether this language (the phrase) nullifies the appropriation because of the obvious attempt of the city council to usurp functions belonging to the department of law. We think it will not have that effect, but that such language may be ignored as being plainly beyond the power of the city council to insert in the appropriation."

Perhaps the finance committee recommendation will be presented to the city council this afternoon for action. If it arrives in the form of a committee report it can be blocked, under the city charter, by the objection to consideration of two Lundin-Thompson aldermen. If presented as "new matter," the opposition can force a roll call on a suspension of the rules. If the required vote is not obtained the "new matter" will be referred to a committee.

Possible Action in Matter.

Suppose a majority is shown for the committee idea, although the required two-thirds for the suspension of the rules is not obtained, what will the controller and treasurer do? If the committee decides to send its warning out without asking council approval, what will the controller and treasurer do? If the city council approves of the committee order, and the mayor does not veto it until the first regular meeting in the fall, what will the controller and treasurer do?

Several other contingencies might be presented, but these are sufficient to indicate future possibilities.

LAWSUIT STOPS STREET CARS IN DES MOINES, IA.

Des Moines, Ia., Aug. 2.—Federal Judge Martin J. Wade this afternoon ordered cessation of Des Moines street car service at midnight Wednesday, pending foreclosure proceedings. F. C. Chambers and Homer A. Miller were appointed receivers to act under the new suit brought by the bondholders. The court's order combined all suits pending against the company.

Everyone in Des Moines, it seems, has given up hope of solving the street car problem that has confronted the city for years.

The city council still leaves the impression that it believes suspension of service is a bluff, but has taken the precaution to provide the city with emergency, and probably permanent transportation in the way of busses.

Street car employés have practically given up hope. They have made several attempts to avert suspension, without avail.

Foreclosure of the mortgage and cessation of service was asked in the suit filed in federal court this afternoon by bondholders of the company.

COMMITTEE MET HERE.

A committee of bondholders of the company has been appointed to look after the interests of all bondholders, following a Chicago conference yesterday. It was said the committee would outline plans for protection.

ATLANTIC COAST RUM RUNNING GANG UNCOVERED

New York, Aug. 2.—Federal officials claimed tonight to have evidence of a rum running conspiracy involving prominent persons in various cities along the Atlantic seaboard which would go far toward clearing up the mystery of phantom ships for several months reported seen outside the three mile limit.

This claim was made after the liquor laden schooner Henry L. Marshall had been seized off Atlantic City and brought into this port with four of its crew by the coast guard cutter Seneca. Its captain and mate escaped in a swift motor boat.

Federal agents declined to reveal the nature of the evidence at their command, but intimated that more than one vessel was engaged in landing liquor along the coast from Maine to Florida.

No specific complaint so far has been lodged against the Marshall, which with its cargo of more than 1,500 cases of liquor is being held by armed guards pending further investigation. Its cook and three seamen are being detained as material witnesses.

Man's Clothing on Bank, Drag River for Body

A man's striped suit, a white shirt with black stripes, and the letters "S. S." on the collar band, and a suit of cotton underwear were found on the bank of the Calumet river at 114th street yesterday. In the trousers pockets were $10.30, but there was no mark of identification. The coast guard began dragging the river in search of a body.

WHOLE TOWN HAS BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR GRANDMA, 100

Arlington Heights Honors Its Oldest Settler.

Arlington Heights attended a birthday party last night. Every one in the northwest suburb was there, from Mayor P. G. Morse down to little Jimmy Hines, the grocery boy. It wasn't the town's anniversary, either. It was more than that—it was the 100th birthday anniversary of "Grandma" Kennicott, known and loved by every member of the community.

All day the town made ready for the celebration. Last night the citizens marched in parade to the home of the oldest settler and presented "Grandma" with 100 American beauty roses, one for each year of her life. Five generations of her family were present. The festivities were limited to half an hour. "Grandma" is still active and happy, but it would not do to test her strength too greatly.

Heights Resident for Fifty-six Years.

"Grandma" was born Aug. 2, 1821, at Lisbon, N. H. Her father, a Methodist circuit rider, started with his family in 1838. He passed through Chicago, but kept on, because our city was then mostly swamp land. He settled at Elk Grove, where the first white settlers had arrived four years previous.

While her father was preaching at Half Day, the northern point of his circuit, Mary Kennicott, "Grandma" now, met Joseph E. Kennicott. They were married a few months later. They lived at Elk Grove until 1856, when they moved to Arlington Heights. Mr. Kennicott died a quarter of a century ago. He was one of several brothers, all pioneer Chicagoans, among them being Dr. John A. Kennicott of the Grove, Dr. Asa Kennicott, William, Hiram, and Alonso Kennicott.

Recalls Earliest Settlers.

"Grandma's" memory of her journey to the unsettled west is still clear. "We met many Indians," she says, "but most of them were friendly. We would travel a few days, then rest a day or two. I recall that my sisters and I knitted all during the journey.

"The first white resident of Elk Grove was Dr. Miner. I remember John Whiting, whose son still lives here; and George Knowles, and the Draper and Caleb Lamp families.

"My father was a circuit rider in the Wheeling district. Through his efforts a Methodist church was established in Elk Grove, and later he formed congregations in Dunton, now Arlington Heights."

"Grandma" is not critical of the girls of today, of their styles and their habits. She does say, though, that it might be better if they were taught the science of housekeeping.

"I don't know why I live so long," she muses. "It must be because of my faith in God. Moderation in living and faith in God are the only recipes for long life that I know."

WILLIAMS RAPS HEAVY LOANS OF RESERVE BANKS

East Gets Big Sums, Ex-Controller Says.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—Policies of the federal reserve board during the last eighteen months or more were attacked today before a joint congressional commission by John Skelton Williams, former controller of the currency, who charged that the board had displayed undue favoritism in lending to New York banking groups while southern and western borrowers were unduly curtailed. There was "abundant ground for complaints of discrimination by farmers generally," he added.

The congressional commission was appointed to inquire into the agricultural situation and summoned Mr. Williams in connection with its investigation into credit facilities for farmers.

Assertions are Challenged.

Many of Mr. Williams' assertions were challenged in cross-examination by Representative Ogden Mills, Republican, New York, a commission member, who was armed with volumes of statistics. The clashes required commission rulings time and again.

During the examination Gov. Harding of the reserve board and several other of its officials were present. Mr. Williams' statement was uncompleted after a six hours' session.

The board, adopting the policy of forcing up interest rates, he said, was indirectly responsible for 20 per cent interest charges prevailing on the New York money markets, and this "drained off funds from the farming sections." Mr. Mills met him at this stage with a series of statistics, tending to show that Richmond, Minneapolis, Dallas, Atlanta, Kansas City and St. Louis banks were borrowing much greater sums proportionately than New York institutions.

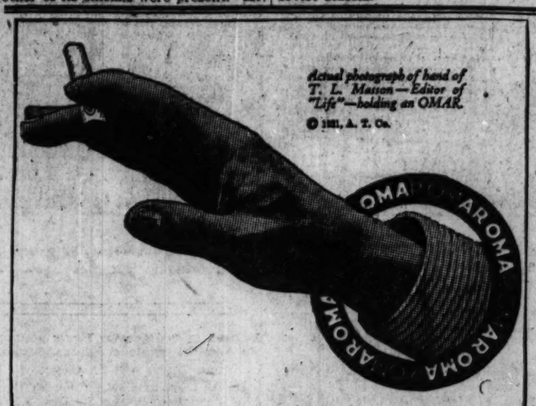

Told to Go to Reserve Board.

"You've seen the figures, haven't you?" Mr. Mills demanded during interchanges in which Mr. Williams told him to "go to the reserve board for the statements."

One borrower of call money had to pay 200 per cent to get a $1,000,000 loan, Mr. Williams said, although Mr. Mills insisted he had misinterpreted the arrangement, and the charge was 25 per cent. At the same time, he added, western institutions rediscounting were "obliged to put up collateral of 100 and 200 per cent in excess of the amounts they got."

VOLUNTEERED 3 TIMES; CAPTAIN NOW HUNTS JOB

Wife and Four Children Dependent on Him.

BY ARTHUR M. EVANS.
Second Article.

Here's a sample of the soldier home from the war; engulfed in the unemployment wave; out of a job; out of money; out of luck; fighting for a chance to work and to feed his family.

X. is a former captain in the army. He saw service in Cuba in '98 and volunteered the second time for the Philippines. In 1917 he went through the first officers' training camp, although 40 years of age, married, and with a family of five dependents, and was commissioned. He filed three applications for overseas duty, but was put in the Q. M. corps, where he had charge of an extensive operation where many men were employed. Yesterday he wrote:

"Today I am in the ranks of the unemployed. For three months I have been smilingly fighting for a job. I have been able to stall off our accounts, which are piling up higher and higher, until now I expect to hear any moment that our groceries are cut off. How the family can live then I don't know.

Walks to Save Carfare.

"I walk miles and miles to save carfare, so that I can keep myself presentable with clean linen and pressed clothes. As you say, there are a lot of commission jobs—but I cannot make a trip of even one day, as I haven't the money. I have a record as a sales producer; for almost twenty years I have managed and trained hundreds of salesmen, but I just simply cannot connect today.

"My position is no worse than that of many other ex-service men, and I don't expect any consideration because I have volunteered three times for my country, nor do I feel that the world has turned its hand against me because I am unable to find work and my wife and four children may be turned out in the street any moment.

"What I would like is WORK, and that soon, as my courage is slowly ebbing as my few remaining nickels slip through my fingers. Mr. Hoover wants the United States to feed Russia—why not feed the Americans who are sorely in need of food right now?"

Work is Their Only Plea.

The case is quite typical of the stories one hears at the various relief agencies and on the street on a rainy night when the jobless state their cases from beneath dripping hat brims. Work, work, work, that is always the theme.

Last night in one block on State street, one veteran said by occupation he was an expert accountant; out of work for months, and yesterday he had toured the hotels for a job as dishwasher. Another, a mechanic, has sought work for two weeks to no avail. His last job, trundling a truck had lasted three days.

The third, a clothing salesman, required open air work on account of his lungs; tried the farms but could not stand the work; hit the bumpers to Chicago; slept in the parks and in six days' search had been unable to connect with any sort of job. All three carried the stamp of real men; nothing of the loafer about their make up.

Jobs for 125 Offered.

That some jobs are available was seen yesterday. In response to THE TRIBUNE'S article setting forth conditions among the jobless ex-soldiers, employers began to volunteer work. They called up organizations like the Buck Privates, the American Legion and the Aviation club, with offers of jobs. All told about 125 positions were thus filled by these three agencies.

Compared with the applications for jobs—over 800 new ones for the day—the number was far, far short, but the encouraging thing is that it was the best day of job-landing experienced by the agencies in a month. Heretofore in the great majority of instances the organizations have had to call up and appeal for jobs.

The positions had wide range—bookkeepers, clerks, inspectors of machines, laborers, piano movers, watchmen, window washers, chauffeurs, bundle men, electricians, laborers—and every job had a man on the way within half an hour.

Need Clearing House on Jobs.

It all hammered home the need for a comprehensive organization to deal with the whole situation, a clearing house for jobs and applications for work, in which all the various relief agencies could work together to cover the city thoroughly.

One need which all the organizations emphasize is that of having men out in the field drumming up the employers. Another is that of some classification of the workers, so that men can be connected with jobs they fit most closely, and also for protection against the small percentage which has been using the service button in a more or less strongarm fashion—these are denounced loudly wherever the ex-service men congregate in search of work.

Relief Fund Necessary.

All the organizations regard some relief funds as essential; enough at least to assure the soldier out of work a cot and a wash basin or shower in the morning—the complaint against sleeping in the parks even on a hot night is that one gets up feeling rather frowsy—something, too, in the way of plain but nourishing chow until he connects with a job. Most of the men applying are penniless.

One group which is becoming more and more of a problem consists of the men who are less than 10 per cent disabled, and thus are not in the scope of compensation. Many are reported with enough disability to put them below their usual mark. Troubles of slow development, heart, kidney, lungs, feet, are causing a drop in the endurance of many.

This type of worker has unfortunately found himself among the first let out when working forces are reduced in some factories and plants.

(Tomorrow Mr. Evans will discuss other phases of the ex-soldier unemployment situation.)

HOME, HOME, SWEET, SWEET HOME

This is what veterans of the world war are forced to partake of because they are unable to find work. Shown here is a scene at meal hour in the temporary clubhouse of the down and out Legionnaires. An effort is being made to get them jobs, but in the meantime their lot is not enviable.

FULL ASSEMBLY OF DAIL EIREANN OR NONE—DUBLIN

Erin Firm on Release of Jailed Members.

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]
[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Aug. 2.—Ireland still preserves sphinxlike silence on Great Britain's peace proposals, and it is likely it will continue to do so for another week or more.

Eamonn de Valera has consulted practically all of his colleagues of Dail Eireann, as well as many local leaders of the Sinn Fein, and all that remains to be done is to lay the proposals before a full meeting of Dail Eireann.

This, a report from Dublin today said, probably will be done some time this week or early next.

Full Meeting, or None.

It has been definitely declared that there will be no partial meeting of the Dail, which means that before such a momentous gathering can take place the thirty-six members now imprisoned or interned must be released.

Release of these men, then, will be the final signal that a crisis in the negotiations is approaching.

Mr. de Valera refuses to ask formally for their release, because this, he thinks, might be construed as acknowledgment of Great Britain's right to imprison them, but it is an open secret here that Great Britain is willing to waive that point and would consider an order by De Valera summoning to a full meeting the men in jail as a request for their release.

If such a meeting is called it will be held in the Mansion House at Dublin and the sessions will be private.

In Touch with Premier.

In the meantime it is reported that Mr. Lloyd George and Mr. de Valera have been in frequent communication on minor points, the messengers being trusted lieutenants who go and come quietly without recognition.

Ulster, of course, is still the crux of the problem, but much is hoped for from Sir James Craig's visit to London tomorrow.

The British house of commons is becoming impatient over the continued secrecy in Irish affairs.

Replying to Col. Archer Shee, a leading Tory, this afternoon, who had asked whether, in view of the fact that Mr. de Valera had made the proposals known at a secret meeting of Dail Eireann, Mr. Lloyd George could not do the same at a secret session of commons. Mr. Austen Chamberlain said merely that the premier hoped to make a statement before the end of the session.

Replying to another question, Mr. Chamberlain said it had been agreed between the premier and Mr. de Valera that in the event of the negotiations breaking down fair warning would be given of the end of the truce.

"Nineteenth Hole" Quiz Flivver at Kenosha Club

Kenosha, Wis., Aug 2.—[Special.]—Attempts of Ald. Fred Palmgren to show there was a revival of an "un-Volsteaded" nineteenth hole at the Kenosha Country club golf course during the recent Wisconsin state tournament "flivvered out" today. Palmgren had declared he would make charges a "professional mixer" was employed at the "nineteenth hole," but he failed to file the complaint. The only development was that Constable John Scholey took the alderman to task for not making an arrest if he saw any violation of the law, since the alderman is an officer.

PREPAREDNESS, PERSHING THEME AT TRAINING UNIT

Urges Citizen Soldiers to "Be Ready."

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 2.—"We must not drift back into our pre-war attitude of unpreparedness," Gen. Pershing said today in an address to 1,356 young men who make up the Citizens' Military Training camp at Camp Meade. "Through young men and through the veterans of the war we hope to maintain a sentiment for complete preparedness in the United States. There may be no war tomorrow, nor next month, nor next year, but no man knows when it may come again.

"We are trying to bring together the old units of the national guard that did such glorious fighting in the war, and to rehabilitate them. We are also trying to bring together the reserve divisions. And the greater part of the army of the future will be composed of young men like yourselves in the reserve, then the national guard, and then the regular army of 150,000 men.

"During the world war we had to try to prepare by strenuous activity. It was necessary to organize training camps for officers. In general the results were satisfactory, but the training could not last long enough.

"When the time came to enlist the men of the rank and file, 51 per cent of the nation's young men were found to have noticeable physical defects and 15 per cent couldn't qualify at all! Think of it! Out of 10,000,000 men, 1,500,000 not physically qualified to defend their country. I hope you young men will create such a sentiment at home that every young man will not be satisfied with himself until he can say: 'I have qualified for American citizenship because I have had military training.'"

OPPOSITION TO MELLON SCHEME OF TAX DEVELOPS

Representative Attacks $10 Auto Fee.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Opposition to Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's recommendations for revision of revenue laws as presented before the house ways and means committee yesterday began to develop today.

Representative Bacharach of New Jersey, Republican committee member, who has been an advocate of the sales tax, issued a statement criticizing several features of the treasury program.

Aside from the suggestions made by Secretary Mellon relative to changes in income and miscellaneous taxes, it was learned that the "confidential committee print" of the proposed bill as prepared on the basis of the treasury suggestions contains important amendments relative to the determination of net loss, taxation of profits from the sale of capital assets, taxation of personal service corporations and insurance companies, and numerous changes in administrative provisions.

Objects to Auto Tax.

Representative Bacharach in his statement objected to the proposed $10 tax on all automobiles and the 2 cent stamp tax on banks as proposed by Secretary Mellon. Mr. Bacharach also objected to the repeal of the transportation taxes. He criticized the proposed flat tax of 15 per cent on corporation incomes, declaring that the increase from 10 to 15 per cent would work a hardship on many small corporations.

The excess profits tax, he said, affected only corporations making substantial profits, whereas the increased normal tax would endanger the existence of thousands of small corporations.

Mr. Bacharach said that while the proposed reduction in higher surtaxes on individual incomes might tend to get money into investment channels, yet he considered it an injustice to lower rates affecting only about 5,000 taxpayers while increasing other tax rates.

Advocates Sales Tax.

Mr. Bacharach said he still believes that with the adoption of a sales tax practically all the special and excise taxes of the present law as well as the excess profits tax could be repealed.

The bill retains the present normal taxes of 4 and 8 per cent on individual incomes. The present graduated surtax section is stricken out entirely and a much simpler provision substituted with blanks left for determination of some of the rates later. Only five different surtax rates are proposed instead of fifty-four as at present. The maximum surtax rate is made 32 per cent and the next highest 25.

May Extend Losses.

A provision relating to the determination of net losses makes it possible to extend losses over one or two succeeding years in computing net income. There has been widespread agitation for such a change in the law.

A new scheme not heretofore suggested is provided for dealing with profits or losses from the sale of capital assets by individuals.

It is provided that the capital net gain or loss in the case of individuals whose ordinary net income and capital net gain together exceed $32,000 shall be segregated and that the ordinary net income shall be subject to the usual normal and surtax rates while the capital net gain shall bear a tax of 15 per cent. This will mean a considerable saving from the present condition.

What is regarded by officials of the internal revenue bureau as one of the most needed provisions is a section permitting a final determination of a tax case to be made without being subject to another adjustment every time a new ruling is made.

MOONSHINERS BATTLE IN TAXI.

[Moffett Photo.]

NINE THOUSAND DOLLARS' worth of jewels belonging to Miss Hazel Bollinger of 4731 Ingleside avenue are being sought by detectives. They were stolen, according to a dispatch from Colorado Springs, from a room in the Broadmoor hotel there by a supposed society Raffles. Miss Bollinger, who has since returned to Chicago, could not be located yesterday and her mother declared she did not know anything about the theft.

INTERSTATE TAX ON AUTOMOBILES, EMMERSON'S IDEA

Helena, Mont., Aug. 2.—Levying of a tax on every gallon of gasoline, a tax on every ton of coal, and a tax on all automobiles coming into the state from other states was advocated by Louis L. Emmerson, president of the National Association of Secretaries of State. He is Secretary of State of Illinois. He spoke at the opening session of the association's convention at the state capitol today.

Mr. Emmerson said it is not a question of reduction in most states today, but of increased revenue. Indirect taxation, he said, is most successful.

$1,589,380 COST TO AUTO OWNERS HERE IN U. S. TAX

Mellon Proposal Makes Total Levy $5,551,256.

BY OSCAR E. HEWITT.

Chicago auto owners will pay an aggregate tax to the city, state, and nation of $5,551,256, if the recommendation of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon is adopted by congress. He proposes a yearly fee of $10 on each auto and truck.

At present that means an added tax of $1,589,380 annually to the auto owners of Chicago. They already have paid to the city this year $1,864,123 as a vehicle tax and a trifle more to the state as a road tax. Then there are 21,647 owners who have been honest with the board of assessors and they have paid $233,630 more on their autos as "property."

U. S. Will Collect More.

But Secretary Mellon will probably get much more than $1,589,380 in Chicago because the government is a better revenue collector than either the state or the city. It will likely find autos which neither the Chicago nor Illinois officials have been able to see within the city.

The state does not keep its records so that the number of autos it has found in Chicago can be ascertained readily. The city officials have discovered and taxed this year 127,633 pleasure autos, 27,347 trucks, 2,767 motorcycles, and 1,191 autos used for demonstrating purposes for sales agencies.

On the other hand, the secretary of state has licensed more than 534,000 autos and 60,000 trucks in Illinois this year.

Tabulation of Tax.

The proposed national tax added to the city and state fees gives a tabulation on pleasure cars and trucks as follows:

PLEASURE CARS.

Horse power.	State.	City.	Tax Nation.	Total.
25 or less	$ 8	$10	$10	$28
25 to 35	12	10	10	32
35 to 50	20	20	10	50
More than 50	25	20	10	55

TRUCKS.

Load wright.	State.	City.	Tax Nation.	Total.
5,000 or less lbs.	$12	$15	$10	$37
5,000 to 12,000	22.5	30	10	62.5
12,000 to 15,000	35	30	10	75
More than 15,000	60	30	10	100

For each of the 21,647 owners who also paid a property tax on their auton, there must be added an average of $10.60.

ROBBED OF $10 AND AUTO.

William J. Broadburn, 5124 South Michigan avenue, left the home of friends at 5300 Kenwood avenue Monday night. In his automobile two men rose from the back seat, presented revolvers, took his pocketbook, containing $10, and drove off in his car.

U. S. VALUATION IS "MONSTROUS," IMPORTERS SAY

Toy Makers Favor It for Proteetion.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Representatives of importing interests of New York and New England opposed the American valuation plan of the Fordney tariff bill before the senate finance committee today. Witnesses also included several manufacturers who urged adoption of the plan as the only way to meet the exchange situation.

Thomas J. Doherty, New York, representing the National Council of American Importers and Traders, described the scheme as "monstrous." He declared it was utterly unworkable. Joseph S. Lockett, Boston, attorney for the New England Importers and Traders' association, made a similar attack upon the plan.

Deny Undervaluations.

The importers would much prefer some scheme by which the American valuation plan is put into effect gradually if it is to be adopted at all.

Mr. Lockett denied that undervaluations have been as prevalent under the foreign valuation system as it is asserted.

"There has been a tendency on the part of American manufacturers to continue high prices, notwithstanding that they may not work out well for the consumer," said Mr. Lockett. "If the proposed change is adopted it is reasonable to assume that the consumer will not be helped by a reduction of prices to any great extent."

Toy Makers for It.

A delegation of toy manufacturers urged the adoption of the American valuation plan. W. O. Coleman of the American Flyer Manufacturing company, Chicago, declared that his company had been forced to close its plant as a result of German competition. He said that the American valuation plan would help the company to meet the exchange situation.

"Our factory started in this year with a production of 2,000 toy trains a day," said Mr. Coleman. "In April we reduced the output to 2,000, and in June to 1,000. On July 1 we stopped production entirely.

"The only thing that will save the American toy industry is to adopt the American valuation plan."

VISITORS POUR IN TO PAGEANT AS RAIN POURS DOWN

First Three Days Indicate 2,000,000 Attendance.

Today at Pageant

Following are the features of today's program at the Pageant of Progress Exposition on the Municipal pier:

1 p. m.—Pigeons will be liberated to carry messages of greeting from Mayor Thompson to mayor of Kenosha, Wis.

2:15 p. m.—Cutter races by Great Lakes Naval Training station.

4 p. m.—Parachute jump from an airplane by Lieut. G. A. Shoemaker at an altitude of 2,000 feet.

7 p. m.—Singing on barges near pier.

7 p. m.—Searchlight drill and signal practice by naval reserves.

10:30 p. m.—Fire dive by Jack Horner.

While the rain poured down upon the Municipal pier yesterday the visitors stayed in. Estimates based upon the first three days of the Pageant of Progress indicate receipts for the two weeks will be approximately $2,000,000 from a total expected attendance of 4,000,000.

The clouds wept, but the boosters smiled.

"Boost Chicago: we put on the biggest civic show in the world," is a sign which possibly will appear soon upon the billboards of the town. Fifty per cent of the profits of the exposition will go into the publicity fund of the Chicago Boosters' club.

Yesterday was "Education day." While the big pier was being flooded with music from a host of bands, A. E. Benson, principal of a school in Minneapolis, was declaiming against the evils of jazz music.

Calls Jazz Unharnessed Force.

"No one force has greater power today in determining the character of our citizens than has music," he said, "and character of today means the national destiny of tomorrow. Music is power. Where intellect fails to convince, music will carry its message of conviction.

"Music, like electricity, is a potent dynamic force, but it must not be allowed to run wild seeking whom it may devour any more than we allow the electric current to be the play toy of children.

"Yet we are to a very large degree doing that today. The popularity of jazz music, making use as it does of the shock through the means of percussion instruments, is a thing to be considered with alarm. It makes its appeal to the baser side of human nature. It is a force unharnessed.

Evil Influence for Young.

"We may train and guard the intellect of the adolescent boy, but if at the same time we allow the disorganizing power of jazz to dominate we are making a bad combination. It is an unbalancing force that has come into an unbalanced world, and we must be on the alert."

The woman's committee of the Pageant of Progress was in charge of the program. Mrs. Theron Colton and C. W. Washburn, superintendent of Winnetka's school, were among the speakers. Miss Frieda Winegart sang; while Moissaye Boguslauski, the Russian pianist-composer, played.

Paulist Choristers Sing.

Meanwhile the naval reserve boats were maneuvering, homing pigeons and aeroplanes were racing, speed boats were roaring through the water, while under dry roofs were the three and one-half miles of exhibits. During the evening the Paulist choristers sang. There were fireworks and searchlight drills and a flaming dive, and scores of minor attractions.

Eugene L. McGarry, former assistant state's attorney, filed a petition in the Circuit court yesterday asking that Mayor Thompson and his aids be enjoined from charging admission to the pageant.

AUTO GANG GETS BANK'S $3,500 IN STREET HOLDUP

Benjamin Zuckerman, a messenger, started from the Sixteenth Street State bank at 3500 West Sixteenth street yesterday with $3,000 in cash and $500 in Liberty bonds to deposit in a loop bank. He was in the rear seat of an automobile driven by Samuel Davis of 4645 Madison street, a depositor. At Ogden and Western avenues another car crowded them to the curb. A man leaped on the runing board of Davis' machine and snatched the money satchel from Zuckerman while flourishing a revolver in the messenger's face.

The holdup car escaped but witnesses said the license number was 226,136 Illinois.

Zuckerman told the Fillmore street police he believes the bandits trailed him from his bank. He lives at 1230 South Central Park avenue. He is 28 years old.

WATER PRICE TO RISE IF COUNCIL ORDERS METERS

Will Cut Discounts to Pay for Machines.

Pocketbooks of practically all Chicago property owners will be affected if the council finance committee approves of two propositions bearing on the city water system, laid before it yesterday.

One proposal is that water meters be installed throughout the city and that water be sold by quantity instead of on the present frontage basis. There are 318,000 water service pipes in the city. Only 29,124 of them are equipped with meters.

The second proposal is that, to finance the installation of meters, which, it is estimated, will cost $12,780,000, the present 25 per cent discount for prompt payment of water bills be reduced or wiped out altogether. This would have the effect of increasing water rates.

Billions of Gallons Wasted.

Although they have acknowledged that the lack of meters in the past has resulted in the waste of billions of gallons of water, city officials have backed away from the proposal that meters be installed, fearing the wrath of water users. Aldermen have also feared favoritism in the awarding of the huge contract for water meters.

The finance committee yesterday showed interest in the meter proposal by directing Chairman Richert and City Engineer Murdoch to prepare a program for metering the city.

Mr. Murdoch told the committee reductions in the discount rate would result in the following increases in revenue from the sale of water:

Discount rate—	Increased revenue.
Twenty per cent	$ 412,989
Fifteen per cent	928,907
Ten per cent	1,444,825
Five per cent	1,960,741
No discount	2,476,658

Would Save $554,776 a Year.

Installation of 60,000 water meters a year would cost $2,500,000 annually; at the end of five years the city would save $554,776 a year in curbing water wastage, the report says.

Mr. Murdoch renewed his plea, turned down a week ago, that $9,500,000 be provided through the issuance of water certificates for the completion of the seven mile, $3,500,000 Western avenue water tunnel and the $3,000,000 William Hale Thompson pumping station and other rehabilitations and extensions.

The plea was turned down, 7 votes to 8, Chairman Richert casting the deciding vote. About 300 men now employed on the tunnel will be laid off under the order.

NOT IF BRITISH AND JAPANESE COMBINE.

Limitation of armament agreed to by the United States and an alliance contracted by Great Britain and Japan are incompatible. The limitation would prevent the United States from developing its natural strength. The alliance would combine Great Britain and Japan and the only apparent object of such an alliance is against the United States.

Russia was the object of the alliance in the beginning. It was to protect the Japanese and the British in Asia from the Russian danger. That danger may recur, but it is not now in the probabilities. Japan is not concerning herself about Russia now. She is concerning herself about the United States.

We are for a limitation of armament, but we are against a renewal of the British-Japanese alliance and the adoption of the one ought to imply the abandonment of the other. Both are recognized as involving principally Asiatic questions and it is a dangerous settlement of such questions which stops American preparations and leaves Japan and Great Britain combined. If that happened we should be taken in by our own desires to advance the peace of the world.

The interests of Canada, Australia and New Zealand in this respect are in harmony with American interests. Great Britain cannot tie up with Japan without joining herself to a potential enemy of the British dominions. At present they do not like the prospects any better than we do and they possibly can prevent the accomplishment of the tory English policy which seeks to combine British navalism with Japanese militarism.

Alliances generally seek one of two or three objects. They seek to preserve a balance against another alliance. They seek to balance the greater power of an aggressive nation. They seek to act aggressively and to obtain spoils for division.

The Japanese-British alliance is not needed for defense. There is no alliance against either nation and there is no nation seeking to attack either or to take away the territory of either. There is no balance to be maintained. It is an almost forced conclusion that the purpose of a renewal is aggression on the part of one or both.

The tory element in the British aristocracy might be glad if the United States were forced into war with Japan. Then a British revival might be based on war sales to both sides. We do not believe Japan would consider war without such moral sanction as would be afforded by the alliance. That at least would set Great Britain in a position of neutrality and the dominions, however much they disliked the situation, would not be able to do much against the people whom they regard as their natural enemies.

The United States is justified in regarding a renewal of this alliance as unfriendly. It should say that the denouncing of the alliance is a necessity to the making of agreements for the limitation of armament.

The alliance is a step toward war. Limitation is a step toward peace. The United States ought not to step in one direction while Japan steps in the other, and Great Britain should not expect it. We cannot prevent the renewal of the alliance. Possibly the dominions can do so, but the United States cannot. It can decline to enter into general agreements unless Great Britain and Japan refrain from entering into specific ones.

The general agreement to limit armaments is sufficient for all the purposes of peace. An additional agreement between the British and the Japanese, along the line of the alliance, would be inconsistent and would be dangerous to the United States.

LANDLORDS, BE REASONABLE!

Sixty day notices of rent raises are again in the mails. Persons who a few weeks ago were congratulating themselves upon the fact that 8,000 flats and houses were reported vacant in Chicago, and who were declaring that it served the profiteering landlords right, may now go out and see if they can rent one of these places at less than called for in the lease which expires Oct. 1.

We predict that they cannot. These places unquestionably were vacant because an unreasonable price was asked for them. These prices drove families to "double up" in flats and divide the rent, or to go into boarding and rooming houses. There have been and are in Chicago many more families needing homes than there are homes and flats available at any price. This will have no influence on the "profiteering" landlord except to confirm him in his evil way. It may have an influence on the wise landlord who can use the situation to select the best possible tenants, and who can then use good judgment and reason to keep them.

As THE TRIBUNE has stated many times, somewhat bromidically but truly, rents will not come down until building goes up. In this matter the situation lies largely in the hands of Judge Landis and his conferees among the building trades unions and the contractors and builders. When they agree upon the reasonable and constructive program which he has outlined we may expect more building and lower rents. Until that time we may expect extortion and wails.

Few persons will build when costs are at their present altitude. And upon these costs, and indeed upon lower costs of a few years ago, we now have a 40 per cent increase in taxes authorized by the recent Lundin-Thompson-Small legislature. It makes it expensive to own property, and more expensive to rent it.

But a 40 per cent increase in tax bills does not justify a 40 per cent increase in rent bills. Landlords ought to remember that. Also they must remember that there are great numbers of persons out of work in Chicago who cannot meet increased costs of rental. If rents are increased as threatened this autumn we venture to predict that there will be more vacant homes after Oct. 1 than there were on July 1. Some of the vacant ones may be filled, but more of the filled ones will become vacant. We can only appeal to the wisdom of landlords to be reasonable.

THE TEN MILLION DOLLAR LIBEL SUIT.

The city hall suit against THE TRIBUNE for alleged libel of the city of Chicago does not appeal to the council committee on finance. They have refused Mr. Ettelson's somewhat tardy request for approval of this litigation, which was inspired by the Lundin-Thompson policy of terrorism.

With city hall officials resisting every attempt to uncover the régime of public waste now afflicting the community, denying the council access to public accounts until compelled by court decree, and carrying on a campaign of bluff and bluster in order to distract public attention from our misgovernment, no conscientious and responsible public body, it seems to us, could have much patience with such action as Mr. Ettelson and his associates have taken in the hope of silencing criticism and discovery. The suit against THE TRIBUNE is a fraud, invented to frighten the press into acquiescence in Tammany misgovernment. It has not succeeded, and it will not succeed, and doubtless the aldermen see no reason why the city, already short of funds, should be further taxed to pay for the protection of public plunderers.

The sole issue of the $10,000,000 libel suit is whether it is the duty of the press to tell the people what the fiscal conditions of the city are. If this is not the duty of the press, there is nothing to the principle of free press or the function of publicity established by the founders of the republic.

CARUSO.

Leaving expert comment upon the art of Enrico Caruso to Mr. Moore, it is not improper perhaps to make editorial note of the passing of one of the chief figures of the operatic stage of our time. Probably, to the eye of the multitude, the star of Caruso shone brightest of all in the galaxy, and if we were to venture to select from his achievements that which gave to the average auditor the greatest thrills, it would be the rendering of "Poor Pollacco" in "Pagliacci." But, of course, in such matters the general taste varies as much at least as that of the expert, which is to say a great deal.

Critics and historians of music will indeed differ in placing Caruso. The public which glorified him will not bother about the question whether he ranks among the greatest or is worthy to be remembered with Mario, Rubini, Davide, Campanini [not our late conductor] or Jean De Reszke. What is certain is that he possessed a voice worthy the term so generally applied to it—"the golden"—and a temperament which expressed the simpler emotions with tremendous effect. Rubini, it is recorded, possessed a special gift for expressing pathos, and this undoubtedly was a chief factor of Caruso's appeal. Yet he sang a wide range of rôles with immense success and could be counted to pack any house from orchestra rail to gallery.

As an actor and artist he fell short of the high level maintained by such a man as Jean De Reszke or Muratore, and his appeal was to the spinal column rather than the cerebrum. But this hardly affected his great vogue even in a period which has shown an expansion of the dramatic as distinguished from the lyric content of opera. He ministered to the pleasure of multitudes who seek the theater for sensation rather than thought, and nature had endowed him vocally more generously than any male singer, probably than any singer, male or female, of this generation. So he lived and died a popular idol and earned an enduring place in the history of grand opera and of the vocal art. No one of his time will be so widely missed.

Editorial of the Day

THE NEW DEPARTMENT.

[Decatur Herald.]

Suggestions for a department of public welfare, with a cabinet member at its head, seemed as inoffensive as advocacy of law and order when they were made during the presidential campaign a year ago. Here was one proposal, it might have been thought, against which none could raise a protest, and yet that might be expected to capture the support of many voters, notably among the women.

Innocuous as the plan proved during the campaign, however, every tentative step taken with a view to putting it into effect has aroused a storm of protest. Organized labor was first to be heard from. It has protested vigorously against the removal from the department of labor of any functions to be handed over to the new department, on the grounds that the prestige and influence of the secretary of labor, for whose appointment the unions had to wage so long a fight, would be injured.

Employers have been equally irreconcilable. The very word "welfare," in its associations with certain forms of legislation, is repulsive to them. They fear that creation of this new governmental branch will be disastrous to the "less government in business" half of the popular campaign slogan.

Now the National Education association is entering its protest. Teachers do not want education to be placed under the jurisdiction of the new department, lest their own campaign for the creation of a separate educational department should be prejudiced.

What work to give the department of public welfare, under these conditions, is evidently going to be a difficult matter to decide. Protests seem inevitable in the case of every proposal for alteration of the existing bureaus. In the meantime it is interesting to observe that not one of the complaints made thus far questions the administrative wisdom of adding to the cabinet and the administrative forces the most vulnerable feature of the plan from the standpoint of the ordinary citizen.

Appointment of a secretary of public welfare, according to evidence already at hand, will strengthen the movement for a secretary of education. Other demands for the enlargement of the President's official family will certainly follow. It is not difficult to foresee the effect of this considerable expansion upon the nature of the cabinet. Every executive knows that, despite the axiom that two heads are better than one, the way to arrive at decisions in important questions is by summoning a small committee. When the group gets beyond a certain narrowly limited size it ceases to be an aid in consultation.

FOR THE SOLDIER.

General Pershing's first act as chief of staff was to order all army officers in touch with ex-service men to aid their former comrades in every possible way in getting their dues from the government. It was a sensible and humane direction, and besides has the merit of practicability. An ounce of help to a suffering ex-service man is worth a pound of rhetoric.—New York Herald.

YESTERDAY.

All days gone by are one with Yesterday:
Then yesterday it was that Helen shone,
And Homer sang, and rose the Parthenon;
'Twas yesterday the Greeks were crowned with bay
And flowers, and every marble-gleaming way
Festooned for Salamis or Marathon;
'Twas yesterday the Jews in Babylon
Were slaves; the Nazarene in prison lay.
Loud thunder, yesterday, shook heaven and earth;
One sound was Lexington, one Waterloo,
And one was from the Marne; yea, all events
Mingle; and we who yesterday had birth,
And may, perchance, not live this bright morn through,
Are but as foam upon a sea immense.

BIBLIOPHILIA.

I recognize a true book lover at the first glance by the manner in which he touches a book. The man who puts his hand on some precious, rare, lovable, or at the least, seemly volume, and who does not press it with a hand both gentle and firm, who does not voluptuously pass a tender palm over its back, its sides, and its edges, that man never had the instinct that makes Grosliers and Doubles. [Boston Dispatch to Trib.]

"The introduction of the knickerbocker suit is one more indication of the increasing freedom that women have won," Miss Marion May declared. "The knickerbocker has all the points of economy, modesty, smartness, and comfort, and leaves plenty of room for originality."

Flappers.

Sir: Lord Chesterfield in his Letters to his son, written over 150 years ago, refers to Dr. Swift's description of these strange creatures. "Absent-minded people," he says, "always kept a flapper in the family as one of the domestics. It was his business to attend his master in his daily walks, and upon occasion to give a soft flap upon his eyes, because he is always so wrapped up in cogitation that he is in manifest danger of falling down every precipice and bouncing his head against every post." EMPTY ARMS.

(A message.)

Empty arms, empty arms,
Why are you tired tonight,
Are you tired already of treading
The trail that you thought was right?

Are the roses turned to ashes,
Is the champagne turned to tears,
Has the flint-hard heart of you softened
After these many years?

Empty arms, empty arms,
Sleep is coming soon,
There is nobody's head on the pillow,
It's only the light of the moon.

Deceiving your tired fancy
With the ghost of another day,
With the image of one who loved you
Before you went away.

Empty arms, empty arms,
Clutching the dust of dreams,
Have you just begun to wonder
Why it is that it seems

The old days were the best days,
The new days cannot bring
The happiness you sought for,
The fire of love in spring.

Not all who seek shall find it,
And some who stay at home,
The gods treat much more kindly
Than those who crave to roam.

To these the gods give quiet
And surcease from alarms,
To those regret and sorrow
And the curse of the empty arms. E. L. S.

ANDRA KIRKALDY, the grand old Fifer of St. Andrews, reminisces in Fifty Years of Golf of his visit to the United States in 1905: "Their drinks were queer concoctions and had still queerer names—cocktails, Scotch highballs, dog-noses, and such like. They played terrible tricks with whisky. I'm referring to the way they mixed whisky with other drinks. There was ice in everything, enough to make your teeth slacken in your head. . . . Freak golf matches were often played. One I remember that was too much for Herd and me. It was a drinking competition for a sweepstake. The conditions were that the competitors should take a whisky and soda on every tee." He played no further than the fourth hole, owing, he says, "to the terrible heat."

MY PEARLS.

(To the Rev. Charles Vandethim.)

Upon the silver cord of Hope,
While life was strong and young,
My pearls of Fame, Ambition, Wealth,
Of Faith and Truth, I hung.

When sudden snapped the silver cord
And all my pearls of worth,
So hardly won, so dearly prized,
Lay scattered on the earth!

But stay, not all! For one bright gem
My trembling hands retain;
And with the priceless pearl of Love
I'll find them all again! P. D. GOG.

A ROUND, unvarnished tale—that of Arthur Evans: "Out in the drizzle last night many an ex-service man who fought in the Argonne and in Belleau woods stood in doorways and under awnings, hungry and wet, occasionally and with diffidence approaching a passerby with a plain statement of his needs."

SUN CURE FOR RICKETS.

COUNTRY people knew very little about rickets, but not so city people. Their children are prone to it.

It is said that the Negroes in the West Indies never have rickets, but when they move to New York City, which they do by the thousands, almost every one of their babies develops rickets.

A very distinguished physician recently wrote that every Negro baby in northern cities had rickets in some degree. Maybe that overstated the case, but no one denies that among them the disease is prevalent. Another authority, whose experience has been principally with foreign born attendants at dispensaries in the east, says the trouble is almost as prevalent among Italian babies as it is among Negroes.

Most people recognize outstanding rickets at first glance. Bowlegs, square head, deep chest, beads along the ribs near the breast bone, and usually pot belly.

In New York they thought the West Indian Negro babies had it because they could not get the foods they got in Jamaica. The Italians were said to have it because they could not get Italian foods and they did not know the food values of different American foods.

Hess and Unger come along with a somewhat different story. They have seen children with rickets who were fed on every kind of food. Some fed on pasteurized milk, some on certified, others on raw liquid milk, some on canned milk, and some on milk powders.

While food was a factor, in their opinion, it was not the only factor and probably not the principal one.

They tried curing cases of rickets by treating them with violet rays. It worked. Then they tried exposure to the sunlight. That worked.

The children were exposed to direct sunlight pretty much as they are in the treatment of tubercular bones and tubercular glands.

Starting with exposure of one foot for five minutes a day, then the next day exposure of another extremity, and so on by daily exposure until all the body and legs are made brown and the exposures lasted several hours a day.

Babies 6 months old were treated by sticking them in the sunlight. It worked with them just at it did with older children.

The treatment was given right in New York City, where the sun does not always shine, but where it shines enough to cure rickets when the young ones are put where it can get at them.

The effect is constitutional. For instance, they would expose one arm and find the bone rickets was cured not only in that arm but also in the arm which was not exposed.

Since the cases were diagnosed in the first place by X-rays and the progress of the cure was watched by X-rays, there did not seem to be any doubt about the results as far as they went.

Rickets is a bone disease of a type which shows in an X-ray picture like the nose on a man's face.

The customary treatment of rickets is the administration of cod liver oil and phosphorus. In fact, the New York City health department has gone as far as distributing cod liver oil for Negro babies to be used early in babyhood as a preventive. But cod liver oil tastes bad, is hard on the stomach, and is expensive.

Sunlight does not taste bad, is not hard on the stomach, and it is free. Maybe the reason West Indian Negroes, southern Negroes, and Italians have so much rickets in northern cities is not because they cannot get the foods they are accustomed to. What's lacking is sunlight in the accustomed doses.

DUE TO INFECTION.

P. A. C. writes: "My boy of 7 years has what seems to be a swollen gland on the right side of his neck just below and a little to the front of his ear. It has been this way for about two weeks. Have applied liniment with no apparent results. Can you tell me what causes this and how to treat it?"

REPLY.

Such enlarged glands result from infection. They are often due to tubercular infection, due to drinking milk from tubercular cows. Rubbing with liniment does no good. Remove the source of infection. Expose to sunlight until it burns a deep brown. After that expose still more. If due to tuberculosis tuberculin helps to cure. Do not let him drink raw milk.

YOU HAVE PET POISON.

A. L. W. writes: "1. I have hives all of the time. I don't have any dogs, cats or horses about. I don't eat much of the foods that I have read commonly cause hives.

"2. I have rheumatism also quite badly. Do you think the same poison causing the hives is possibly causing the rheumatism?

REPLY.

1. Unfortunately some of the most wholesome foods cause some people to have hives. It is a peculiarity of yours that some wholesome food is unwholesome to you.

2. Quite possible. Rheumatism is a grab-bag and holds a multitude of sins. Hives may carry pains that may be called rheumatic.

NOT ORDINARILY HARMFUL.

R. D. writes: "Is root beer harmful for one with intestinal and stomach trouble? What ingredients does it contain?"

REPLY.

Probably not. It is a carbonated beverage containing sirup and flavored with aromatics, especially oil of sassafras. None of these is harmful in ordinary doses. There is objection to the habitual use of highly flavored foods and beverages.

WEIGHTED AVERAGE.

Chicago, July 31.—[Friend of the People.]—Can you tell me what is meant by the term "weighted average"? M. E.

Where an average is being established between characters of objects which differ in kind, as for example the price of all commodities for a given date, it is commonly desirable to give more influence to an important item, say wheat, than to an unimportant one, say barley. If the price of wheat were $2 and barley $1 and we considered wheat five times as important, we would say 2 times 5 equals 10, plus 1, equals 11, divided by 6, equals 1 5-6, which is the "weighted average" price of the two cereals.

AVOID EVIL PUBLICITY BY ELIMINATING EVIL.

Chicago, July 21.—Your editorial of July 21 under the caption "The Tiger at Bay" reiterates the statement frequently appearing in your columns since the recent judicial election—namely: That encouraging as that victory was, it is merely a beginning and that the cooperation of all good citizens in the coalition movement which made the victory possible must be continued if Chicago is to complete the job of cleaning out, once and for all, the disgraceful Thompson-Tammany machine.

I often wonder if the average citizen of Chicago realizes the damage inflicted upon our community by the publicity given to Chicago's municipal mismanagement in the newspapers of the larger cities throughout the country. Even if we admit that other cities have a selfish motive in exploiting the bad reputation which the Thompson organization has given to Chicago, the fact remains that they do this persistently and I believe the injury done us is considerable.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer in a recent editorial on the defeat of the Lundin-Thompson judicial ticket made a statement substantially as follows:

"While the people of Chicago are to be commended for their action in electing a nonpartisan bench, the facts are that their mayor and the organization back of him in this attempt to debauch the courts will remain in power two more years; and Chicago will not have fully redeemed herself in the eyes of the country until she has administered a final crushing defeat to that whole organization. We will therefore have to wait until 1923 to see whether Chicago meant what she said in 1921."

That statement by an outside newspaper covers the situation precisely. THE TRIBUNE has lent its strong influence to many movements for the betterment of Chicago. I venture the following suggestion: Can you not take the lead in arousing public sentiment with a view to continuing the present coalition organization into the next mayoralty campaign, with Judge Landis as a nonpartisan candidate for mayor?

THE LITTLE DARLINGS!

Chicago, Aug. 1.—Why are people allowed to turn their kids loose in the streets to yell and whoop like a lot of hyenas until long after civilized people want to go to bed and sleep?

Inquire, if you will, of any resident in the vicinity of 4500 to 4800 Oakenwald avenue and they will confirm the statement that such is the occurrence practically nightly. Probably the owners of the kids don't know any better themselves, but something should be done to stop the nuisance. Surely they can exercise their lungs enough between daylight and evening without raising "rough house" in the streets until 10 o'clock or after at night. W. I. F.

THEY'RE NOT ALL BOULEVARD BABIES.

Chicago, July 30.—Much has been written concerning the Chicago girl. We have heard of her beauty, her grace, her vivacity. Reporters have made much of the Chicago girl and her practice of rolling down her stockings.

But one important characteristic of the Chicago girl has been missed or ignored—her courtesy.

It is my experience to strap hang twice daily, six times a week. I have seen, on numerous occasions, in crowded L and surface cars, girls surrender their seats to older men or women, this when men who had seats refused to get up. The other day at Madison and La Salle I saw a stylishly dressed young woman pilot an old woman across the street. I hand it to the Chicago girl for her beauty, style, and—above all—courtesy.

UNOFFICIAL, BUT MORE COMPREHENSIVE.

Chicago, Aug. 1.—I would like to make a reply to W. J. M. I have made a trip to Milwaukee on the Christopher Columbus, and I found that they give the best service to the people of all the boats or the steamers. They treat the passengers nicely. Their prices are fair. Root beer sells for 10 cents, sandwiches for 15 cents, ice cream cones 10 cents, sodas 22 cents. WILLIAM J. CORNELL.

THE BUCK PRIVATES' APPRECIATION.

Chicago, July 28.—Prompted by your wonderful campaign through the columns of THE TRIBUNE in behalf of the ex-service men, particularly because of your excellent front page cartoon and editorial entitled "The Eagle Will Scream No More for Me," I want to take this opportunity to say on behalf of the organization I have the honor to represent, the Buck Privates' Society, A. NO REASON TO BE DISTURBED BY THE "BUG CLUB."

Chicago, July 29.—The letter of Thos. Hardy in THE TRIBUNE of July 25 complains apropos of the "Bug Club" that he had to move because of the noise. Presumably he refers to the time when the "Bug club" met at 51st and Lawrence avenue. Since 1920 they have met between the goldfish pond and the lagoon, west of the greenhouse, on Cottage Grove avenue, about two blocks from a dwelling house, in a retired spot in Washington park. W. STRASSER.

RUSSIA'S DOUBLE ORDEAL

1—The Russian famine and the cholera plague, which has reached epidemic status in several regions, are spreading. Hardest hit of the affected districts are the Volga valley, the Kuban and south Russia, the famine extending eastward into the Ukraine.

It is said that only two months' supply of food remains and that this consists mainly of roots, leaves, acorns and grass. Severe drought followed by a devastating cloudburst brought the famine.

The shaded area on the map shows the portion of Russia affected and the arrows indicate the directions refugees are taking in flight.

2—W. L. Brown, European director of the American relief administration, will leave London next Friday for Riga, where he will attempt to negotiate a written agreement with the Russian famine relief committee whereby American aid can begin. America demands release of all Americans detained in Russia before actual relief can begin.

3—It is reported that food is being shipped from some parts of the Ukraine into Poland and soviet Russia is trying to seal this leak.

4—Gen. Budenny with 60,000 men is in White Russia near the Polish border.

5—Poland is reported to be seriously alarmed at the possibility of invasion by hordes of famine victims fleeing from Russia.

6—Finland and the Baltic nations also are alarmed and are taking measures to prevent refugees from crossing their borders.

CLOUDS OF WAR STILL HOVER ON RHINE—BRYCE

Seeds of Conflict Sown in Eurpoe, He Says.

Williamstown, Mass. Aug. 2.—The seeds of future wars have been sown in Europe by the deliberations and findings of the Versailles conference, Viscount James Bryce told the Institute of Politics at Williams college today in his second lecture on "International Relations of the Old World States." Discussing the framing of treaties by the representatives of the victorious powers, he said:

"Their work has received in Europe nothing but censure. Comparing the treaties they framed with those which were made by the congress at Vienna in 1814-'15 European critics observe that the men of Vienna knew what they were doing.

"Their work bestowed upon Europe a tolerable peace, which lasted for more than thirty years. But there is no one of the treaties of 1919-1920 which is not now already admitted to need amendment, while some are seen to lead straight to future wars.

German-French Feud Alive.

"Between Germany and France the ancestral antagonism is now more bitter than ever and seems likely to last in France as long as the generation lives which remembers the devastation wrought in 1917 by the retiring German army, and in Germany as long as her government continues to pay immense sums in reparation for the losses in the war by France.

"This war has shown one unprecedented feature. The victors bear as much resentment against the vanquished as the vanquished do against the victors. There is no blacker cloud, pregnant with future storm, hanging over Europe now than that which darkens the banks of the Rhine.

"Italy had, of course, no historical title whatever to the purely Germanic region she sought to acquire. However, a quarter of a million German Tyrolese were delivered up to Italy as if they had been so many cattle. The British and French governments plead a secret treaty with Italy in 1915. It was a promise that ought never to have been made."

Sees Russia Vindictive.

Turning to Russia, Lord Bryce discussed the prospects of the empire, saying:

"If the experience of states which have in past times lapsed into anarchy were to furnish any ground for a forecast, we should expect the rise of some military despotism like that of Bonaparte in Russia. But whence or when will the deliverer appear?

"Three attempts have been made and have failed. Whoever reëstablishes order will find a country from which most of its best men have been removed.

"But it must be remembered that Russia herself, once her internal troubles have subsided and she is again a military power, will probably endeavor to reconquer all the territories which she has recently lost."

Turkey Still Sore Spot.

Turning to the near east, Lord Bryce continued:

"For more than two centuries, in fact, ever since the weakness of the Turkish monarchy became evident and irremediable, Turkey has been the danger spot of the old world. When a state is both barbarous and decrepit, insurrection is the proper remedy.

"This has not happened because the Moslems, much as they hated bad government, hated their Christian fellow subjects more."

U. S. Debt Cut $206,213,543 During Month of July

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—Public indebtedness decreased $206,213,543 in July, Secretary Mellon announced today. The total gross debt of the country of $23,977,450,552 on June 30, the secretary announced, had been reduced to $23,771,237,000 on July 31. Public debt receipts for the month amounted to $24,071,183 against public debt disbursements of $230,284,727.

$20,000,000 IN BUILDING WAITS WORD OF LANDIS

Big Contracts Hinge on Cost of Labor.

Signatures to contracts for $20,000,000 worth of building work that would give employment to thousands in Chicago are being withheld pending the wage decision expected from Judge K. M. Landis, arbiter of the building trades controversy, according to E. M. Craig, secretary of the Building Construction Employers' association.

Judge Landis said last night he did not know when he will be able to announce the decision.

"Reports to our office indicate the wage decision may be made early next week," said Mr. Craig. "If it is, thousands of men will be put to work on new jobs as soon as contracts can be let. Owners and architects, as well as contractors, are holding back, because they have no way of estimating costs until they know what the wage scale is to be.

Some Delayed Until Spring.

"Some work that should have been started last May will not be started until next spring, because cold waether probably would come on before the jobs had been advanced to the stage where they could safely be left for the winter."

Mr. Craig estimated the number of building trades men now at work at 15,000. These were given employment June 12, when Judge Landis agreed to arbitrate the building trades dispute.

Pending the Landis decision, skilled workers have been receiving $1.25 an hour, and unskilled workers $1 an hour. The unions are contending for a continuance of this scale, while the employers want the skilled wage reduced to $1 and the unskilled to 70 cents.

Only Carpenters Hold Out.

All building trades excepting the Carpenters' District council have agreed to abide by Judge Landis' decision, which the arbiter will not make until working rules have been agreed upon by the Chicago Building Trades council, the Building Construction Employers' association, and the Associated Builders.

The Associated Builders last week approved the uniform agreement suggested by Judge Landis. The Building Construction Employers' association and the Building Trades council, however, objected to a clause that would abolish the joint board of arbitration heretofore relied upon to settle disputes in the building trades.

Judge Landis is continuing the conferences.

Six Aces in Poker Deck May Cost Winner His Life

Six aces in a poker deck may cost the life of Scully Sanducci, 24, of 732 Gilpin street. Playing yesterday with Charles Sandi and Paul Lamelli of the same address, Canducci won steadily. Sandi counted the cards and found six aces and stabbed Sanducci in the abdomen. Sandi and Lamelli are being held.

LAKES TO GULF CANAL WOULD PAY FOR SELF IN YEAR'

Fuel Saving Would Do It, Rotarians Told.

"The saving on fuel alone would pay for a lakes to the gulf waterway in one year."

This was the assertion of E. T. Harrod, chairman of the waterways committee of the Illinois Manufacturers' association and vice president of the Great Lakes, St. Lawrence, Tidewater association, who spoke yesterday before the Rotary club at the Hotel Sherman.

The opening of the St. Lawrence waterway, so that ocean going vessels might discharge their cargoes at lake ports, a project which would cost in the neighborhood of $250,000,000, would pay for itself within an incredibly short period, he declared, through the production of 4,000,000 electrical horse power in this vicinity.

Would Aid New England, Too.

Even the New England states, Mr. Harrod said, would benefit by the tremendous saving in coal.

"In 1920 many million bushels of grain failed of sale and delivery because it was impossible to obtain facilities for its export," he said. "Gov. Harding of Iowa states that $250,000,000 would represent the loss during 1920 to Iowa alone due to this shortage of transportation.

"It is inconceivable that one or two ports on the Atlantic coast should be able to handle the agricultural and industrial products of our entire country. There need only be forty-six miles of the St. Lawrence channelized. It will take seven locks to overcome a fall of 247 feet from Lake Ontario to Montreal. The lost time on this stretch would be five hours. The lost time through the Welland canal and the canals at the Sault would be seven hours, making a total of from twelve to thirteen hours in all. The lost time in the port of New York exceeds this amount.

Huge Saving of Coal.

"The development of electrical energy on the St. Lawrence project is estimated by the engineers appointed by the international commission at 4,000,000 horse power, creating a saving of from 60,000,000 to 70,000,000 tons of coal per annum."

BOLGATE GOES TO CHINA.

Prof. Thomas F. Holgate of the Northwestern university leaves today for China to spend a year. He will lecture on mathematics in the University of Nanking and at the University of Pekin. Mrs. Holgate and their two daughters will accompany him.

SEES GOOD WORK OF ALGONQUIN, SENDS DONATION

Thinks All Would Aid if They Knew Need.

Camp Algonquin received commendation yesterday from Representative Adolph J. Sabath, who inclosed a check for $10 with the following letter:

"Please accept my check for $10 toward the Algonquin camp fund. Mrs. Sabath and I had the pleasure to spend a few days with our folks directly opposite the camp on the other side of the river, and watched with great satisfaction the splendid treatment accorded the little ones.

"I feel that if others could only see, as I have, the great good that is being accomplished they would gladly send a donation to such a deserving cause."

ALL MEMBERS OF BALTIMORE COAL CHANGE INDICTED

Baltimore, Md., Aug. 2.—The officers, directors and individual members of the Baltimore Coal Exchange were indicted by the grand jury today on charges of making a monopoly through a combine to manipulate and fix the price of anthracite coal.

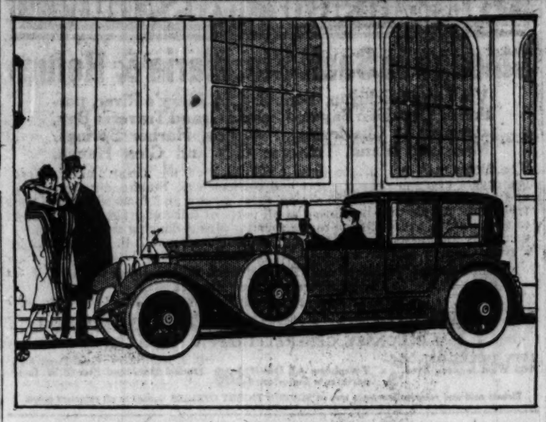

The evidence placed before the grand jury by State's Attorney Leach indicated that the alleged combine was formed last Aug. 15.

The indictment avers that 90 per cent of the coal dealers in Baltimore are members of the coal exchange and are parties to a combine or trust for the manipulation of prices. Twenty-six men were named by the grand jury as parties to the alleged monopoly.

The indictment includes, besides the Hill, J. Edward Waesche of the Chesapeake Coal company; J. Harry Weat, Enterprise Coal company; Charles N. Parkinson, American Ice company, Benjamin F. Lucas, City Ice company, and Bushrod M. Watts, all being among the better known dealers of the city. The Carroll Independent Coal company also was indicted as a corporation.

PRISON OFFICER AT CAMP GRANT SHOT; MYSTERY

Rockford, Ill., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Capt. Robert Ferris, 53d infantry, Camp Grant prison officer, was shot and seriously wounded this afternoon as he was driving alone in his automobile on New Milford road near the cantonment. Capt. Ferris is believed to have been the victim of an unidentified gunman who has terrorized the highway since the mysterious shooting of Mrs. Maude Lucille Moss, daughter of Bion J. Arnold, Chicago. Mrs. Moss was killed June 15, 1920, while riding in an automobile with her husband and a party of friends. Her slayer was never apprehended. One suspect has been arrested.

JAPS COMPLETE ACQUISITION OF RICH SHANTUNG

BY CHARLES DAILEY.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

TSINGTAO, Aug. 2.—Tsingtao and the rich Chinese province of Shantung are now as much a permanent part of the mikado's realm as Yokohama and Honshiu. The imperial directors are ready to perform the promised political formality of returning this former German concession to the republic of China, but the economic fealty of the region seems fixed, to be changed only by war or the evolution of decades. Tokio expects Shantung to play the same part in the industrial development of Japan that the upper Ohio valley has played in the history of the United States.

This is shown by an interview today with Maj. Gen. M. Yui, the military governor of Shantung at Tsingtao. On the way to his office on the high promontory overlooking the beautiful Kaio Chiao bay I walked through the center of the vast investments which the Japanese have made since they took the country from the Germans, and still are making. Whatever the financial depression in Japan, the Shantung promoters have no difficulty in obtaining money there for the building of factories and industries in this region.

There is already no fear of competition from foreigners, and particularly from Americans.

No Fear of Americans.

"As to restrictions upon foreigners doing business here," said Gen. Yui, "there are none. They have but to come in and ask our permission to do business. They can come in on exactly the same terms as the Japanese or the Chinese. But the truth is there is really no opening here for foreign merchants."

Gen. Yui lit a fresh cigaret. The pause let the thought sink home that the open door was closed already.

"The trade through the port of Tsingtao is in the hands of the Japanese. The center of distribution of foreign goods in China is Shanghai. The port of Tsingtao can supply only that territory covered by the Shantung railway as far as Tsinanfu, a distance of 260 miles. Beyond that point the traffic is moved more cheaply along the line of the Tientsin-Pukow railway. Since there is no chance for any other business then that which Japan controls there is no injury to any foreigner.

Land for Foreigners.

"If any foreigners wish to come in here and try for business they are welcome. There are often circulated erroneous reports that the leasing of land for factory or other sites is restricted. This is untrue. There has been no attempt to shut out either the foreigners or the Chinese. Any person may obtain a lease for ten years on any of the government controlled property. There is no restriction as to the size of the plot.

"But Japan cannot grant leases for a longer period than ten years, since as the Kaio Criao leased territory is not a colony we cannot have the question of long leases to come up and complicate the surrender of the territory to China. Foreigners who wish land in the leased territory need have no anxiety, as they will receive an indemnity for their improvements, if ordered to vacate at the expiration of their leases."

WOMAN MISSING; DAUGHTER'S BRUSH WITH MORON BLAMED

The police are searching for Mrs. Margaret Burke, 2655 Burling street, who disappeared on Sunday. Two years ago, according to her stepfather, Jack Alford, Mrs. Burke's mind was weakened when a companion of her 5 year old daughter was killed by a moron. The mother was sent to Kankakee hospital and was released last November. On June 14 last her husband died.

MRS. MARGARET BURKE.

"Margaret said she was going for a little walk Sunday afternoon. We haven't heard from her since," Alford said.

14,000 "BUG CLUB" MEMBERS JOIN IN COURT FIGHT

An intervening petition signed by 14,000 members of the "Bug club," otherwise the Washington park forum, was filed yesterday before Judge Harry A. Fisher in Circuit court. The petition asks that the South Park commissioners be restrained from interfering with the club's meetings in Washington park. Hearing was set for Aug. 22, after the commissioner's attorney promised there would be no interference with the club pending the outcome.

TWO HELD FOR BOOZE DEATH.

Following the death yesterday of Philip Casner, 9002 The Strand, police are seeking the source of the liquor which caused his death. A fifteen gallon still was found at 1244 South Michigan avenue, from where he had been taken to St. Luke's hospital. Joseph Martin and Mrs. M. Conte were arrested at that address.

The Standard of the World

Not a Penny of Premium in the Price of World's Greatest Motor Car Value

The man who buys the Cadillac becomes the owner of the most distinguished achievement recorded in its field—but he acquires that distinction without paying a penny's worth of premium.

This is so because, in the matter of price, the Cadillac actually reverses a world-wide practice.

There is an unwritten business law that when a manufactured article is conceded to be without equal among its kind, the buyer gladly gives more for the greater value which its excellence assures him.

In the case of the Cadillac, this admission of greater value is freely and frankly given.

And yet—contrary to world-wide custom—the Cadillac is lower in price than the cars which eagerly seek comparison with it.

Moreover, it outsells all of them combined by a ratio of something like three to one.

This latter fact explains why the Cadillac is not only the world's greatest value in point of all that constitutes superb performance, but the world's greatest value in price as well.

It is the only car of its high character which has been able to apply to a large production that fineness of manufacture which is really its special excellence and value.

And by reason of that large volume, the Cadillac is spared the necessity of asking a higher price for manifestly higher excellence.

NATIONS GIVE UP PLAN OF CAUCUS ON DISARMAMENT

U. S. Willing to Agree to Agenda in Advance.

[BY A STAFF CORRESPONDENT.]

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—State department officials had confirmation today of reports that Great Britain and the dominion premiers have abandoned their efforts to bring about a preliminary conference on far eastern questions.

This information was welcome news to the administration, which has opposed any formal conference in advance of the Washington conclave on limitation of armaments and eastern problems proposed by President Harding and soon to be called officially.

Nov. 11 Date Seems Sure.

With this possible cause of embarrassment out of the way officials here believe arrangements for the conference may soon be made, and it is their belief, based upon negotiations with the invited powers, that Nov. 11, armistice day, suggested by President Harding as an appropriate date, will be agreed upon.

Reports that Great Britain, France, and Italy have joined with Japan in a desire that the agenda for the conference be agreed upon in advance are not at all disturbing to Washington officials. They are willing that this should be done.

PREMIER DISAPPOINTED

BY JOHN STEELE.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright, 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, Aug. 2.—In deference to the wishes of Washington, Great Britain has abandoned the idea of a preliminary conference on the far eastern problems preceding the general disarmament conference in November.

This official announcemnt brought disappointment to Mr. Lloyd George, who had planned to go to America very soon, but who will now spend his vacation in Scotland instead.

It is the prime minister's intention to attend the Washington conference in November, but whether he will be able to do so depends on the state of the world, and particularly of those parts of it in which Great Britain is interested, at that time.

It is also undecided yet whether the British dominions will be represented in Washington separately or through one of the empire's delegates.

At present an interchange of ideas is going on through the embassies about the agenda of the conference.

Disarmament Conference to Cost America Heavily

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—Director Dawes of the budget bureau has been notified by the state department that extraordinary expenses will be incurred this year on account of the disarmament conference. No figures were transmitted, but the estimate must be submitted before Aug. 15, it was said.

QUICK, WATSON!

Here's Tangle in Marital Relationships to Daze Even Your Mighty Brain!

Mr. and Mrs. H. C. Mills are pictured in the upper row. Below are Grace C. Sims Mills and Harry K. Mills.

WHEN Harry K. Mills marries Grace Sims Mills on Sept. 26, his father will become his father-in-law, and his mother-in-law will be his stepmother. In like manner, Miss Mills' mother-in-law will be her own mother, and her stepfather will become her father-in-law. Harry's father, Harry C. Mills, married Grace's mother, Mrs. Edward H. Sims, two years ago. They have been living at 10907 Washtenaw avenue, Morgan Park. After the children are married they will continue living with their parents—or would you say their stepparents? Both Harry and Grace are 18 years old.

NO 'NEXT WAR' IF HARDING KEEPS U. S. SAFE LOCKED

No Loans, No Troops, No Conflicts, Edison Says.

BY KARL A. BICKEL.

[General News Manager, United Press.]

Belington, W. Va., Aug. 2.—Keep the nations of the world from obtaining money to prepare for "the next war."

If this is done—and America has the power to do it—President Harding will succeed in the conference he has called for limitation of armament.

In that manner the situation was summed up today by Thomas A. Edison, Henry Ford, and H. S. Firestone as they sat on the shady bank of a rippling West Virginia mountain brook, munching sandwiches, frizzled bacon, and talking about disarmament, prosperity, and golf.

Campers Take It Easy.

Edison leaned against the side of his car; Firestone sat upon the running board; Ford moved restlessly about.

"Do you think Mr. Harding can put this disarmament program over?" Ford asked Edison.

"I don't like to answer that offhand," replied Edison. He was the only man in the group who was smoking.

"I'd rather hear you say it offhand," retorted Ford.

The man who first envisaged the electric light was silent for a moment.

"I think it will depend upon money,' he said.

A Matter of Money.

"If the money can be found to keep on maintaining armies and navies I think the conference will fail. Only the absolute lack of money and the inability to see where they can get any more funds to pay for the expense of war preparedness will force the military element to accept a real disarmament. If Harding can keep them from getting the money he'll succeed with his program. It pretty largely rests on him."

"The common people around the world will back him up on that," injected Ford. "They are sick and tired of spending money on old wars and new ones. They are tired of the clap trap talk of 'the next war'."

America's Great Chance.

Firestone hadn't joined in the talk until now.

"It's America's great opportunity," he said. "It all depends upon the quality of American leadership. There's all the difference in the world between the man who says, 'Come on, boys, follow me,' and the man who says, 'I'm with you; where shall we go?'

"I believe Harding has the courage to map a program and say, 'Come on, boys.' If he does, he'll win. If he doesn't, he'll lose. He's going to have subtle opposition. It won't come out in the open. But they will be right on their toes to wreck the conference if they see the slightest indication of indecision."

"The motives of men," said Edison slowly, "are unfathomable."

"Humph," responded Ford, "you said it."

TAMMANY FOES PICK CURRAN IN MAYORALTY RACE

New York, Aug. 2.—Opponents of Tammany Hall, represented by the coalition Republican movement, after weeks of deliberation, today formally named Maj. Henry H. Curran, president of the borough of Manhattan, as their choice for mayor at the primaries Sept. 13.

Senator Charles C. Lockwood of Brooklyn, a strong contender, stepped aside at the last moment, and was named for controller. Both designations were unanimous.

The primary race was made a four cornered affair when County Judge Reuben L. Haskell of Brooklyn announced, while the fusionists were meeting, that he was a candidate for mayor in the Republican primaries. The other contenders for the Republican nomination are Maj. F. H. La Guardia of Manhattan, president of the board of aldermen, and former Senator W. M. Bennett of Brooklyn.

This is YELLOW CAB'S Birthday

This day—August 3—is the Sixth Anniversary of the YELLOW CAB, and we seize the occasion to thank Chicago for its generous support. This has become the biggest cab company in the world, partly through your patronage, partly through the splendid work of our employes. There isn't another set of men like them in existence.

It is hard to realize that this big company is only six years old—that such tremendous strides have been made in so short a time. Yet it has grown from 45 cabs on August 3, 1915, to 1,200 cabs on August 3, 1921—and from 60 drivers to 2,500.

Perhaps you don't realize it, yet it is true, that in six short years we have utterly revolutionized the cab business in this city and given Chicago the lowest cab rates in the world.

We are running the business as you would run it if you owned it. We have had many hard conditions to overcome, and have made some mistakes, but we try never to make the same one twice. We are on the streets 24 hours of every day and seven days in the week, and every time you ride in a YELLOW, you are protected to the very limit of man's ability.

Today we have 3,000 stockholders. Of this number, fully two-thirds are employes who are fond of their connection and eager to share in our prosperity. Isn't this a fairly good record for six years?

SOUTHPAW GOLF TOURNEY TODAY AT MIDLOTHIAN

AGAIN WE LEAD WORLD

HAVING discarded the hammer and secured a horn permits us to toot the fact that the Olympia Fields Country club leads both the eastern and western hemispheres in the number of its caddies. The big south side club now has 2,203 registered bag toters and this month the annual caddy tournament will be held. How would you like to be the starter?

BY JOE DAVIS.

Today at Midlothian the port side golfers will have their inning, in which they determine who is the premier golfer of their class.

It is an established fact that few southpaws have been able to reach championship heights. Somewhere in the dim past a left-handed player is reported to have won a British championship, but search of the records in this country fails to show that any offside performer as having been champion in the amateur, open, or women's events.

Possibly the reason is that the southpaws are in a hopeless minority. In billiards Alfredo De Ooro, Augie Kiechefer, and Edouard Horemans, left handed players, have won championships, and in other sports many of their class have obtained prominence, but in golf it is a different story.

May be they need left handed golf courses.

The Midlothian southpaw event is now a classic, and, weather permitting, there will be a good sized field out.

Medal Play to Score.

Play will be at thirty-six holes, the principal gold medal going to the contestant having low gross score, while the second medal goes to the player having low net. A special prize will be given for low net in the afternoon.

Morning trains leave the La Salle street station at 8, 9:15, and 11:45.

The open event scheduled yesterday at the Glen View club, under the auspices of the Women's Western Golf association, was called off on account of the rain. The event may be reallotted some time next month.

Golfers are notoriously slow in sending in their entries, so be it noted that the entry list for the western open championship at the Oakwood club of Cleveland, Aug. 24 to 26, close Aug. 19 with W. W. Harless, secretary of the Western Golf association, 175 West Jackson boulevard, Chicago. The entry fee is $5. The prizes are $350, $225, $125, $80, $65, $50, $40, $30, $20, and $15.

City Amateur Title Play Soon.

Prospective contestants in the Chicago amateur championship at Jackson park, Aug. 8 to 13, can make time reservations by mail with Mr. Lincoln at the Jackson Park Golf club, 1553 East 63d street. The entry fee of $1 must accompany the application. Entries also will be received at the tee. Reservations will be made from 8 a. m. to 1 p. m. Contestants wishing to start after 1 o'clock must arrange for their time at the tee Aug. 8.

Edward K. Orr, chairman eighteenth annual Pater-Filius tournament of the Midlothian Country club, to be held Aug. 24, is working hard to secure the biggest entry in the history of the event. It is open to fathers and sons affiliated with clubs of the U. S. G. A. and Western Golf association. It is a thirty-six hole handicap for the trophy and gold medals. Mr. Orr has donated two prizes for low gross. His address is 1016 Corn Exchange Bank building.

Women Play Today.

Members of the Women's Western Golf association will start today at the Indian Hill club in the first eighteen holes of a thirty-six hole medal play tournament that will be finished tomorrow. The field will be divided into four flights and prizes will be given to the player registering the lowest gross score for thirty-six holes in each division. There will also be a prize for the choice eighteen of thirty-six holes in each flight, as well as for approaching and putting, and for the low net score during the entire round.

The approaching and putting contest will be played tomorrow and, in order to expedite the play, two flights will play toward one green and two flights toward another.

Work on Hinsdale Club House.

Work has commenced on the new club house at the Hinsdale Golf club, and the structure is expected to be under roof by the time the snow flies, so that work may continue throughout the winter and the building be ready for occupancy next spring. The old structure was destroyed by fire last April.

The architecture will be distinctly Elizabethan, yet the quarters will be modern in convenience and absolutely fireproof.

Hinsdale is one of the oldest golf clubs in the Chicago district, having been organized in 1898.

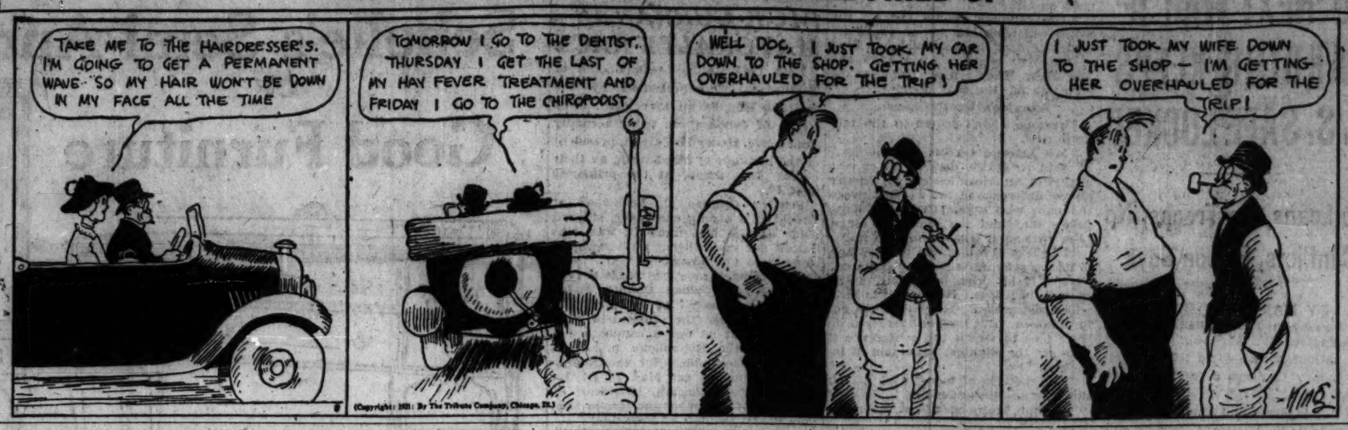

MICHIGAN GOLF TEAM WINS MATCH

Iron Mountain, Mich., Aug. 2.—With a margin of 31 points, the upper Michigan Peninsula Golf team defeated the Northeastern Wisconsin Golf association team in a 36 hole golf match over the Pine Grove golf course here. The afternoon flight ended in 23 to 11 points in favor of Michigan, combined with the morning score of 29 to 10, making a total of 52 for Michigan and 21 for Wisconsin.

HOPPE READY TO DEFEND TITLES

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—R. B. Benjamin, manager of Willie Hoppe, today announced that Hoppe is ready to defend all three of his balkline titles —18.2, 18.1, and 14.1—against any players who think they have a chance on the green cloth with him. This is the first definite announcement that the champion has made regarding his 18.1 and 14.1 titles. Heretofore his statements have simply dealt with the 18.2 championship.

GASOLINE ALLEY—GETTING 'EM ALL FIXED UP

IN the WAKE of the NEWS

HOW IT HAPPENS.

The Lonnies, the Guys, and the Milwaukee Bills,
Who tell us so gently we're nothing but "pills,"
Are the ones that you meet at the dance, at the tea—
With smiles bold and dazzling, with eyes wild and free,
As they seek for the dame that is pretty and sweet,
And they quarrel as to which one shall sit at her feet,
While the most that she says is "Oh, Man," or "Oh, Boy,"
They feel that the hours are just bursting with joy,
And before they're aware, in the midst of the game,

They ask her the questions which changes her name.
Then, after they're married—the bells have been rung—
They mop up their tears and declare they've been stung.
They forget how they rushed by the sensible girls
Whose minds held some subjects, not marcels and curls.

But the Lonnies, the Guys, and the Milwaukee Bills,
Never see these petunias—they're looking for thrills!
They get 'em—ah yes! but they carry their lesson—
Which is usually found in the Delicatessen.

What's the Matter with the Cubs?

Dear Wake: There's nothing the matter with the Cubs except injuries enough to send any team to sixth or even eighth place. In addition was the collapse of the pitching staff. We fans are sticking and we expect the team to get together and do better.

City Ways in Evanston.

We are becoming citified in Evanston. First came Chicago's unwashed to crowd us off our lake beaches, and now follows some of the city's otherwise unemployed with the to us unfamiliar admonition, "Stick 'em up," a phrase which grates harshly so near the classic precincts of Northwestern university.

Nearly opposite The Wake's window Monday night two persons, whom we feel sure were not the proper sort, drew up to the curb in an automobile, jumped from the car with revolvers in hand, and without any explanation took money and jewelry from three unresisting villagers on foot. The police came the next morning, but the miscreants had fled.

In justice to the police, however, it must be stated that the neighbors, roused from slumber by muffled cries for help, were so unaccustomed to such happenings that none thought to phone the constabulary until at a neighborhood conference on the parkway the next morning we decided something ought to be done about it. The police, on arrival, confirmed our theory that it was what is known in Chicago as a holdup. We are real upset about the affair.

Speaking of holdups reminds of the time when "Paz," now conducting "The Line," met highwaymen, and enables us indirectly to answer the question of several Helpers, "What sort of a fellow is Paz?"

When about to enter his apartment one morning Paz was a victim of stickup men, who appropriated his wealth, amounting to 25 cents, and the following dialogue took place.

Holdup—"What's your job that you got only two bits?"

Paz—"I'm a writing person, a newspaper guy."

H.—"Take back your money then, you need it worse than we do."

P.—"That's mighty decent of you chaps. I'd invite you in, but my wife never did approve of my friends."

CAN FISHES TALK?

THE Wednesday morning class in icthyology is now in session. Adolph Metz and several others are interested in the suggestion made by Dr. Graham Bell, the distinguished inventor of the telephone, that fishes are able to communicate with one another.

If the skull of one of our common or bony fishes is examined it will be seen that it is made up of three parts, exclusive of the jaws or other arches. The large central chamber contains the brain and the orbit or eye socket; the forward portion holds the organs of smell, and the rear section those of hearing. The latter generally consist of large stony or chalky bodies peculiarly grooved and marked.

In the fresh water sheephead or drum these "ear bones" or otoliths bear the impress of the capital letter "L," which, as any small boy can tell you, stands for only one thing: Luck. For my part, I would never think of going fishing without one of these "lucky stones" in my pocket

One would hardly suppose that the air bladder of a fish had any connection with the sense of hearing, but such seems to be the case. It is quite probable that the swim bladder acts as a resonator or amplifier, showing that old Mother Nature knew a thing or two about telephony long before Dr. Bell appeared upon the scene.

Some fishes make sounds which are plainly heard by human ears. The drums make deep booming noises, the fresh water dogfish or bowfin makes a twanging sound, as does the needle fish. Incidentally, these sounds are often made or amplified by the swim bladder, a fact known some thousands of years ago by Aristotle.

Whether the sounds are made for the purpose of communicating with other fishes is not known, but any one who has watched fishes generally comes to the conclusion that they do at times communicate with each other.

TROVENGER WINS CANADIAN OPEN

Toronto, Aug. 2.—W. H. Trovenger of Detroit today won the Canadian open golf championship with a score of 293 for the seventy-two holes. Mike Brady, also of Detroit, was second with a card of 296.

It was the third consecutive year that the event was won by an American, as J. Douglas Edgar of Atlanta, Ga., won it in 1919 and 1920.

Brady had taken the lead in the morning round with a 70, but fell back in the afternoon with a 78. Trovenger's morning score was 71, while in the afternoon he took only two more strokes.

Bob MacDonald of Chicago, yesterday's leader, took third place with a score of 298.

RAIN HALTS CUBS' TILT WITH BRAVES —2 GAMES TODAY

BY I. E. SANBORN.

Rain that was welcomed by everybody, including the Cubs, prevented the opening game with the Braves at the north side yesterday and precipitated a double header for this afternoon beginning at 1:30 o'clock. By that time Manager Evers expects to have one or two of the men on his hospital list ready to play again.

JOHNNY EVERS. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Turner Barber probably will return from St. Louis, where he was called by the illness of his sister, in time to take up his job in the garden.

Cubs Out to Break Streak.

Since returning home the Cubs have won only one out of eight games from Brooklyn and Philadelphia.

With the regulars who have been put out of play through various ills and other causes back in the fold "Jawn" expected his Cubs to sharpen their claws at the expense of the eastern teams who are booked to appear here before the Bruins take to the road again.

Aleck May Hurl Today.

Alexander probably will pitch one of today's games.

Boston will be here until Friday, then the New York Giants, padded for the pennant, will come for four games beginning Saturday.

RAIN GIVES SOX REST

BY JAMES CRUSINBERRY.

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Boss Gleason's boys, who are carrying and trying to reëstablish the name of the White Sox to its former standard in baseball, were compelled to remain idle today and will have to double up on the September trip because of a drizzling rain that started before daybreak and kept up until evening.

Gleason packed his lads into a sleeper tonight bound for Boston where a four days' stay will begin tomorrow and Boston is a tougher team to lick than the tailenders conducted by Mr. Mack. However, Red Faber and Dick Kerr are all set for the slabbing of the first two games so there is hope of knocking the Red Sox down in at least two games.

Sox Play Talk of Fans.

People who figured the White Sox a total wreck after the loss of the boys who are now on trial in Chicago are always surprised when they see the present outfit perform.

A visitor at the Sox hotel today was none other than Jimmie Sheckard, the old-time star outfielder of the Cubs in the days when Frank Chance had them winning a lot of pennants.

HIPPO VAUGHN.

[TRIBUNE Photo.]

BIG JIM VAUGHN, one-time premier hurler of the Cubs, but who slipped into suspension last month, will make his debut as a semi-pro in Chicago tonight at Pyott park, when the Fairbanks-Morse nine of Beloit, Wis., will clash with Niesen's Pyotts in a twilight game.

Vaughn was suspended by Manager Evers for deserting the Cubs in New York after being hit for home runs by Pitcher Douglas and Catcher Snyder in one inning on July 19, while on their last swing around the eastern circuit.

Vaughn made a trip to Beloit last Monday and is said to have signed a contract with the Beloit team.

Vaughn has been in major league baseball for sixteen seasons, coming to the Cubs from Kansas City in 1913. He is reported to have had a contract calling for $9,000.

The Fairies-Pyotts game, while not a Midwest league encounter, will have all the rivalry of a league combat. The game is billed to start at 6:15.

The only championship game of the league race on the card for tonight is at Kenosha, where the Joliet Standards will play the Simmons club.

A semi-pro club touted as one of the strongest in downstate circles will be at Logan Square tomorrow night. The club comes from Springfield and is known as the Sangamon Electrics.

Only one game in the championship series of the league will be played in Chicago this week and that will be at Marquette Manor park, where the Simmons team of Kenosha will try conclusions Sunday afternoon.

THE GUMPS—ANDY WENT AWAY FOR MIN'S VACATION

WILSON, DOWNEY, MUST BOX AGAIN: N. Y. COMMISSION

WHATSAMATTER?

LONDON, Aug. 3, 1 a. m.—Georges Carpentier, says the Daily Mail today, has not arranged to fight Tom Gibbons or for any other contest in the United States, and it is extremely improbable that he ever will be seen in the ring in the United States again.

BY HARRY NEWMAN.

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The New York state athletic commission, in passing judgment this afternoon at its regular weekly meeting, decided on the recent fracas in Cleveland between Johnny Wilson, the middleweight champion, and Bryan Downey, decided that John and Bryan must step out and do it all over again before they will be permitted to show their wares in New York.

BRYAN DOWNEY. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Incidentally the commission in a statement issued decreed that a referee's decision is final, which would indicate that the local commission has no intention of concurring with the Cleveland boxing board, which overruled the decision of the referee in the bout between Wilson and Downey and declared Downey the champion middleweight.

According to the ruling of the New York board, neither Downey nor Wilson will be permitted to box here against any opponent until they have had another match with a satisfactory ending. The commission explained, however, that its ruling would be suspended if the boxers wished to settle their dispute here.

Manager Dunn in Gotham.

Jimmy Dunn, manager for Downey, dropped in on the writer tonight to present his version of the affair and all of the alleged unfair treatment his boxer had received from Jimmy Gardner, the referee of the contest.

Dunn insists that Downey was robbed of the championship. Dunn armed with him a raft of affidavits from officials and others connected with the bout, who declare that Wilson was decisively beaten and that Downey was cheated out of an honest victory.

In the list of affidavits presented by Dunn is one from Art Foote, the timekeeper of the contest, wherein Foote swears that Downey at no time during the bout struck an unfair or foul blow.

Wilson Out Three Times.

Foote further swears that, according to his timing, Wilson was on the floor thirteen and four-fifths seconds on the first knockdown, while the referee sent through with the count. On the second knockdown, according to Foote, Wilson was down thirteen and two-fifths seconds, and on the last knockdown Wilson was down thirteen and two-fifths seconds before the announcement by the referee that Wilson had been fouled.

Dunn says that nobody but a brave man would have attempted to do such a thing as Gardner did in the face of such a crowd and with the result so convincing.

No Foul Blows in Bout.

"It was an outrage," Dunn said. "Wilson was knocked out three times in that seventh round. Gardner counted ten over Wilson twice on the first two knockdowns, yet after Downey went to his corner each time figuring that the fight was over he allowed the helpless Wilson to continue. The last time Wilson went down there was no need of a count.

"Wilson was out cold that last time, yet the referee declared that Downey had fouled and gave the verdict to the worst beaten man you ever say. There were no foul blows struck. Downey always fights fair. Downey was robbed and that is all there is to it."

Downey accompanied Dunn to New York and will stay here several days in the hope of getting his side of the fracas straightened out to his satisfaction.

BOXING LICENSE INTERNATIONAL CLUB REVOKED

New York, Aug. 2.—The New York state boxing commission today formally revoked the license of the International Sporting club because of the disorderly manner in which the Herman-Lynch fight recently was conducted at Ebbets field, Brooklyn. Specific charges against the club were not preferred by the commission.

The sporting club was notified last week to appear before the commission today for a hearing. In answer to the summons the club returned its license, stating that it would hold all its future bouts in the state of New Jersey.

Officials of the club declared that the conduct inside the arena was on the whole orderly and disclaimed responsibility for what occurred outside the grounds, alleging it was not responsible if too few police had been detailed.

Two hours after the appointed time today, Tex O'Rourke, representing the club, appeared before the commission. He was notified that the license already had been revoked. He made no protest, intimating, however, that his club would seek a renewal of the license at a future date.

KANE SURE CARP WILL RETURN TO BATTLE GIBBONS

Persistent reports that Georges Carpentier may not come back to the United States to fulfill his contract to box Tommy Gibbons are worrying fistic fans, who are planning to see the mill. Eddie Kane, manager of Gibbons, has been pestered with inquiries regarding the possibility of Georges flunking, but believes the Frenchman will be back and keep his word with Rickard. Gibbons is all set for the match. Kane left last night for the north woods to meet Gibbons and took with him Sammy Mandell, the Rockford bantam flash. Sammy went to learn a few ring tricks from the veteran Tommy.

FREEDMAN TO WIND UP HARD TRAINING FOR GO WITH WELLING TODAY

TRIBUNE DECISIONS

Decisions of Tribune boxing representatives are:

At Mount Carmel, Pa.—Wally Pickle and Joe Gano, draw [10].

At Lancaster, Pa.—Sam McVey and Jeff Clark, draw [10].

BY WALTER ECKERSALL.

Sailor Freedman, lightweight pride of the west side, who will trade punches with Joe Welling, crack 135 pounder of the Lewis-Walsh stable, in the main event of Jim Mullin's boxing show at Aurora on Friday night, will end strenuous training today with hard workouts.

Although both boxers have put in a busy two days, they intend to finish the conditioning grind today with eight or ten rounds of boxing. Freedman went six sessions with three different partners at the Arcade yesterday, while Welling went the same number with Eddie Mahoney and Bud Dempsey at Ferretti-Forbes gym.

Boxers' Grudge Battle.

It developed yesterday that Promoter Mullin was responsible for having the boxers work at different gymnasiums. After the match was made it was agreed that Welling should start work at the Arcade at 2 o'clock in the afternoon and Freedman would do his work an hour and a half later. The bad feeling which exists between the boxers caused the promoter to change his plans, as he wants the men to settle their differences in the ring at Aurora on Friday night and not in the gymnasium or on the street.

Freedman yesterday took exception to Welling's statement that he knocked the west sider down twice in their recent meeting at Louisville. Sailor admitted he went to the canvas as a result of a foul blow, but came back and won the popular decision.

Expect Capacity Crowd.

Jimmy Kelly, west side bantam, and Young Farrell, who meet in the ten round semi-windup, each boxed six rounds at the Arcade yesterday, as did Herbie Schaeffer and Phil Harrison. The former will tackle Whitey Ross in the six round opener, while Harrison will swap punches with Al Morris of the west side in the other opening event.

Tomorrow's work will consist of only light exercise. Fighters who make weight will weigh in at Aurora at 3 o'clock on the day of the show.

Indications point to a capacity crowd. There is a large demand for tickets at 129 North Dearborn street, 153 North Clark street, 3216 West Roosevelt road, and at Eddie Tancel's, on the west side. Popular prices will prevail and special trains will leave over the Aurora and Elgin electric at 6:35 and 6:50 on the evening of the show.

NEW YORK BANS CATCHWEIGHTS

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—According to William Muldoon, chairman of the New York state athletic commission, there will be no more championship matches allowed in New York state at catch weights. Contestants in the various divisions will be compelled to make the required weight governing their classes on the day of the contest.

It is explained by the boxing board that such a ruling will prevent a repetition of the Wilson-Downey rumpus which gave the game such a black eye in Cleveland.

It is finderstood that Wilson weighed 174 pounds when he went into the ring with Downey and was in no sense representing the middleweight division. With this in mind, the New York commission has adopted the new rule as a precautionary measure.

BENNY DRILLS FOR SOUTHPAW STYLE

New York, Aug. 2.—Benny Leonard, lightweight champion, will be well accustomed to left handed fighters when he engages Lew Tendler in an eight round no-decision contest in Philadelphia Aug. 12. Leonard has engaged a squad of sparring partners who stand with their right hand and right arm forward, and is working with them daily to the exclusion of all boxers of the natural type.

HERMAN SIGNED TO BOX MONTREAL

New Orleans, La., Aug. 2.—[Special.]—Dominick Tortorich, the local promoter, tonight signed with Pete Herman, world's bantamweight champion, to meet Young Montreal here on Labor day, Sept. 5, in a ten round match. Montreal holds two decisions over Herman.

Gibbons-Ratner Scrap Deferred Till Tomorrow

New York, Aug. 2.—The ten round match between Mike Gibbons of St. Paul and Augie Ratner of New York, set for tonight in an open air arena, has been postponed until Thursday night because of rain.

The caption on the photo says Georges has been drinking beer (an obsolete word in America). The girl with the big eyes at Carpentier's table is Mme. Dartex, celebrated Parisian beauty, who already "this season" has won 100,000 francs at chemin de fer, a popular French gambling game.

WILLARD WIRES TEX AND ARCHER TO HOLD CONFERENCE ON BOUT

Topeka, Kas., Aug. 2.—Jess Willard of Lawrence, Kas., former heavyweight champion, tonight sent two telegrams to New York, asking Tex Rickard, promoter, and Ray O. Archer, Willard's business manager, to hold a conference. The telegrams were in response to Rickard's message last night asking Willard how long it would take him to get into condition to fight.

Willard did not state what terms would be asked of Rickard for a fight with Dempsey.

"I will want four of five months for training," Willard said tonight. "I am anxious to fight Dempsey, and Rickard is my choice for a promoter. As to monetary terms, I cannot announce what offer I made Rickard.

"I probably will do some training at my home near Lawrence, in case I enter into a contract to meet Dempsey, and may do most of it on the coast at Los Angeles probably. I have my Lawrence property on the market and expect to make my home in California if I sell."

CIRCUIT RACING AWAITS DRY DAY

Toledo, O., Aug. 2.—Todays' program of Grand Circuit racing at Fort Miami track has been postponed until Wednesday.

Rain which fell last night and this morning made racing impossible, but the track is expected to dry out in time to permit resumption of racing tomorrow.

Today's entire card has been announced for tomorrow and barring further postponement, the card will be raced as it now stands, the meeting closing Saturday with the card originally arranged for Friday afternoon.

BABE BATS BALLS TO KID FRIENDS

New York, Aug. 2.—Babe Ruth has inaugurated a new before-the-game pastime that has sent his stock soaring 100 points in the estimation of youthful fans.

During batting practice in the Cleveland series, the Babe has been filching old balls from the umpires' sacks, piling them in front of the visiting teams' dugout and lambasting them into the upper tier of the right field stands and the right field bleachers.

The scrambling of youthful bodies that ensues affords the Khedive of Kilkenny great amusement.

Georges Sees His Mistakes in Movies of Title Battle

BY HENRY WALES.

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

PARIS, Aug. 2.—With Georges Carpentier and Harry Pilcer I witnessed the showing of the official fight movies from a rear box in the Theatre de Paris tonight. Georges explained the progress of the battle and lamented his mistakes.

"My tactics from the start were wrong," Georges said. When the first round showed him mixing and clinching with Dempsey, he said: "I should have kept away and boxed the champion and never got near him."

Carpentier rubbed his nose ruefully, although now healed, when blood was shown spurting.

In tense excitement Carpentier gripped Pilcer's arm during the second round, when the movies showed Dempsey reeling.

"If I had only followed up; I had him there," Georges said. "But you see Dempsey is not off balance. Another solid blow would have felled him."

"More mistakes," mused Georges when the third round showed the fighters at it hammer and tongs.

Carpentier turned away when the knockdown showed in the fatal round. "I can't bear to think of it," Georges said.

The crowd recognized Carpentier and demanded a speech, but he slipped out of a side door. Only a few Americans were there to cheer Dempsey, but the French applauded Carpentier throughout the showing of the film.

RAIN HALTS NET PLAY AT NEWPORT

Newport, R. I., Aug. 2.—Rain halted play in the third round of the invitation lawn tennis tournament at the Casino today. No matches were played during the forenoon but officials said they would be put on later if the weather permitted. The start of the doubles tournament was postponed until tomorrow.

The drawings for the doubles placed Watson M. Washburn and R. Norris Williams II., and William M. Johnston and Willis E. Davis in the upper half with a match between them indicated in the third round.

Ichiya Kumagae and Zenso Shimidzu, Japanese Davis cup team, are in the lower bracket of the second round.

Penn Varsity Athletes to Organize Sport Club

Philadelphia, Pa., Aug. 2.—There is a growing sentiment among University of Pennsylvania athletes to form an athletic club of their own so that they can compete under the Red and Blue colors at the end of the regular college season.

The first step toward the formation of such an organization was taken last week when six former Penn athletes competed at Cleveland in the games connected with that city's municipal jubilee and took second honors in the team score. The men were Gustafson, Eby, Brown, Maxam, Bronder, and Landers.

Godshall and Coffin Win in Sioux City Net Matches

Sioux City, Ia., Aug. 2.—Play in the seventh annual interstate tennis tournament advanced to the third round in the singles event today. Harold Godshall of Los Angeles and Harry Coffin, also of Los Angeles, who will pair with Godshall at the national tournament in Boston, had little trouble in winning their way to the third round. Play in the doubles and juniors tournament will start tomorrow.

Tyrus Home in Georgia to Meet New Master Cobb

Augusta, Ga., Aug. 2.—Ty Cobb, manager of the Detroit Tigers, who is home here getting acquainted with his youngest son, born last week, will rejoin his club in Washington, Wednesday.

CANADA CREWS IN BUFFALO RACES

Toronto, Ont., Aug. 2.—Oarsmen and scullers representing the University of Toronto and the Argonaut and Don Rowing clubs, will compete in the American national regatta at Buffalo, N. Y., Friday and Saturday.

The 'varsity and junior eights of the university have been entered in the senior and intermediate events, respectively. The Argonaut team will consist of a junior fours crew, captained by Joe Wright, and two scullers.

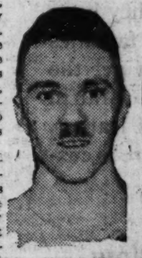

E. B. Butler will compete in the quarter mile singles event and will row with W. Harcourt in the senior doubles. Moran and Walters of the Dons are to go in the intermediate doubles.

Pittsburgh Courts Kept Dry for Davis Cup Play

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 2.—The grass courts of the Allegheny Country club, near here, where the Davis cup elimination matches will be played between the British and Australian teams this week, will be protected each night by heavy canvas from possible rainstorms. The canvas arrived from the east last night and was stretched tonight for the first time. The stands to seat 3,000 spectators have been completed.

JOIE RAY IN EFFORT FOR MILE RECORD IN CENTRAL A. A. U. RUN

JOIE RAY. [Photo: Und. & Und.]

J. P. Jones, former Cornell university athlete, is credited with the world's record for the distance at 4:14 2-5. Following the national championships at Pasadena recently, Ray competed in an invitation meet at Berkeley, Cal., and won his mile race in 4:14 4-5. He finished thirty yards in advance of the field, and might have broken the record had he had the necessary competition.

Joie Again in Condition.

This performance shows that the tricolor club flyer is in condition. Since his return form the coast, Ray has been training daily on Stagg field to learn a faster pace. Arlie Schardt, a former Wisconsin runner, who will compete for the Chicago A. A., undoubtedly will be the only entrant capable of giving Ray a race.

Aside from the mile run, other events will attract a galaxy of stars. Dewey Alberts, former Illinois high jumper, will compete under Cherry Circle colors, as will George Krogness of Harvard in the hurdles and high jump. The Kimball brothers of Cornell also will compete for the C. A. A., as will a number of other well known performers.

Larry Butler in Quarter.

Lawrence Butler, who captained Michigan's track team last year, will run for the I. A. C.'s, as will Dan Brown, the Illinois half miler. Coach Johnny Behr has a number of other good performers.

CARDS RELEASE GOODWIN.

St. Louis, Mo., Aug. 2.—Pitcher Marvin Goodwin of the St. Louis National league club has been released to the Houston club of the Texas league, it was announced here tonight.

UNCLE SAM STEPS ON J. BULL'S TOES AGAIN; WINS EVEN AT CRICKET

[Chicago Tribune Foreign News Service.]

[Copyright: 1921: By The Chicago Tribune.]

WOOLWICH, Aug. 2.—Surprising the British cricket fans, the Philadelphia Pilgrims team beat the Royal Artillery officers by seven wickets today, achieving what no other cricket team accomplished this season.

The artillerymen scored 295 runs for twenty wickets in two innings. The Pilgrims made 297 for only thirteen wickets.

Brilliant team work won the match, the Pilgrim fielders accepting every catch. The Americans thus were not afraid to let the batsmen hit the ball, owing to the certainty that every one going near a fielder would be caught.

S. W. Mifflin showed the English spectators some hard hitting, scoring thirty-two runs in eight hits. Crossman piled thirty-five, not out.

E. Hopkinson was the Pilgrim's most destructive bowler, taking seven wickets for sixty-three. The Pilgrims go to Cambridge tomorrow.

It is understood the players considered most prominently for the 1921 American team are William T. Tilden, William M. Johnston, Watson Washburn, Vincent Richards, R. Norris Williams, and Charles S. Garland.

SPEEDBOATS SPIN TOMORROW FOR PAGEANT TITLE

Chicago comes back into its own as a speedboat center tomorrow when the four days' program of racing events starts at the Pageant of Progress' expedition.

Eleven of the fastest boats in the world are due to start in the contest for the Sinclair trophy, emblematic of the great lakes championship, and twenty other craft are ready for the class races in connection with the trophy event.

Most of the boats already are here, including the famous Miss America, which holds the title of world's champion, and Miss Chciago, the syndicate boat which won the Mississippi valley championship July 4 at Peoria.

Built Solely for Speed.

The boats are all the way from sixteen feet to nearly forty feet long and are built for speed alone. Miss America, equipped with two Liberty engines, is the largest.

This boat won the British international races at Cowes a year ago and probably will be one of the defenders of the title at the renewal of the contests in this country this year. It is owned by Gar Wood of Detroit and has a record of seventy-eight miles per hour.

Commodore Sheldon Clark, who is in charge of the speedboat events, has arranged a program of eight races a day. Each day's event are legs on the trophies to be presented to the winners and are scored accordingly.

How Racers Will Start.

The first event each day, beginning tomorrow, will be for class 151. This starts at 2 o'clock. There are five craft ready to start in this contest. Next comes the 725 class at 2:20 p. m. with ten entrants. The 2,200 class is sent away at 2:45 and twelve craft will start. Next will come the 339 division at 3:05 with seven starters. The largest class will be the 1,300 squadron, which starts at 3:30 and has fourteen craft named. The 475 class starts at 3:50 with seven boats.

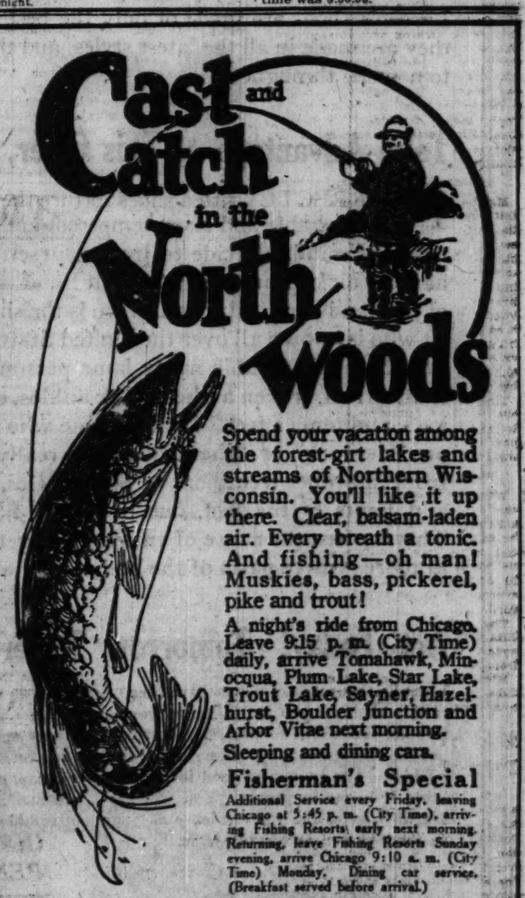

A free for all open to the above boats has been set for 4:15 for the Edgewater Beach Hotel cup.

At 5:20 the course is cleared for the feature event of the meet, the first heat for Sinclair trophy, emblematic of the great lakes speedboat championship.

Its corrected time was 3:05:38. The sloop Grayling, Commodore J. P. Morgan's entry among the three starters, finished second. Vagrant withdrew after the vessels had been making a drifting match for several hours.

Monsoon, owned by F. J. Strauben, won the race for the James N. Hays cup offered to forty footers. The course was the first leg of the King's cup distance and return. Monsoon's time was 3:50:02.

Private Fitting Room for Ladies with Lady Assistant in Attendance

JUST think of all the suffering in the world that is due to incorrectly fitted shoes. Think of all the lost efficiency in the work of men who are suffering from foot troubles of various kinds. Think of all the nervous housewives who are letting sore feet make them unhappy! And it is very foolish, too. For all foot troubles can be relieved easily and quickly by properly fitted shoes. I have devoted my life to the work of relieving tortured feet, just as physicians and surgeons have devoted theirs to the elimination of various other kind of troubles, and I make this statement to the public: Bring your feet to me and let me fit them with proper shoes.

And you will not have to pay $40 or $50 to get shoes that really fit your feet. Prices on Martin Larson's Sta-Right Shoes are lower right now than they have been for many years, owing to his increased facilities for manufacturing them. Besides that, you get the additional reduction if you clip the coupon. Martin Larson's shoes are made of only the best of leather, they are made in all the latest styles, and there is custom work throughout.

Take Advantage of This Offer, Now

INCORRECTLY fitted shoes torture the feet, make you miserable and short-tempered, and spoil your peace of mind. Decide to treat yourself right and have a pair of Larson's Sta-Right Shoes and get rid of the handicaps. Martin Larson is the shoe specialist who is known all over the United States for making shoes that enable many lame persons to walk, that correct broken arches, weak ankles, corns, bunions, and tender feet. Many people who think they are "nervous" or "rheumatic" are really suffering from improper treatment of the muscles, ligaments and joints of the feet, due to poorly fitted shoes. This is often the cause of entirely different troubles in more remote parts of the body.

Act Today! Tomorrow Never Comes

Literally thousands of people have been waiting for an announcement of this kind. If you are suffering from the slightest vestige of foot trouble, you owe it to yourself to correct it at once and not to let it become more menacing. But remember that this offer is limited to 30 days. The coupon is good for $5. Mail it today, or even better, bring it to me in person. You will get a personal interview with Martin Larson and you can leave all your foot troubles in my store, as thousands have already done.

Ready Made Shoes Are Out of Date

SCIENCE and investigation have proven that it is folly to make shoes for all kinds and all shapes of feet on an "average" last. It is foolish to force your foot into a shoe that does not fit it, and the greatest folly is to keep on wearing such shoes when your feet are protesting as loudly as they can against such treatment. I realized this over forty years ago, and after a lifetime spent in the study of the subject I have perfected the most effective method of fitting shoes to feet.

SAVE YOUR ENERGY

Nerve tonics, electric treatments, chiropractic will never help you, because they can't reach the seat of the trouble. Ill-fitting shoes cause an enormous loss of energy, thus sapping your vitality and pep. You can get rid of that nervous feeling, you can get back again the brisk step of youth if you let me fit your feet with a pair of Sta-Right Shoes.

How Sta-Right Shoes Are Made

Sta-Right Shoes are made by the Larson Plaster Cast System under my own personal supervision. In this way every line, bulge and hollow of your foot is perfectly reproduced in the cast and made allowance for in the shoe. The shoes are reinforced with whalebone in the lining, and a steel plate is put under the arch, so that every muscle of the foot is brought into action. There can be no binding and the free circulation of the blood is not in the least interfered with. The price of the shoes is $25. Plaster Cast is $10. The coupon saves you $5.

Arch Protectors Will Help You, Too

My Self-Adjustable Sta-Right Arch Protector will allow the muscles and nerves of your feet to relax and to return to their proper position and to function without any restraint whatsover. This Arch Protector will fit snugly inside the stocking or sock and can be worn in any shoe. Price $10 a pair. With casting, $20. Coupon saves you $5.

U. S. ROUNDUP OF WORTHINGTON'S BAND STARTED

6 Warrants Out; Big Loot Found; 1 Seized.

With one more arrest made, securities valued at $350,000 recovered, warrants for six persons issued and search started in a dozen states for as many more men, the government's case against John W. Worthington and his associates yesterday began to take definite shape.

Arthur H. Goldsmith, 232 West 69th street, New York, was the man arrested. With the raiding of Goldsmith's home and offices Col. John V. Clinnin, first assistant district attorney, declares the New York headquarters of the alleged "robbers' trust" has been uncovered.

Trapped by Letters.

Goldsmith's name was found in numerous letters and other documents captured in the federal raid on Worthington's office here. Goldsmith was released on $10,000 bail for a hearing next Tuesday.

Of the six new warrants issued, five are for persons known as J. C. Ellington, Louis Leonard, B. Kelly, J. J. Epps, and Alva Harschmann, it was learned. In addition, federal agents carried a number of "John Doe" warrants.

As to the securities seized in Worthington's office, a complete check has not yet been made. It is estimated they will total in excess of $350,000.

It is known, federal officials say, that some of these securities are part of the loot of the Dearborn station mail robbery, the Sinclair Oil robbery in New York, and the Council Bluffs [Iowa] mail robbery.

Pair Held in $100,000 Bonds.

Worthington and Owen E. Evans, declared by federal officials to have been Worthington's Chicago confidant and principal operator, were arraigned before Judge Landis during the day and placed under $50,000 bonds each. Both were taken to the Woodstock county jail. Worthington expressed himself as confident he could raise the security necessary to gain his release today.

"Worthington is innocent of any wrongdoing," said his attorney, Charles H. Soelke. "He is the victim of persecution. The charges against him are fiction, dreams."

"We've got the goods on him," Col. Clinin countered. "We had a secret service operative in his office for several months preceding his arrest. This man knows all the details of his operations."

How Band Operated.

The methods by which Worthington and his associates are alleged to have operated were revealed bit by bit. One scheme, federal officials said, was to borrow money at various banks, putting up stolen and altered Liberty bonds and other securities as collateral. This was done, it is declared, in more than a score of cities.

Revenue stamps, canceled and stolen, were "washed" in a mixture of chemicals to remove the cancellation ink, it is alleged, and the stamps resold. Stolen Liberty bonds are likewise said to have been "washed" to remove the numbers, later reprinted. In other cases a numeral, such as "3" was altered by hand to an "8," or a "4" was made into a "1."

War Savings stamps were sold on the open market or to private investors brought to various concerns implicated in the deal.

In this work Goldsmith is said to have been active. It is said he has done a business totaling millions of dollars in securities.

Linked to Strosnider.

Col. Clinnin interrogated one witness who said Worthington was actively mixed up with the famous Strosnider gang. A connection with the notorious Charles W. French was intimated through the warrant issued for Alva Harschmann, who was arrested with French at the time of his exposure on Sept. 7, 1919.

NIPS ROMANCE OF 'LILY GODDESS' AND FILIPINO

He called her his "lily goddess" and told her of the vast estates of his family in the Philippine Islands, but the love of Teodulo Tandeo Tansioko, an honor student at the Lewis institute, for Caroline Ketley, 17 years old, 5235 Cornell avenue, was shattered on the rocks of the juvenile court yesterday when Assistant State's Attorney Crapple ordered the student taken into custody for contributing to the delinquency of Caroline.

Mrs. Caroline Ketley lives at 1835 Washington boulevard, two blocks away from the Lewis institute. The Filipino often visited the house with his guitar and serenaded the young girl with songs of his native land.

Mrs. Ketley asked the Juvenile court to intervene and Caroline was sent to the home of Mrs. Frank Brazleton in Cornell avenue. Tnsioko was warned not to attempt to elope with the girl.

All went well until yesterday, when it was learned he and Caroline had been seen riding in a canoe in a Jackson park lagoon. The girl is being held at the juvenile home.

Man Fined Only $1, but Divorce Suit May Follow

A $1 fine was assessed in South Clark street court yesterday against Ignatius Bernard, head of an advertising firm at 175 West Washington street, when Mrs. Sadie Bensabott, the complainant, asked Judge Cook to impose the smallest possible penalty. As a sequel to the proceedings Alphonse Bensabott, millionaire clubman, announced he would bring action for divorce against his wife and sue Bernard for $50,000 on a charge of alienating her affections.

Judge Fines Man to Halt 'Open Season on Lawyers'

"I'll have to stop this open season on lawyers. Every one is taking a crack at them." With this comment, Judge Cook in South Clark street court yesterday fined Arthur Liberman $10 and costs. In an argument in the office of George E. Brill at 29 South La Salle street, where Liberman is employed, Tiberman struck Attorney Harry J. Lurie of 30 North La Salle street in the face, remarking: "They shot one lawyer. They ought to shoot you."

BEG YOUR PARDON

In a New York dispatch in Sunday's sporting section regarding showing of Dempsey-Carpentier fight films, it was stated "the first man to purchase an admission ticket was the Rev. Richard H. Keep of the Church of the New Jerusalem, Atlanta." The Rev. Fred S. Mayer, secretary of the ministers' council of the New Jerusalem church, says there is no Rev. Richard Keep in the church, and no church of that name in Atlanta.

THE TRIBUNE published yesterday on page 2 a four column photograph sent by its correspondent, Henry Wales of the Paris bureau, on the subject of riots in Moscow. The photograph was accompanied with what appeared to be a detailed story of revolt, machine guns, and massacre of the Russian people in the streets of the soviet capital. THE TRIBUNE now regrets to learn that this photograph is a misrepresentation and that, in fact, it is several years old. It was printed in the rotogravure section of this paper on Nov. 4, 1917. It was, in fact, a street scene in Petrograd during the war. THE TRIBUNE apologizes for unintentionally imposing this invention on its readers.

FARM AND GARDEN

BY FRANK RIDGWAY

LACK OF ROUGHAGE IS CAUSE OF LEG WEAKNESS.

The old theory that leg weakness in chickens is due to a lack of exercise has been shattered. Experiments have shown that the lack of a suitable roughage in the ration is the real cause.

Back yard poultrymen, who have a limited space for their chicken range, frequently have trouble with leg weakness; the chickens wabble or have an unsteady gait, the feathers are ruffled up, the wattles and combs are pale and in advanced stages the joints become swollen.

Leg weakness sometimes appears in flocks where an attempt is made to raise chickens in cold weather and they are kept in close confinement.

Wherever it has appeared in a flock during the last few years the poultry raiser always attributed the cause to a lack of exercise, insufficient amount of green feed, or overfeeding. Then he would prescribe a scratch to be fed in a deep litter, so the hens would have to dig for their feed, light feeds, and grass clippings, lettuce leaves, or some other green feed, always emphasizing the advantage of exercise.

In reporting Halpin and Hart's tests, made to find the real cause of leg weakness, the University of Wisconsin says green feed and exercise will not prevent it if the bird at the same time is averted a concentrated ration. In tests that were made without roughage leg weakness always developed.

Spading up the soil in a poultry run where the chickens will have access to fresh dirt is considered beneficial, because the chickens eat some of the dirt.

Roughage in the chickens' ration is thought to be about as essential as protein, carbohydrates, fats, and vitamines. Wheat bran in the feed will be found helpful.

FANCY BOX, CUPS, TRAYS, RIBBONS, TONGS, PAPER—

They Make Candies High, Dealers Plead.

BY GENEVIEVE FORBES.

Pity the poor Eskimo spending the week-end in Chicago with gumdrops at $1 a pound in several Michigan avenue candy shops.

He who nibbles chocolates and bonbons must pay not only for the confection, but for the waxed paper, wrapping paper, inner wrapping paper, twine, ribbon, tongs, fancy box, box trays, fluted cups and the final "thank you," according to the defense made yesterday by candy merchants against the charges of Russel J. Poole, city high cost expert.

One pound empty boxes for Guth's candy cost. 11½ cents a piece, according to Miss Stachia Mullett, manager of the store at 33 East Madison street. Boxes large enough to hold two pounds cost 20 cents. The box is made of white glazed paper and has a gold and red embossed monogram in one corner. There are four inner trays.

Price Is $1.50 Pound Here.

All chocolates at the Wood's stores are the same price, $1.50 a pound. They come in a round tin box minus any trays or individual cups or tongs. There are thirty-six pieces in a pound box. It is only recently that Wood's have permitted a purchase of less than a quarter of a pound. For a dime one may now get six small nougats, not chocolate covered.

A dime at Huyler's buys a handful of Jordan almonds, which are sold at $1.50 a pound, an increase of at least 60 cents over the pre-war price. Assorted chocolates and bonbons remain $1.50 to $2 a pound.

Bonbons and chocolates are $1.50 at Plow's. Gumdrops and caramels are $1 a pound. A half pound box of gumdrops and caramels mixed yielded 8 gumdrops, 5 of them large, 3 small, and 6 caramels. A large chocolate peppermint in an individual cup cost 10 cents.

Some Reduction Here.

"We reduced our candies to pre-war prices April 8," said Mrs. Ora Snyder, owner of a chain of loop stores. "I do not mean we went back to the original price of 40 cents a pound. That was what I charged when I first went into business. But then I had no chocolates, no great variety, and used folding boxes.

"On April 8 I reduced prices to the basis just before the war. During the war my regular 70 cent candy went from 75 to 80 cents. It is now back to 70 cents. Log cabin roll and "mallow delights" have come down from 85 to 80 cents. I have not reduced a single salary; my rents are higher; many of the candy ingredients are higher; the accessories are much higher.

"New York has been selling candy as high as $3 a pound. Naturally it can afford to make great reductions. I have reduced my candy as low as I can and still maintain quality."

It's the Variety Here.

Miss Sadie Helz, manager of the Dearborn street Spoehr store justifies the price of the store's best chocolates at $1.25 a pound on the ground that the candy contains many unusual varieties, cordial, fruit, and nut centers.

"We are still selling a box of assorted chocolates for 60 cents," said Miss Helz, "which is the price we asked when our first store opened nine years ago."

Kehoe's best candy, nut and fruit center, is selling for $1.25 a pound. A cheaper grade, with less variety, is priced $1. Bonbons are $1, and caramels 80 cents.

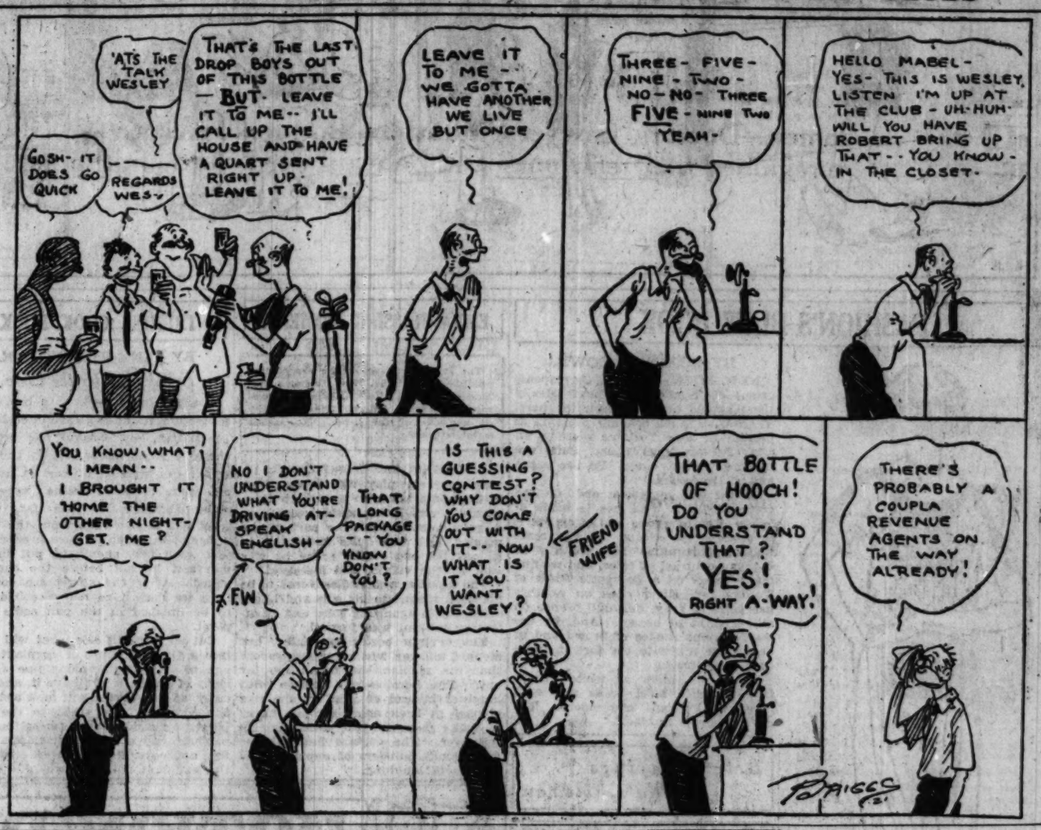

Suggests Woman Member for Disarmament Board

"A woman would not be out of place as a member of the international disarmament conference, if she were qualified for the honor," Miss Florence King of Chicago, an attorney and president of the National Women's Association of Commerce, said yesterday in the Hotel La Salle. She urged woman milliners to form mutual trade associations after the manner of men.

Policeman's Gun Saves Man from Mad Dog's Bite

The trigger speed of Patrolman Hugh Houlihan saved an unidentified man from being bitten by a dog yesterday at Twenty-seventh street and Millard avenue. The dog, evidently crazed, had seized the man by the trouser leg, when Houlihand drew his gun and shot the animal dead. The head will be examined for rabies.

IT HAPPENS IN THE BEST REGULATED COUNTRY CLUBS

MEN ARE LIKE THAT

BY CLARA E. LAUGHLIN

TWO ROOMS AND KITCHENETTE.

Sallie waited her opportunity to talk with Ben Lester about the hateful publicity. Ben made a face expressive of distaste.

"I don't like it, either," he said. "I resent it for His Royal Highness and I resent it for you. Neither of you deserves that sort of stuff; you're above it. But I know how it goes down with the public. The newspapers adore it. And the show business is the show business, whether it's under the big top, as the circus men say, or in His Majesty's theater. The biggest artists our profession has had, in my day, have stood for the biggest lot of bunk in the newspapers. Thousands who would never have paid money to hear the voice of gold or to see a superb artiste went to see the divine Sarah because they'd heard she slept in her coffin. And I could name you many another. Mary Garden, for instance. Does Mary care what anybody says about her so long as it's said on the front page? Mary doesn't!

"The fact of the matter about His Royal Highness is that this sort of thing will continue to be said about him as long as he lives, in connection with every lady to whom he says a pleasant 'Good morning, ma'am.' He knows it—knows it's part of the game. Persons who love that kind of yarn or who hate royalty have probably got him morganatically married half round the globe by this time. You can't stop it. Kings are supposed to be gallant and ladies to be complaisant.

"I'm sure His Royal Highness will know, if he ever sees this stuff, that you had nothing to do with it. And if you doubt that you can write and tell him so—and I will, too. As for the public—what do you care? Its ideas about you will always be wide of the truth. If you succeed they'll believe a thousand silly stories about you before you're through. Your name will be coupled in gossip with all sorts of men. You can't prevent it. So I say, bow to the inevitable; stand the gaff. Let this 'Pipe' person whoop 'em up for you in his own way. When you get 'em out there—" he waved his hand in the direction of the empty theater with its rows of shrouded seats suggested rather than visible in the spectral gloom—"you'll have your chance to make 'em glad that you didn't become Queen of England but stayed here to be 'Uncle Sam's Girl.'"

Sallie was comforted and convinced.

Dining with Jim, she told him about the day's events.

Jim winced at the mere mention of the story about the Prince of Wales.

"I think it's abominable," he declared, clinching his right fist menacingly as if he would like to land it somewhere on "Pipe" Doremus' "map."

Then she repeated to him Lester's counsel.

"Well," Jim said, "I daresay he's right about the king business and the show business. Neither of 'em's much in my line nor to my taste. I tell you, Sallie, I do a lot of thinking about some phases of this show business; or, rather, about you in connection with some phases of it. There are so many people who think there ought to be signs over stage doors reading 'All shame abandon ye who enter here'; they take for granted that women on the stage are—are public women in—in more senses than one; in every sense! And I tell you it galls me to think that anybody can hold that opinion of you and I can't lick it out of him. But I don't want to be a fool; and I try to fight down that thought every time it comes up to torment me. If you were to become the first lady of the land you'd be a target for calumny, sure. It's hard to raise your head in any quarter and escape mud. And thinking about mud and how to dodge it never gets one anywhere.

"You're in this thing now, and a lot of others are in with you. I can't see any course for you but to see it through, in the biggest and best way you know how. Try to forget what you don't like about it and can't help; and keep your mind on the bull's-eye."

Sallie beamed at him gratefully.

"Seems," she said, "as if nothing's a bugaboo after I've talked it over with you."

"Darn this place," Jim muttered. "I want to kiss you so!"

Sallie's eyes filled with tender tears.

"I know," she murmured. "There are so many times when it seems to me I'd give anything I'd have just for the feel of you close to me—just to put my head down on your breast and have your arms around me. The best words aren't enough sometimes—not like what one can say with a caress. And, do you know, dear, although I haven't been on the stage at all, haven't begun to know the strain and the loneliness of that life, I can feel even now some of the greater emotional hunger that comes of living all keyed up. If stage people have more experiences than other people, I can understand why. There's a letdown that comes after one has been strung so tight; and one craves, like a child, for tenderness.

"There's no comfort in having you come to our house even if Linda and Jay weren't almost sure to be camped in the one room where 'a lady can entertain a gent.' And I couldn't, when I begin to draw a salary, set up a wee place of my own, where you could dine with me, without causing a lot of talk. Now, if Grandma Blake only lived here. She'd know how to treat us. Or if father did. Or if I knew some one here like Janet Pemberton. I believe, Jim, we'll have to undecide not to get married till this first season of trying is over."

"No," he said firmly, "we won't. We're going to be fair to you, little girl, and let you see what there is in this thing before you get tied up in any other way. But I've thought sometimes that maybe I might have a little apartment in some quiet, unfashionable neighborhood and bring one of my sisters here to keep house for me and do whatever she liked, or could find to do, besides. I think Agnes would love to come. But we wouldn't relish doing all our talking before a third party—it'd be constrained—and we couldn't ask Agnes to—to eat in the kitchen!"

He smiled in comic despair.

"I do think, though," Sallie urged, "that you ought to live differently, whether it affects our visits or not. I think you ought to have some sort of place where you can ask people who want to meet you and whom you ought to meet—to know. This living in a furnished room somewhere won't do. When Ellsworth Briggs comes home, for instance, I've promised him that he shall meet you. I promised Lord Stoke-Poges. There'll be lots more. I don't want to ask any of them to meet you in a restaurant. That's no place to get a man's personality!

"I want you to get a wee apartment, and us to begin gathering little things for the house we're going to have soon. We'll think up ways of using it so everything's all nice and proper enough. I can hardly wait, dearest. Let's go—when's Saturday? Why, tomorrow—let's go tomorrow afternoon and look for a place."

They did. But first they went to a jeweler's shop which was not "closed all day Saturday during July and August," and bought a ring—in fact, they bought two: a solitaire of modest size and a wedding ring.

Jim put the wedding ring in a pocketbook he carried in his inside coat pocket, next his heart.

"When you want it it shall be yours," he said. They had agreed that the thought of it in his keeping would be a sweet one for them both.

Then they went flat hunting, and found what would do very well: two rooms with bath and kitchenette on the third floor of a dignified old dwelling on the north side of Stuyvesant Square.

There was a big sitting room with a most inviting fireplace and two large windows, looking south over the ample area of the square, and a small bedroom, and a kitchenette installed in what had once been an exceedingly capacious clothes press and dressing room.

Sallie furnished it in imagination and saw it all complete—even to a dinner set on a small table before the fireplace.

"I can hardly wait," she cried, "to begin fussing with it. I don't see how I'm going to keep any part of my mind on rehearsals. When my cue comes I'll be miles off, thinking 'over the mantel there ought to be a——'"

The Inquiring Reporter

Every Day He Asks Five Persons, Picked at Random, a Question.

The Question.

Do you think that the government ought to limit the building of battleships in favor of air craft development?

Where Asked.

Lake Shore drive and Oak street.

The Answers.

R. A. Hoefer, 2042 Howe avenue, office clerk — Extensive building of battleships means a protection of the east and west coasts. In case of war the old battle wagons would come in handy to protect cities like New York and San Francisco and the entire coasts. In the meanwhile further development in air craft should take place.

Miss Louise Parizek, 4649 Sheridan road, home girl—Officials in Washington should decide whether we ought to limit the building of battleships in favor of development of air craft. They are better versed on such a subject than the average citizen.

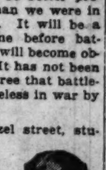

Donald L. Rooker, 2049 Howe street, salesman — Why not build both battleships and air craft? The government could use both of them in case of war. The next war I believe will be fought in the air and because of that I lean toward the development of air craft.

Miss Agnes Nelson, 1641 North Mozart avenue, telephone operator—In case of another war we will have to be better prepared than we were in the last. It will be a long time before battleships will become obsolete. It has not been proven to any great degree that battleships would be made useless in war by air craft.

Carl Stedt, 4338 Hazel street, student—I favor the development of air craft. Experiments have proven that battleships make excellent targets for the air men. I think our government should have the greatest and strongest air craft in the world.

IN ARMY THIRTY YEARS; MISSING.

The Chicago police have been asked to search for Herbert P. Monahan, 43 years old, a sergeant in the 78th field artillery, Camp Grant, Ill., who left camp July 5 and has not been heard of since. He had been in the army nearly thirty years and was to have been retired in a month.

SMALL "SAVES $62,400,000 ON $60,000,000 JOB"

His Arithmetic Fails to Cheer Up Farmers.

BY PARKE BROWN.

While the people of Illinois were still waiting for him to say what he is going to do about his indictment for embezzlement of the taxpayers' money, Gov. Len Small startled them yesterday with a remarkable declaration of the amount of money he has saved them on road building.

On a $60,000,000 program, which is only now getting under way, the governor contends he has saved the taxpayers $62,400,000.

The statement is not over his signature, but it appears in black and white in 50,000 copies of a circular issued for distribution in connection with the cruise of the "capitol on wheels," during his inspections of state highways.

How "Saving" Is Figured.

Under this caption appears these paragraphs:

"Had contracts been let on Feb. 18 for 4,800 miles, the roads would have cost the state $192,000,000.

"After six months of battle, however, in his effort to secure 'maximum mileage at minimum cost,' the governor has forced the cost per mile from $40,000 to an approximate average cost of $27,0C0,or a saving of $13,000 a mile.

"On this basis, were contracts let for the entire 4,800 miles at the present time, the cost would be but $129,600,000, or a saving to the people of the state of more than the entire bond issue of $60,000,000 voted by the people for the building of their road system."

Bad Logic Cools Reception.

But, it is said, the state program never called for 4,800 miles of eighteen foot concrete roadway as the governor would have the public believe. The $60,000,000 schedule called for a great many miles of narrower concrete road, macadam road and gravel road, all of which are much less expensive than the figures cited.

For that reason, it is reported, from the downstate towns the governor has been visiting, the pamphlet has failed to add any warmth to his reception.

From most of the points touched by the governor's party have come reports that their experiences have been disheartening. This is said to have been due to two causes in addition to the popular attitude toward his continued refusal to face the music in Sangamon county.

Farmers Resent Delays.

The first of these is that the farmers and the small communities of the state wanted their roads this year, and the season is now so far advanced that contractors from now on will undertake almost no new work. The second is that in districts where contracts have been let, there are well defined rumors concerning the manner in which the contracts were let.

There was one of those concerning the use of unscreened gravel and unwashed sand, and another indicating that while the contract price of the road was lower than the price asked last spring, there were certain essentials, such as "shoulders" on hill roads and fences at sharp turns, which would be billed later as "extras."

Denounces His Indictment.

At a banquet at Danville last night, Gov. Small addressed 250 guests. He denounced his indictment as a plot of the "big interests" and demanded to know why Attorney General Brundage and State's Attorney Mortimer "object to my being tried in any other county in the state outside of Sangamon."

"Why doesn't Sheriff Mester arrest me here?" he demanded. "I am ready to be arrested in any county in the state outside of Sangamon county."

The governor and his party had a narrow escape today when the "capitol on wheels" skidded on a muddy road near Hoopeston and went into the ditch.

Because of continued rain and the bad condition of the roads, Gov. Small canceled his road inspection trip late last night. It is understood the governor will return to Springfield. A dinner planned for him at Champaign, Ill., for today, was abandoned at his request.

Curtis Seeks Change of Venue.

Some verification of predictions that Gov. Small's counsel will concentrate their defensive efforts on a battle for a change of venue, was seen in a notice served by attorneys for Vernon Curtis, another defendant, that they will make such a motion before Judge Elbert S. Smith of Sangamon county on Aug. 22 or as soon thereafter as possible.

SANITARY BOARD TAKES UP 'YARDS' SEWAGE PROBLEM

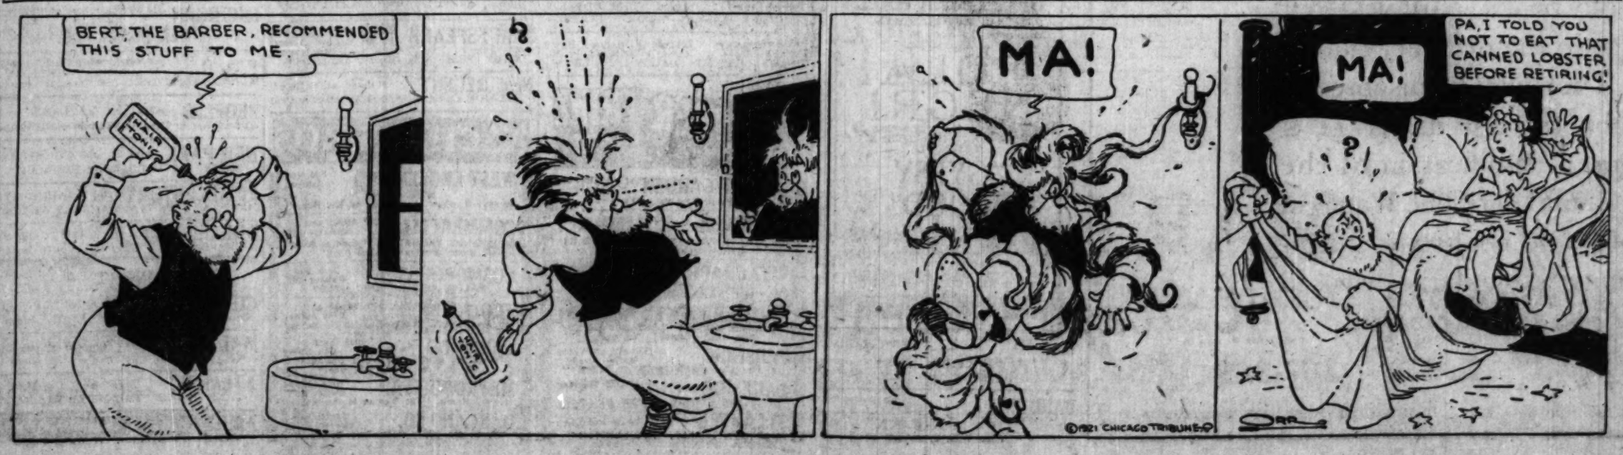

The question of the disposal of the stockyards sewage, which has been a dead issue since last December, was raised again yesterday by the engineering committee of the Sanitary district.

One-fifth of the sewage which passes through the drainage canal comes from the packing plants, according to Dr. Willis O. Nance, chairman of the committee on public health. Much of the Packingtown trade waste is of such a consistency it cannot be carried away easily.

"The only solution is to establish sewage treatment plants," Dr. Nance said. "This would necessitate expenditure of a large sum of money, but it is of the utmost importance that active steps be taken to ameliorate conditions in the packing industry."

A committee composed of William F. Mulvihill, attorney for the sanitary district; Albert W. Dilling, chief engineer; Alexander M. Todd and James H. Lally, chairman of the engineering and finance committees, was appointed to study the situation.

TRAGEDY and intense pathos stalk into this picture as a gentle, white haired mother enters the bagnio which, unknown to her, has housed her daughter. She has heard of her Elsie's death, but she does not know that Elsie died a suicide.

She has come to meet and thank the dear girls with whom Elsie lived and who were so kind to Elsie. Who was there to tell her that the dear girls were hectic ladies of the underworld; that the home she entered so confidently was notorious and known as "The House of the Lilies"?

The receipt of the telegram announcing the coming of Mrs. Brown gives the girls only time to don dark dresses and do away with some of the garish furnishings of the place. The telephone receiver is taken off its hook. The maid is instructed to tell callers there is nobody at home. They are decent enough to protect the little mother from knowledge, if they can.

So, she comes, unknowing. For a day and a night she tenderly mothers the petrified inmates of "The House of the Lilies." In ignorance she would have gone away had not a careless servant put into her hands the daily paper. And there she sees the pictured face and reads the story of the fate of Elsie Brown.

With the paper crushed in her withered fingers, the little mother sits bravely upright. Grouped behind her five girls, far from being all bad, tremblingly wait for what is to come.

The scene that follows will bring the tears and leave you entirely unashamed of them.

Miss Glaum's rôle in "Greater Than Love" is reminiscent of the parts she played long ago. She is cast as an adventuress, and, as in the olden days, punctuates her luring with a large and graceful feather fan. Despite her frowsy coiffures, there is an undoubted charm about Miss Glaum—a sort of sympathetic cordiality that makes you like her in her most evil moments. Her scenes with Gertrude Claire, who plays the little mother, are splendid.

The picture is far from being a happy one; but it is mighty well cast, set, and directed. C. Gardner Sullivan wrote the scenario, but the story it was taken from appeared in a magazine a long time ago. (Forget the author, but remember the story.)

CLOSEUPS.

Charles Clary [who can act with a capital A] was presented with a nice little ten pound gift last Saturday night. A boy—name as yet unknown.

Norman Kerry will leave for London shortly to make a picture with George Fitzmaurice.

What is said to be the largest open air stage in the world has been constructed in Frieburg for the filming of the famous Oberammergan Passion play. It will be produced under the direction of Dimitri Buchowetzki. [Never heard of himski.]

After several weeks of hesitation, the Robertson-Cole interests have resumed production at Hollywood. Pauline Frederick, Doris May and Sessue Hayakawa are numbered among the stars scheduled to appear in coming R. C. productions.

HAROLD TEEN—THAT WEDNESDAY NIGHT DATE!

FASHION'S BLUE BOOK

BY CORINNE LOWE.

NEW YORK.—[Special Correspondence.]—To bead or not to bead! Really there should be no irresolution here. There is as much beading going on at present in New York as there is on any Choctaw reservation. Suits are trimmed in this way. So are capes and so are frocks.

On the late georgette and Canton crepe frocks a wide use is made of beads—usually round and often dull—in broad stripe effects. This presents many opportunities for delicate or dazzling contrast of color, and we find black beads on a georgette frock of Turkey red, silver ones on another georgette of gray, and dull bronze on still a third of brown. And, by the way, various shades of brown and of henna are much to the fore in these new crepe frocks.

Today we show a white crepe trimmed with steel beads and with bands of Persian embroidery. The narrow girdle is black.

Our neighbor has a puppy dog and a girl living near has its sister. One day she brought her dog over to see its brother. A little boy friend was there. He saw them playing in the yard and looked at me and said: "I wonder if they's glad to see each another."

J. S. R.

Aunty was just about to press the push button and ring the bell on the front door of an old fashioned house when an urchin sitting on the front steps looked up at her and said, "Say, lady, that button doesn't bell. You must bump."

H. J.

My neighbor was going away for a few weeks and sent her small daughter to ask me to look after her flowers during her absence. Jane said, "Mother wishes you to pick her flowers, and please just take the ripe ones."

Died in the Wrong Spot.

An amateur play was being given in the opera house in a western town where I was living some years ago. A young doctor took the part of the maniac, and was quite successful in it. At the end of the scene he was shot by the villain, and fell dead.

The heroine, who is discovered to be his wife, rushed to his side and knelt, shaken with agonizing sobs, and an affecting tableau was formed.

The curtain began to fall; but stopped midway when it was apparent that the maniac had fallen too far out. The heroine was shaken with laughter instead of grief as she was obliged to back away on her knees to make room for the dead man to roll over. The curtain finally came down amid thunders of applause and shrieks of laughter.

TRIBUNE COOK BOOK

BY JANE EDDINGTON.

Eggplant After the Chop.

Lamb chops may be pan broiled to perfection, if one is a careful cook, but no matter how careful the broiling there is some flavor left in the pan which can well be utilized in numerous ways to make some vegetable more palatable. A little fat, some tried out at the time from the trimmings of the chop or some in store for just such use, should be put in the pan and be hot before the chop is added. After the chops are cooked, then we may have ready cooked and to be finished in the pan some eggplant.

Cut up in small dice what will pack into a quart measure of eggplant. Cut one or two small onions fine and a clove of garlic, if you have it, and will cut it so fine that it will melt away in the cooking. Add these to the eggplant in a small aluminum kettle. Add one-half cup of cold water, put over fire, and cover kettle closely, steaming the eggplant till soft, when it melts down like greens. Be careful to cook it gently.

Prepare this and put it to cook about ten minutes or fifteen before you start to pan broil the lamb chops. The minute the chops are up, put this in pan and stir it well, cooking it for five or ten minutes. Some tomato may be cooked with the eggplant.

DORIS BLAKE'S ANSWERS

Consider the Consequences.

"Dear Miss Blake: There is a young man a number of years older than myself with whom I am madly in love, but he goes with other girls his own age. When he is with me he shows by his actions that he loves me, but yet he never proposed to me. How shall I propose to him, as I mean to do, because I am afraid some one will get him before me. ALVA."

If you propose to him, Alva, then you are supposed to provide a home for him and all the luxuries and comforts to which he has been used. If you take the man's job away of proposing, you have to continue with the man's work. Still want him?

BEAUTY ANSWERS

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

MOTHER: CHILDREN HAVE TO be taught foods that are good for them as they are taught other principles in life. Begin by giving a small amount of new food and repeat until the child learns to like it. Take pains to teach them to eat slowly. So much of the health and beauty of the grown girl depends upon the start in her earlier days, that parents in many cases may chide themselves for their underdeveloped and ailing daughters. Care of the teeth is important, and other habits of hygiene might just as easily be instilled in the child.

EDGEWATER: ONLY ONE PAIR of eyes for life, so avoid facing the light, reading in the twilight, reading when lying on the back unless the light is in the right position, and using a common towel. When the eyes water, blur or ache, consult an oculist. No ardent suitor can write pomes to eyes that blur, or eyes that squint, or eyes that look faded. An' every lady loves pomes to her eyes, written or unwritten.

A FRIEND IN NEED

BY SALLY JOY BROWN.

I want to be the medium through which the friend in deed and the friend in need may be brought together. It may be you have some discarded article which has not outgrown its usefulness that will make some less fortunate one happy, and you would gladly give it if you knew how to go about it. Write to me and I shall be only too happy to be of service to you. Please write on one side of the paper.

When information is wanted by mail, a stamped, addressed envelope should accompany the request. Please do not send parcels to The Tribune, but write for the address of the applicant and send direct.

"I am a widow with four small boys, aged 3, 5, 7, and 9, and I am coming to your kind department for help as I know how good and kind you have been to others. We are all greatly in need of clothes, as it seems all I can do is managed and there is never anything left for clothes. If any one has any to give me I am sure we will appreciate it and will be thankful. I wear size 42. I will call at any address for the clothes. MRS. S. B."

This is a big responsibility for a widow to shoulder. Little fellows of the ages given have many needs. Mrs. B. deserves assistance, and I hope she'll receive it soon.

"We have a pet white rabbit, and as we expect to move soon, would like to give it to some boy or girl who would like to take good care of same. I am the soldier's mother who wrote to you during the war, and this is the first time I have been able to do any small favor in return. MRS. P."

I am happy to print Mrs. P.'s acknowledgment of the kindnesses she received. Her gift of the pet white rabbit will delight some little girl or boy. Come, children. To the first applicant it shall be given.

Dr. R. A. Millikan to Hold Physics "Lab" at California "Tech"

PASADENA, Cal., Aug. 3.—Dr. Robert A. Millikan, professor physics at the University of Chicago, who has gained world-wide distinction for his original researches on the electron and the structure of matter, has been appointed director of the Norman Bridge laboratory of physics at the California Institute of Technology and chairman of the executive council of the institute. Dr. Millikan has accepted the post and will come to Pasadena in October, at which time the new Norman Bridge laboratory of physics will be ready for occupancy.

In associating himself permanently with the California Institue of Technology Dr. Millikan plans to devote himself mainly to the development here of one of the most important centers of research in the country, and it is the desire of the trustees that he be free to do this without being burdened with administrative duties.

In 1913 Dr. Millikan was awarded the Comstock prize by the National Academy of Sciences for his researches in electricity. He was the Hitchcock lecturer at the University of California in 1917 and Clark lecturer at Amherst in the same year. During the war Dr. Millikan served as vice chairman of the National Research council, as lieutenant colonel in the signal corps, and chief of the science and research division of the signal corps. He is a trustee of Oberlin college, from which he was graduated.

Dr. Millikan is foreign secretary of the National Academy of Sciences and a member of the American Philosophical society, and he has been named honorary member of the Royal institution (London) and of the Society Batave de Philosophie Experimentelle of Rotterdam. He was president of the American Physical society from 1916 to 1918 and is now president of the American Association of University Professors.

Oak Park Elks Split Over New Clubhouse

Oak Park Elks' lodge has been split into two factions, one favoring and the other opposing completion of an addition to the clubhouse now in course of construction in West Lake Street near Forest avenue, Oak Park. The lodge is said to be nearly $30,000 in debt.

At a recent meeting called by Exalted Ruler William F. Rietz, now serving his third term, the proposal to erect an addition to house cardrooms, a gymnasium, and swimming pool was passed. Time contracts totaling $17,000 were let to James Harper, 1124 Chicago avenue, and Rietz left on a vacation trip through the west.

After his departure a committee endeavored to induce Harper to stop work, but the contractor has refused, stating he will forfeit a large sum of money if the work is not completed.

'Ho-Mamma,' Friend of Children, Is Buried

Mrs. Johanna Griebenow, called for some obscure reason "Ho-Mamma" by all the children in her neighborhood, was buried yesterday in Graceland cemetery. She was 85 years old, and had lived with her daughter, Mrs. Pauline Bahr, 1542 School street. Mrs. Griebenow, who had lived in Chicago since 1867, seldom missed the annual Old Settlers' picnic. She was the mother of four children, grandmother of eighteen, and great-grandmother of twenty-five. Up to four years ago she gave a "relations dance" for them every year.

Forest Board Ready to Start on New Zoo

At a meeting of the forest preserve commissioners' zoological committee yesterday, it was decided to start work within a few weeks on the Chicago zoological gardens to be established on the Edith Rockefeller McCormick tract in the forest preserve near Riverside. Mrs. McCormick presented the land to the people of Cook county.

Emmett J. Flavin, chief engineer of the forest preserve district, was instructed to check up on the preliminary ground work necessary. Arrangements for sewage disposal and plans for the buildings will be undertaken first. The environments will duplicate as nearly as possible the surroundings of the animals in their native haunts.

The incorporators of the Chicago Zoological society which will manage the gardens include Commissioners Frank J. Wilson, William H. MacLean, and George A. Miller; Charles L. Hutchinson, Charles H. Wacker, and Judson F. Stone, manager of the McCormick estate.

K. of C. Plans Biggest School for Yanks

San Francisco, Cal., Aug. 2.—A decision to establish what it terms the "largest correspondence school in the United States," which shall be devoted exclusively to the education and general welfare of former service men, and announcement that the order had increased by 87,660 since last year, made up the outstanding features today of the opening session of the Knights of Columbus' thirty-ninth annual supreme convention. Supreme Secretary William J. McGinley outlined the correspondence system, which will have its headquarters in the new building which the order is erecting in New Haven, Conn.

"No limit will be placed upon the number of former service men seeking enrollment in the correspondence school, and no limit will be set upon practical subjects in the course of study," McGinley reported. The system, he said, will cost approximately $1,000,000 to establish and will call for a first year enrollment of 100,000 students.

Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty reported that approximately $4,000,000 had been expended by the Knights in the past year in maintaining 132 free night schools and 500 university and college courses for former service men.

"We shall stay with the veterans until the end," he said.

On June 1 the total membership of the Knights of Columbus was 758,155, and New York led the states with 107,649 members, McGinley reported.

The dairyman had been careless—the thermometer told the tale — the milk reached Borden's plant at above 65 degrees—and the inspector refused it. Just another precaution to protect the thousands supplied by Borden's with good, pure, safe milk. On the farms, in our plants and distribution points meticulous care is exercised. When you uncap your bottle of Borden's at the breakfast table—you can be certain that no expense in men, methods and machinery has been spared to give you perfect milk.

Sixteen years of faithful and honest service with Borden's is the proud record of Frank Johnson — inspector at the South Chicago Ave. branch.

RAINS GIVE DIP TO CORN; OTHER GRAINS ADVANCE

BY CHARLES D. MICHAELS.

General rains over the corn belt depressed corn values and they closed ⅜@½c lower, while other grains were stronger and higher, with the finish at gains of ¼@½c on wheat, ⅛c on oats, ¼@½c on rye, and ½c on barley for the day. The most important factor was the Clement-Curtis-Goodman crop report, materially lowering the estimated yield and the export demand for all grains, especially wheat and corn.

Export and milling demand for wheat, combined with purchases by seaboard houses, offset the effect of all depressing factors and made a stronger market, with an advance of 1½c from the inside prices and a reaction of 1c from the top at the last.

The things uppermost in the minds of the trade here and at southwestern markets were the reduced country offerings and advices that the big run of winter wheat, especially in the soft winter sections, is over. Millers in the northwest, southwest and central west are after wheat to grind and reported a better demand for flour.

French News Ignored.

Cash premiums here were narrowed ½ to 1c and at Minneapolis were firm. Wheat receipts were lighter and export clearances 4,858,000 bu, including 4,027,000 from Galveston the last week. Minneapolis is getting wheat from the southwest, which swells the arrivals there.

Traders ignored reports from Paris that France has raised enough wheat this year for its consumption. Reports from Russia were conflicting. South Russia is expected to be an exporter in October, while northwestern Russia is cholera and famine stricken. It is claimed it costs more to ship wheat from southern Russia into the famine districts than to import it from other countries. Goodman's report of 766,000,000 bu was in line with Snow's figures of last week.

Local traders and commission houses were good sellers early and buyers later, making the strength. In all it was not a large market at any time. At the last September was $1.25¼ to $1.25, and December $1.28 to $1.28¼.

Rains Help Corn Crop.

Good to heavy rains over the greater part of the corn belt states where needed are said to have placed the corn crop in a position where it can mature without further moisture. Cool weather over the greater part of the country will stop any damage.

In the face of the rains, prices held well, as the extreme decline from Monday's close was only 1c, most of which was recovered. All future were under 60c, with the finish for September at 59⅛c to 59⅜c and December 59⅜c.

A bullish crop report on oats brought in a little covering and moved futures up ⅜c, but the trade in all was not large.

The rye trade was light, with offerings small and cash prices ½ to 1c under September for No. 2 and 2c under for No. 3. Export sales at seaboard were 64,000 bu. Sales were at 3c over September c. i. f. Buffalo for shipment by Aug. 12 and 2¼c under by Sept. 25.

Lard Here Reduced.

A reduction of 9,035,000 lbs of lard in Chicago last month and fair reductions in meats were taken as indicating a healthy condition in the trade, but it failed to increase business to any extent. Good buying developed early and the selling was not large, but support at the last was rather poor. The close was at gains of 7½c on January lard, while September was 2½c higher and October 2½c lower. Ribs were 2½c lower to 5c higher. Prices follow:

CASH·GRAIN NEWS

Export sales of 400,000 bu wheat to Belgium, 440,000 bu corn, 64,000 bu rye, and 32,000 bu Canadian oats were reported at the seaboard yesterday. It was understood that only lack of credits prevented a big business in wheat. Finland was after rye.

Chicago cash handlers sold 90,000 bu wheat and 200,000 bu corn to the seaboard for export. Domestic sales were 30,000 bu wheat, 35,000 bu corn, 140,000 bu oats, and 6,000 bu barley.

Little change was noted in the basis for cash wheat in the sample market with No. 2 red 1@1½c and No. 2 hard ½@1c under the September. Receipts, 359 cars.

Four cars of new No. 2 dark northern spring wheat sold at Minneapolis at $2.01, or 70c over September, said to be the highest premium ever paid at this season. Prices there were generally unchanged as compared with futures.

Demand for cash wheat in the southwest was keen, with St. Louis 1@4c and Kansas City and Omaha 1@2c higher. Receipts are falling off.

Cash corn was in better demand and ½c higher as compared with September, No. 2 yellow and white bringing 2c over the future and No. 2 mixed 1¼c over. Sample values were ½c lower early and unchanged later. Receipts, 126 cars. Outside markets were ½c higher to 1c lower.

Demand for cash oats showed improvement, and the basis was ½@¾c better as compared with September, with No. 2 white ¼@2½c. No. 3 white, 4¼@5c, and No. 4 white 6@7c under September closing prices, with prices ½@¾c higher than Monday's finish. Receipts, 337 cars.

WORLD'S·GRAIN MARKET·NEWS

"Famine reports from Russia, with the United States already opening negotiations with the soviet authorities regarding relief work, can not help but be a factor in the grain markets," says E. A. Boerner, with Stein, Alstrin & Co. "With South America buying wheat in the United States, Argentina shipping as low as 337,000 bu last week, Australian wheat arriving in Europe out of condition, a calamitous drought in Europe, and the big reduction in the North American crops, there is only one real source of supplies for many months and that is North America. The International Institute of Agriculture estimates the Belgian crop at 26 per cent less than last year, presumably due to drought, and that is sufficient to show the French crop did not escape damage, as cables would indicate. The world wheat situation is serious."

More confidence was shown in the wheat trade by holders who have bought on the dips in prices the last few days. They regard the big pressure from the country as over, and expect to see arrivals much lighter by the end of the week. Exporters were after wheat late yesterday, and the day's sales from Chicago were 150,000 bu, or 60,000 bu more than reported early in the day.

Failure of corn prices to decline sharply on the good general rains was attributed to there being no large or scattered short interest to liquidate. Prices are down to a level where all the inflation has been removed and where the ordinary speculative selling pressure has only a limited effect, as those having corn previously sold are willing to accept profit on moderate declines and give

Oats are not acting good for holders despite the decreased crop estimates. Eastern interests were moderate buyers yesterday, but otherwise the buying came largely from changers and from previous sellers. On the basis of 1,087,000,000 bu for the crop as estimated by Goodman, with a carry over of 122,000,000 bu there would be 1,209,000,000 bu compared with 1,572,000,000 last year.

Disposition of 1,500 cars of grain was made at Chicago Monday. Elevators unloaded 1,000 cars, and a number were diverted. There were 10,000 cars of grain on track here Monday, the largest in a month. As yesterday's arrivals were only 868 cars and the weather was cool, with more efficient work from the new and old men in unloading, the situation here is better than at any time in a month. The old men have returned to the Wabash elevator, and good progress in unloading is expected there, as it has more available room there than any other elevator. The improved situation here was a factor in the markets.

Montreal has 1,967,000 bu of corn. It is doing the largest export business of any port. Port Colborn elevators are congested with corn.

The July rye committee met yesterday, but said it did not finish its work of fixing a settling price for July rye defaults.

The 1921 oats crop averages around 26¼ lbs per bu, as shown by receipts at Chicago during the last two days, mainly grain from Illinois and Iowa. During the last few days in May the average from the same states was 33 1-3 lbs per bu, covering the same states. On the basis of weight the 1921 crop is 21 per cent less than that of 1920.

NEWS OF THE CROPS

A wheat crop of 766,000,000 bu, including 563,000,000 bu winter and 203,000,000 bu spring, was shown by P. S. Goodman's report for Clement, Curtis & Co. The Snow-Bartlett-Frazier report, issued late last week, made the total 762,000,000 bu. The report showed the same on winter wheat as a month ago, but spring was cut down 39,000,000 bu. The government July report made total of all wheat 809,000,000 bu. Final returns last year 787,000,000 bu and 1915-1919 average 831,000,000 bu.

Condition of corn, 84.8, against 89.7 last month, suggesting a crop of 3,040,000,000 bu, compared with the government estimate of 3,123,000,000 bu in July and 3,232,000,000 bu harvested last year. Heaviest deterioration was in the Ohio valley.

Condition of oats, based largely on threshing returns, is 61.8, or 15 points lower than a month ago, suggesting a crop of 1,087,000,000 bu, against government July returns of 1,328,000,000 bu, and final last year 1,526,000,000 bu. The quality of the new crop is worse than the quantity loss. The weight in the states of large production runs from 18 to 26 lbs per bu, against a normal of 32 lbs. On the weight basis the actual value of the crop is not much above 900,000,000 bu. Reserves of old oats are 122,000,000 bu, against 56,000,000 bu last year.

"Some early wheat ripe here," wired George M. Le Count to Stein, Alstrin & Co. from Melville, Sask. "Crop through this territory is about an average. Have had too much rain, about one inch here in the past twenty-four hours. Heavy crops badly lodged. If weather turns hot after all this moisture black rust will badly damage late wheat."

Swift & Company

10-Year 7% Notes

The growth of the business of this company reflects the foresight and judgment of its founders and present management. Total sales have increased from $250,000,000 in 1909 to $1,100,000,000 in 1920. During these eleven years more than $72,000,000—nearly half—of the net earnings of the company were retained in the business.

This note issue will not increase the company's funded debt, as the proceeds are to be used in retiring a like amount of maturing 6% notes.

During the 5 years ending October 30, 1920, annual net earnings available for interest charges averaged more than 4½ times requirements, including interest on these notes.

Price 97½ and interest, yielding about 7⅜%.

NEW PRICE AND PAY CUTS MARK STEEL INDUSTRY

BY O. A. MATHER.

Further reduction in prices and wages in the steel and iron industry was the outstanding feature of yesterday's industrial news. The United States Steel corporation, although making no official announcement of a new price schedule, is meeting lower prices quoted by independent producers, and in the last week has sent letters to customers quoting prices on various products from $3 to $10 a ton below the official prices fixed on July 7. Ohio producers of Bessemer ferrosilicon and silvery pig iron have cut prices for these products $8.50 and $8 a ton, respectively, the most drastic reduction in years.

With successive price cuts there have been successive wage reductions. The Cambria Steel company, one of the largest independent concerns, yesterday announced that wages for common labor in its Johnstown, Pa., plants will be 25 cents an hour effective Aug. 16, making the third reduction this year. The two previous cuts brought such wages down from 45 to 30 cents. Wages of other employés and piecework rates will be adjusted on a proportional scale.

Economic Law Is Law.

The situation of the steel industry affords interesting proof of the effectiveness of economic law and its application to general business in the last year or so. The steel industry was one of the last to recognize that the general process of readjustment and deflation could not be escaped by any industry or business.

Almost to the degree that steel producers delayed readjustment for months they merely postponed the inevitable and in the short period since last May have felt the cumulative effects of deflation. Thus present price schedules are thrown to the winds and there is keen competition for business, which is intensified by the fact that steel producers have discovered, just as producers of other commodities did long before, that business is to be had in increasing degree just as prices are made attractive to buyers. The most recent result of this is the gradually improving scale of operations in the industry as a whole.

Leather Earnings Improve.

Other business news of yesterday was of a mixed character, but not without encouraging features. A decided improvement in the hide and leather industry was evidenced in the earnings report of the American Hide and Leather company for the second quarter of the year. Surplus after charges and taxes was $251,644, equal to $2 a share on the preferred stock, compared with a deficit of $1,210,000 for the first quarter and a deficit of $810,000 for the second quarter of last year. Leather prices have advanced considerably lately and this has enhanced the value of inventories and caused a better sale of goods at reduced prices. The directors took no action on the quarterly preferred stock dividend, which was discontinued in the first quarter.

The report of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical company for the fiscal year ended May 31 shows a deficit of $15,-[illegible],000 after charges, depreciation and inventory loss, compared with a profit of $7,352,000 the preceding year. The year's operating deficit is equal to $55 a share on the common stock.

Failures Show Increase.

Commercial failures in July showed an increase over June. Bradstreet's reports 1,483 failures in July, an increase of 164 over June and the largest month's total since March, which showed 1,500 defaults. Dun's reports 1,444 failures last month, involving liabilities of $42,-[illegible]74,000, which was 120 more than June. Directors of the Merritt Oil corporation, which is controlled by the Midwest Refining company, have deferred payment of the dividend due at this time. Directors of the Boston-Wyoming Oil company, controlled by the Midwest Oil company, also failed to take action on the current dividend. The Standard Oil company of Kansas declared its usual quarterly dividend and the usual extra dividend of 3 per cent.

I. C.'s $8,000,000 Issue to Be Offered in New York

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—An offering will soon be made by bankers in the New York market of $8,000,000 Illinois Central fifteen year 6½ per cent gold bonds to meet maturing indebtedness. In granting permission for the sale of these bonds, the Interstate Commerce commisison stipulated they be sold at not less than 93.75 per cent of par. The road will pledge as collateral $8,-[illegible]25,000 of its own refunding mortgage 4 per cent gold bonds and $3,820,000 Illinois Central and Chicago, St. Louis and New Orleans joint first refunding mortgage 5 per cent bonds.

House Passes Senate Bill Jumping Farm Bond Rate

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—By a vote of 233 to 20, the house today passed a senate bill authorizing an increase in the maximum interest rate on federal farm loan bonds from 5 to 5½ per cent. An amendment, however, provided that bonds issued or sold after June 30, 1923, shall not bear more than 5 per cent interest.

The New York Times.

New York, Aug. 2.—[Special.]—The smaller total of actual transactions on the stock exchange today was wholly due to the three hour postponement of the opening of business because of a fire in the building.

There was some disposition to ascribe the strength in railway shares to the fact that net earnings for June have been showing up better than expected. They have made such a showing, but the results do not yet clear up the railway outlook. Railway officers are quoted as estimating a $50,000,000 net operating revenue for the country's entire railway system in June, as against the $11,000,-000 deficit for the same month in 1920. But the "pre-war average" on which the government based its war time guarantee assumed June net operating earnings of $83,000,000. There will be more matter for interest in the net earnings of July, the month in which the labor board's 12 per cent reduction of wages became effective and in which the grain movement to market was unprecedented.

Discuss "Dollar Credits."

Today's foreign exchange market reflected no new influences, yet the exchange situation seems to be passing into a somewhat novel stage. Bankers lately in touch with European high finance have predicted that the policy of continental Europe may increasingly take the direction of establishing "dollar credits." Something like that has apparently happened in this week's much discussed delivery of $10,000,000 gold to the federal reserve banks on account of the Bank of France.

That transaction does not, like last autumn's $108,000,000 gold shipment from the Bank of England, represent transfer to the home vaults of our federal banks of a gold reserve previously held for them in a foreign bank. There has been no such "foreign reserve" since February. The official statement regarding the $10,000,000 gold import asserts it is "designed to establish a dollar credit," and is not likely to be spent by France in this country.

Seek Stable Credit Balance.

Apparently, then, the smiple purpose is to acquire a credit balance in a market where the currency value of the deposit will always be the same. This was the motive which prompted the Russian government in the nineties to build up gold credits in England, France and Germany and which, thoughout the last century, made London the banker and depository for the rest of the outside world.

When London banked for the rest of the world England was always a large exporter as well as importer of gold. But in the present state of foreign currencies none of the outside markets seems at present to want our gold.

CHICAGO STOCK TRANSACTIONS

Chicago stocks were more active yesterday and the trend of prices continued upward. Union Carbide led in activity and advanced 1½ points, but the feature of the day was a gain of 3¼ points in Swift shares, which were influenced by the signal success of the company's new $25,000,000 note flotation and by improvement in the packing industry. Peoples Gas also was active and strong, advancing 1⅝ to 57, while in the New York market the shares gained a major fraction to 56¼. The company is expected to show more favorable earnings with the declining cost of materials and perhaps to resume dividend payments late this year or early next year. Swift International gained a point, Libby-McNeill was fractionally higher and National Leather was steady. On small sales American Shipbuilding was off 2½ and Sears-Roebuck preferred lost a point. Quaker Oats preferred was up a point.

Empire Tank Line Company
Ten-Year 8% Equipment Trust Gold Certificates
(Closed Issue—to be issued under Philadelphia Plan)
Due June 1, 1931 Denominations, $1,000, $500, $100
Price, 99½ and interest—to yield about 8.10%
Guaranteed unconditionally as to principal and interest by endorsement by Empire Gas and Fuel Company

Semi-annual sinking fund of one-twentieth part of the total issue to retire by purchase in the market on or before June 1, 1922, at not more than the redemption price (105 and interest) or by call by lot at 105 and interest, less ½% for each year or part thereof to June 1, 1929, inclusive, and at 101 and accrued interest thereafter to maturity.

PENNSYLVANIA FOUR MILLS TAX REFUNDABLE

SECURITY—These certificates are to be issued by Bankers Trust Company, New York, as Trustee under a Trust Agreement dated June 1, 1921, and are to be secured by title to 2,037 standard steel tank cars, the total replacement value of which, according to independent engineers, is $4,443,820, almost $2,000,000 in excess of the maximum amount of these certificates, and at the conservative rate of less than $1,228 per car. The title to the equipment, until all the Certificates have been paid, is to be held in trust, clear and unencumbered, for the benefit of the Certificate holders, thereby very substantially increasing the equity back of these Certificates upon the application of each semi-annual sinking fund payment.

The equipment is fully covered by insurance under policies to be deposited with the Trustee for the benefit of the Certificate holders. The cars, which have an average age of six years, are in excellent operating condition and will be so maintained by frequent inspection.

The equipment will be leased to the Empire Tank Line Company at a rental sufficient to pay the principal of the Certificates, interest (technically termed "dividends") and other charges as they mature.

GUARANTY—Empire Refining Company will agree under contract with the Empire Tank Line Company to provide business for a period extending beyond the life of this issue, the proceeds from which will be sufficient to pay the principal and interest of the Certificates together with all other charges. Empire Gas and Fuel Company, of which the Empire Refining Company is a subsidiary, will unconditionally guarantee this contract, and furthermore will guarantee by endorsement on each certificate the prompt payment of principal and interest.

EARNINGS—Empire Gas and Fuel Company which is one of the largest oil-producing companies in the United States, and the most important subsidiary of Cities Service Company, officially reports as of May 31, 1921, average net earnings for the past three years (including earnings from properties and subsidiaries now owned), after depreciation and all taxes of $18,051,269.04. For the same period, the average interest charges on the funded debt of these Companies was $1,873,670, and the average annual cash sinking fund requirements $3,986,200.

For the year ended May 31, 1921, Empire Gas and Fuel Company and subsidiaries officially reports net earnings in excess of $18,000,000, and net quick assets over $10,500,000. Interest charges on the funded debt for the same period were $2,292,662, and the cash sinking fund requirements $5,284,800. The maximum annual interest and sinking fund requirements on this issue is $445,000, assuming retirement at par.

These Certificates are offered when, as and if issued and received by us and subject to approval of counsel. Permanent certificates will be ready for delivery on or about August 5, 1921.

All statements herein are official, or are based on information which we regard as reliable, and while we do not guarantee them, they are the data upon which we have acted in the purchase of this security.

Why These Certificates Are a Safe Investment

Secured by Title, Not by Mortgage
To be issued under the Philadelphia Plan, title to the equipment remaining with the Trustee for the benefit of the Certificate holders until all certificates are paid.

Strong Sinking Fund
Sinking Fund will retire all Certificates by maturity (1-10th annually) by purchase or call at not exceeding 105. Thus the equity will increase materially from year to year for while title to the entire 2,037 cars remains as security until all certificates are paid, the debt is constantly decreasing.

$2,000,000 Equity
Security consists of title to 2,037 standard all-steel tank cars, reproduction cost of which is conservatively estimated at almost $2,000,000 more than the total amount of this issue.

Further Secured by Lease, Contract and Guaranty
Equipment will be leased under contract extending beyond the life of the Certificates to the Empire Tank Line Co. at a rental sufficient to pay principal, interest and other charges on the Certificates as they mature. The Empire Refining Co., moreover, agrees under contract to provide business during a period extending beyond the life of this issue, the proceeds from which will be sufficient to pay principal and interest on the Certificates, together with all other charges. Still further security is afforded by the guaranty of this contract and the guaranty by endorsement on each Certificate of the prompt payment of principal and interest, by the EMPIRE GAS & FUEL COMPANY, one of the largest oil producing companies in the United States.

A new top for the season was established in cattle yesterday, forty-nine head of fancy 891 lb. Herefords selling to Wilson & Co. at $10.25, the highest yearlings since March 22, when $10.60 was paid at Chicago. The few strictly choice cattle offered sold strong to 25c higher, while other kinds declined 25c, many plain offerings remaining unsold.

Six carloads of 985@1,050 lb. North Dakota grass range steers, the first Dakota "westerns" of the season, sold at $6.00@6.15. They were thin in flesh, being on the feeder order. According to all reports, comparatively few rangers are expected this month, the prevailing low prices making ranchmen hold their cattle back.

Hog Average Back to $10.65.

Dwindling hog receipts and a generally good demand, both on local and shipping account, added tone to yesterday's trade, with enough advance to carry the average price 10c above Monday and back to last week's high point of $10.65. Packing grades fared better than top kinds, the summit for best light at $11.65 being only 5c above the opening day of the week.

Trade in lambs was fairly active at steady to strong prices, both natives and westerns selling at $10.25. Sheep, however, were too plentiful, and bulk of aged stock sold 25c lower, with instances of 40@50c decline on some Montana wethers, which sold late at $5.25. Some rangers reached $5.60 early in the session.

Seven western markets received 41,000 cattle, 62,000 hogs and 40,000 sheep, against 38,000 cattle, 56,000 hogs and 43,000 sheep the previous Tuesday, and 41,000 cattle, 75,000 hogs and 56,000 sheep a year ago.

Receipts at Chicago for today are estimated at 8,000 cattle, 16,000 hogs and 13,000 sheep, against 8,500 cattle, 18,274 hogs and 18,423 sheep the corresponding Wednesday a year ago.

RAILROAD NOTES

Director General of Railroads Davis announces claims of the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western against the government growing out of federal control have been settled by the payment of $5,000,000 to the railroad.

The Wabash yesterday added twenty-five locomotives to its equipment and beginning today will put these in the freight service between Chicago, St. Louis and Detroit at a new rate of speed. The engines weigh 300 tons each, are more than 90 feet in length and can each pull trains of 150 loaded freight cars at more than sixty miles an hour.

Fourteen dining cars have been purchased by the Union Pacific for service in the Overland and Los Angeles limited trains from Chicago and Omaha to San Francisco and Los Angeles. These cars are the largest ever turned out by the Pullman company, eighty-three feet long and weighing 160,000 pounds each.

Through all-water freight rates between New Orleans and Pensacola, Fla., were announced yesterday by the Mississippi-Warrior service, the government barge line, in connection with the Pensacola, St. Andrews and Gulf Steamship company. The barge line will handle the freight between New Orleans and Mobile, and the steamship company from Mobile to Pensacola. The rates are 20 per cent less than the present all-rail rates.

Wages of employés of the International Railway company of Buffalo were reduced 5 cents an hour yesterday.

Wage of clerical workers employed by Canadian railways were ordered reduced at once $12.24 a month yesterday and those of office boys $10.20. About 35,000 workers are affected. These reductions complete the wage readjustment program proposed in June. They will remain effective pending final negotiations between the companies and their employes regarding post-war wages.

Full time operations in the shops of the Missouri Pacific railroad will be resumed next Wednesday, according to an announcement made yesterday at Sedalia, Mo.

FINANCIAL NOTES

A regular quarterly dividend of $1 per share, par value $25, was announced by the Standard Oil company of California yesterday at San Francisco, payable Sept. 15, 1921, to stockholders of record at the close of business Aug. 20, 1921.

A new issue of $3,500,000 Tidal Osage Oil company ten year 7 per cent guaranteed sinking fund gold bonds was offered yesterday by a syndicate headed by Dillon, Read & Co., at 98¼ and interest yielding about 7¼ per cent. The bonds are guaranteed as to principal, interest, and sinking fund by the Tide Water Oil company, which recently acquired the Guffey-Gillespie Oil company and changed the name to the Tidal Osage Oil company.

Stockholders of the Consumers' company elected four additional directors to the board yesterday, making a total of fifteen. The additions are F. S. Peabody, G. F. Getz, C. T. Boynton, and H. M. Hallock.

All outstanding series "C" consolidated mortgage twenty year bonds of the Chicago Railway company dated Feb. 1, 1907, were called for payment on Aug. 1 at the Merchants' Loan and Trust company. The bonds of this series outstanding amount to about $350,000.

Articles of incorporation were issued by the secretary of state's office yesterday to the Aurora Woolen Mills company, capitalized at $500,000. The incorporators were George W. Boynton, William H. Ziock, and P. Y. Smith.

Several of the leading selling agencies finally have accepted the bids of consumers and have taken orders for copper at 12 cents a pound. It is stated that some consumers are still in the market bidding under 12 cents, but so far as can be learned those bids have not been accepted by important sellers.

Gov. E. F. Morgan of West Virginia will receive sealed bids until Aug. 10 for $15,000,000 5 per cent semi-annual six to twenty-five year serial road bonds.

The Reading Coal and Iron company has advanced its prices on domestic sizes of anthracite 10 cents a ton at the mines as of Aug. 1.

Rochester Gas and Electric.

E. A. McC.—The Rochester Gas and Electric corporation does the entire commercial electric and gas business in the city of Rochester, N. Y., and adjoining communities. It has issued $7,000,000 general mortgage twenty-five year 7 per cent gold bonds which are a direct lien on its entire property subject to $12,519,500 underlying bonds, the amount of which cannot be increased. Franchises are unlimited in time with a few minor exceptions. Net earnings have averaged twice interest charges for twelve years and at present, after providing for replacement reserves, are over two and one-quarter times interest on total funded debt. We consider these bonds an attractive investment for a business man.

Graton & Knight.

S. B.—The 7 per cent cumulative preferred stock of the Graton & Knight Manufacturing company is in a strong position. The company must maintain at all times net current assets equivalent to 120 per cent and total tangible assets equivalent to 200 per cent of par value of preferred stock outstanding. No mortgage can be created without consent of 75 per cent of the outstanding preferred stock. The company is said to be largest manufacturer of leather belting in the world. Conditions in the leather industry doubtless have caused the market price of this stock to fall to its present level.

Shawanigan Water and Power.

C. R.—The Shawinigan Water and Power company's net earnings have increased steadily for the last eleven years. In 1920 they covered the company's total interest charges over three and one-half times. On Dec. 31, 9120, the total funded debt was $13,824,500. There is $20,000,000 of stock which pays 7 per cent dividends. The company's mortgage notes and bonds are a sound investment.

Electric Power Companies

Their Strength As a Type of Investment

From Babson's July Investment Bulletin:

"There is one factor of tremendous importance in favor of these companies. Because their product could not be stored economically, they did not acquire high cost inventories which must be liquidated. In the last twelve months we have seen the most drastic decline in commodity prices ever known. Inability to liquidate tremendous inventories, built up to meet the demand which disappeared when the turning point was reached, has been the chief cause of embarrassment to industrial concerns. The balance sheets, and not the earnings statements, now give the truer measure of the future for business concerns. The balance sheets of power companies, with no high inventory figures, emphasize their strong position."

On this line of reasoning, which will be recognized as authoritative, power companies as a class command the utmost respect as investment mediums. And hydro-electric power companies, because of their saving in fuel and labor costs, are the foremost of their type.

The companies listed below are all producing hydro-electric power. Their bonds are selling at prices which should attract the thoughtful investor who seeks proved issues with yields above the average.

JULIUS ROSENWALD

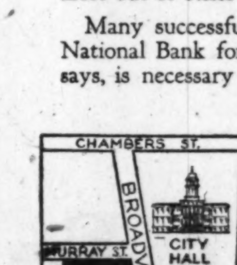

President of Sears, Roebuck & Co., says:

"No one man can do very much by himself."

WITH a close study of the "big feats" that stand out on the pages of business history, comes the realization that the greatest achievements are rarely the work of one man's mind. They are, instead, the fruit of many minds rightly used by one man.

The most successful men are "users" instead of doers. Like Harriman, like Hill, like Eastman, they know how to get the most out of other men's brains to attain the desired results.

Many successful men turn to the Importers and Traders National Bank for the outside advice which, as Rosenwald says, is necessary to every big executive.

Tidal Osage Oil Company

10-Year 7% Guaranteed Sinking Fund Gold Bonds

Tide Water Oil Company

Guarantees Principal, Interest and Sinking Fund by Endorsement

Dated August 1, 1921 Due August 1, 1931

Total Authorized Issue, $3,500,000. Principal, interest and sinking fund payable in gold at the office of First National Bank, New York City. Interest payable February 1 and August 1. In coupon form of $1,000 denomination, with provision for registration of principal. Redeemable at the option of the Company on any interest date after sixty days' notice: On or before August 1, 1924, at 104 and interest, the redemption price decreasing ½ of 1% per annum thereafter. Interest payable without deduction for any Federal Normal Income Tax up to 2%. Pennsylvania four-mill tax refunded. First National Bank, New York City, Trustee.

An annual sinking fund of $437,500, operating quarterly beginning August 1, 1923, will purchase Bonds if available at or under par and interest.

The following information is summarized from a letter from R. D. Benson, Esq., President of Tide Water Oil Company:

BUSINESS: Tide Water Oil Company, incorporated in New Jersey in 1888, constitutes with its subsidiaries a complete and self-contained unit in the petroleum industry, owning oil producing properties, pipe lines, refineries and distribution facilities. Tydol Gasoline and Veedol Lubricating Oil are the company's most widely known products and have a high standing among automobile and truck users.

In order to add to its present and future production, Tide Water Oil Company has purchased 54.8% of the common stock of Guffey-Gillespie Oil Company, the name of which company it is changing to Tidal Osage Oil Company, at a cash cost of more than $4,000,000. The latter Company is entirely a producing company, its properties consisting of large and very valuable producing acreage in the mid-continent field, and a 22½% equity in The Colombia Syndicate, owning approximately 1,000,000 acres of well selected oil territory in Colombia, South America.

SECURITY: Principal, interest and sinking fund of these Bonds are unconditionally guaranteed by endorsement by Tide Water Oil Company, whose net tangible assets, together with its subsidiaries excluding Tidal Osage Oil Company, amounted on March 31, 1921, to more than $57,000,000, after deducting depreciation and other reserves of more than $20,000,000. The price at which the stock of this Company is quoted indicates a market equity in excess of $60,000,000.

The Bonds will comprise the sole funded indebtedness of Tidal Osage Oil Company, and it agrees to place no lien on any of its fixed assets, other than purchase money mortgages for property hereafter acquired, so long as any of these Bonds are outstanding. The cash price paid by Tide Water Oil Company for a majority of the shares of this Company indicates a total equity junior to these Bonds in Tidal Osage Oil Company alone of approximately $7,600,000.

EARNINGS: The consolidated annual net earnings of Tide Water Oil Company and its subsidiaries available for bond interest, before federal taxes but after providing adequate depreciation and depletion reserves, for the year ended December 31, 1920, were $11,291,079, and for the five years ended the same date averaged $10,801,389, being more than ten times annual interest of $1,025,000 on present total funded debt, including these Bonds.

DIVIDENDS: Tide Water Oil Company has paid cash dividends annually since 1889, ranging during the past fifteen years from 8% to 19% per annum.

We offer the above Bonds for delivery when, as and if issued and received by us, subject to the approval of legal proceedings by counsel. It is expected that Temporary Bonds or Interim Receipts of Dillon, Read & Co., exchangeable for Definitive Bonds when received, will be deliverable about August 20, 1921.

$490,000 DEAL LEASES IRVING PARK LANDMARK

Two ninety-nine year leases for Irving Park property, involving the expenditure of $799,000, the result of which will be the improvement of two prominent street intersections with modern buildings, were made yesterday.

Incidentally one of the deals is an answer to the question among Irving Parkers as to what is to become of the huge tract of land on the northwest corner of Irving Park boulevard and Crawford avenue, on which, like a page out of yesterday, stands a picturesque mansion of the early 80's. The site has been leased by George W. Prassas from Leander Reed Brown for a term rental of $490,000. The lessee will erect a store, office and apartment building to cost about $100,000. The lessor is a son of Dr. E. A. Brown, one of the original subdividers of Irving Park. Mr. Prassas will also put up a store, flat, and office building on the northwest corner of Irving Park boulevard and North Harding avenue at a cost of about $75,000.

The second lease is for the southwest corner of Irving Park boulevard and Kedzie avenue and is taken by John S. and George S. Maheras, owners of a confectionery business. The total rental for the ninety-nine years is $309,000. The lessors are Louis and Francis E. Manierre.

Loop Building in Deal.

The Novelty Shoe company, occupying the five story and basement structure at 31 South Wells street, is purchasing the building from Julius Strauss and Dora K. Frank, trustees, for an indicated $112,500, according to an agreement filed with the county recorder. Improvements amounting to about $15,000 are to be made, after which the firm will occupy the first and second floors and basement, renting the upper floors.

Robert Goldstein has negotiated a loan of $350,000 for ten years at 7 per cent, giving the Chicago Title & Trust company a trust deed to the Eastwood Beach apartments, 811-13-15-17 Eastwood avenue, as security.

Buys North Side Flats.

Ida Kramer is the purchaser of the twenty-four apartment building on the northeast corner of Jonquil terrace and Paulina street for a reported $125,000, subject to $67,000. The sellers are David Angus and John Cameron. John W. Dunklau was the broker.

Frank G. Gustavson has purchased as an investment the vacant property, 200x169 feet, at 405-23 East Erie street, from Mildred E. Lindskog for an indicated $75,000. Hedberg and Bistor were the brokers.

PAIGE
REBUILT CARS
Prices Reduced

When Bird-Sykes say "rebuilt Paige" they do not mean merely "shined up," "tightened up," and "tuned up." Rebuilt in the Bird-Sykes shop means taking apart motors, transmission, and rear axle—measuring or testing parts to determine wear — replacing worn parts with new—rebuilding—adjusting—tuning up—repainting body — refinishing top and upholstery. That is why a Bird-Sykes rebuilt Paige satisfies the eye as a new car and its performance is the same as new.

Guaranteed by Bird-Sykes.

Every rebuilt Paige is guaranteed by Bird-Sykes to be as represented and in perfect mechanical condition, and if anything turns out unsatisfactory within a reasonable time Bird-Sykes make it good without cost to the purchaser.

Easy Terms—No Brokerage Charge.

We do not ask our customers to pay the exorbitant rates charged by so-called automobile bankers in order to buy of us on deferred payments. You can buy a Bird-Sykes Rebuilt Paige on easy terms, paying only ordinary bank interest rates on deferred payments.

PAIGE 6-55. 7 PASSENGER TOURING. Rebuilt and refinished deep maroon. Car shows very careful handling. Top, upholstery and general condition excellent. One of the roomiest cars we have ever turned out, making an ideal car for the family. Just the thing for a vacation trip. Easy riding because of long cantilever rear springs [52 inches]. Has the famous Continental 10D engine. Equipment all that could be asked for; good cord tires, one extra, wire wheels, bumper, cross arm motometer, beveled edge windshield wings, lock, full factory tool equipment. Come prepared to buy as this is an especially good bargain. Just a few weeks ago this type of car sold for $1,800. Now $1,450.

PAIGE 6-55. 1920. 7 PASSENGER SEDAN. Rebuilt in our own shops and refinished. Looks like new. Bright parts all renickeled. This car has a Continental engine, which assures you of maximum power, economy, and reliability. Coach condition excellent. Velour upholstery shows little or no wear. Vanity cases, cigar lighter, heater, 2 bumpers, cord tires etc. This luxurious car has been used but very little and cannot be told from a new car. Price $2,550.

We have also recovered the top in our trim shop and replated all bright parts. This car has the appearance of a new automobile and will carry our standard guarantee. JORDAN
USED CAR DIVISION.

Suspicion!

That word, unfortunately, describes the attitude of 90 per cent of those good people who today would buy a good used car if they had complete confidence in the man who offered it for sale and the price at which he offered it.

It has always been the policy of our organization, in dealing with used car purchasers, to keep in mind that fine regard for the good name of Jordan which has always been associated with the sale of new Jordan cars.

We now publicly reiterate this policy! It assures prospective used car purchasers of a complete confidence in the character of the car, in the condition of the car, and in the price at which it will be sold.

To the man who personally inquires we pledge the truth about these automobiles. If you've been waiting for a real buy, how about these?

OPEN ARMOR[IES] AS HERO HO[...] PLEA TO S[...]

Survey Ordered [...] by Governor

BY ARTHUR M. EV[ANS]

An appeal that the natio[nal guard] armories be thrown open [...] for jobless ex-service men [...] late yesterday to Gov. Small [...] Gen. Dickson by Theodore [...] post of the American Legion [...] came back from Springfield [...] governor has instructed the [...] ment of labor to start a surv[ey of the] unemployment situation in C[hicago to] determine whether the armori[es should] be opened for shelter.

The telegram from T. R. [...] governor was signed by Joh[n ...]tle Jr., commander, and read:

"Unemployment situation [...] frightful. Hundreds of world [war vet]erans walking the street[s] homeless, hopeless. Someth[ing must] be done immediately. Theodo[re Roose]velt post, American Legion, [...] have national guard armorie[s opened] at once as homes for these [...] feel the state should do this [...] its appreciation."

"Chow" Also Needed

It is suggested that if [the armories] are opened for men, many [...] sleep in the park when the [...] is not too wet, cots can [be ob]tained either from the govern[ment sup]ply houses or by purchase [...] being retailed for 39 cents [at] present—and that some [...] vision might be made for [...] substantial chow for the [...] so long as they are out of [work].

It would insure the jo[bless] a place to sleep and a [...] washbasin or shower and [...] to circumvent hunger wh[...] trail of w[...] little enoug[h ...] boys who did the fighting [...] rest of the country was [...] ging down high wages or [...] time profits.

Policing [...] be one of th[...] but the ex-soldiers say org[...] that purpose will be easy [...]

In Detroit for a year or [...] pointed out, the city has [...] care of 1,000 or so soldiers [in] this manner.

Pro and Con of Pla[n]

Some question has been [...] social agencies and even by [...] the soldier organizations [...] whether the use of the arm[ories would] be a wise move. Some social [...] pull the old theoretical stuff [...] furnish meals and shelter m[...] to lower the initiative of the [...] seeking employment—nobody [...] that way when the lads we[re in the] army. Some of the soldier [organiza]tions question the wisdom of [...] posal on the ground that [...] work might be too indiscrim[inate ...] by making open house mig[ht ...] men to Chicago who have lit[tle chance] for work. But advocates of [...] say it is the quickest, easiest [...] expensive way of dealing [...] situation.

Whichever way it goes, it [...] hammer home the need for [...] hensive and systematic effort [...] with the unemployment situati[on].

Unemployment on Gain

Unemployment at the begin[ning of] August is greater than at the [begin]ning of January. So far the[re has] been no upward movement [in em]ployment taken as a whole, al[though] beneath the surfaces adjustme[nts are] going on that will accelerate [re]sumption of industry when [...] starts. At present a c[...] estimate is that in the Chic[ago in]dustrial district at least 150,000 [...] earners are affected by unemp[loyment]. Most of these are without any [...] some get one or two days' [work a] week, payrolls being divided [to] spread the jobs over as many [as] possible. In the Calume[t region] alone—South Chicago to Gary [it is] estimated 55,000 men are out o[f work].

Everybody is looking for th[e ...] to start turning with a rush o[...] begin. But cranking up is [...] little improvement in basic lin[es ...] steel and iron has been of gr[eat sig]nificance, but it takes some ti[me for] this to spread out in the sh[ape of in]creased general employment. [...] look for an upward swing to [...] September, but whether it start[s ...] or later than this, the great [proba]bility is that the coming cold [...] will see much unemployment. [...] industry swings toward a real [...] in the winter, the analysts [...] considerable joblessness.

Prepare for Rough Winter

Last winter unemployment fou[nd ...] jobless with money in pocket or [...] bank, but the slump has been [...]
